Regardless of existing conditions on the campus this year the civilians are still going to carry on the annual intramural basketball tournament. At first it was supposed that because there was not enough interest on the part of the students the league wouldn't be in operation this year. There are only six teams in the league, but with the limited time left for the games each team will have full schedule up until the time of examinations.

In other years the teams were mostly house teams but this year there aren't any houses to enter a team, except Steiwer hall; and we think that for the small number of civilian males on the campus they did very well to have six teams—five independent and one house.

The next games on the schedule for the Webfoots will be the games Monday and Tuesday nights with the Idaho Vandals on the floor of the Igloo. The Ducks have defeated the Vandals twice already, once by the decisive score of 78 to 42, and they appear capable enough to meet anything that the Vandals send to meet them.

The Webfoots are at present tied for second place in the league standings with Idaho. The coming series between the two teams will give undisputed possession to one of them if the series is swept.

Students as well as officials will feel the loss of such an able educator. A search has been undertaken for a qualified man to assume the position vacated by Dr. Jones, according to Dr. Gilbert, dean of the college of liberal arts and science.

Dr. Gilbert, commenting on his departure, said:

"During his three years at the University of Oregon Dr. Jones has won the respect of the faculty and placed the work of his department on a high plane. Already fortified by a wide acquaintance throughout the state and established contacts with public officials, he was in a position to serve the state in the training and placement of students preparing for public service."

(Continued from page one) The council approved an active correspondence with student body officers of other Pacific coast schools concerning their government. Letters to these officers will be sent out during the next week. Mary Bentley, senior representative, was named to the council.

Suggestion was made and approved that the results of this correspondence be surveyed and compared with present University student government.

The Total Victory league was given unanimous support by the council, and permission to incorporate the League's forum outline with those of the regular ASUO forums was granted for spring term.

'Union' Petitions Deadline Today

Petitions for the Student Union building class committees to serve as units in cooperation with the all-campus committee must be turned in to Marty Beard, secretary, by 5 p. m. today, Gene Conklin, chairman of the all-campus board announced yesterday.

Members of previous Student Union committees, now disbanded, will be considered for the new committees if they will petition again.

The purpose of the class committees is to popularize the Student Union building project within the class, and committee members will remain in their positions during their University work.

Selection of committee members will be made by the all-campus board tomorrow at 4 p. m. Petitions should include a statement of interest in the Student Union building containing ideas on the use and plan of the building; an activity list, and GPA. The petition must be accompanied by an eligibility slip from the dean of women's office.

Yesterday the all-campus committee met to discuss activities for the spring term and also the prospects of a Student Union page in the spring issue of the Emerald.

other details of the campus bond drive. Miss Frideger told the assembled Portlanders about the campus war board and its functions. Backstage they were introduced to Mr. Wallace.

The program here Saturday at which Mr. Mature will appear will be at the McDonald theater. The purchase of a $18.75 war bond is necessary for admission. Alfred Hitchcock's new film, "Lifeboat" will be shown on the screen.

Miss Frideger brought back a picture of Mr. Mature on which he had written:

"To Jean. You are to be commended for your wonderful job of selling war bonds. We boys in uniform overseas need more soldiers like you back home. Sincerely, Victor Mature."

The Fiends, led by Gloria Marchi and Pat Eakin, declared that "Frankie soothes our secret souls." Mary Elizabeth Davis and Shirley Sparks, speaking for the In-Betweeners, solemnly stated that "Frankie's all right occasionally, but we'd rather hear Bing."

It was whispered around the house that the flare-up Monday and the subsequent division of the house into these three factions would have grave effects upon the house elections scheduled for Thursday night.

No, the browsing room is room 203, Chapman hall. Every morning, between eight and either 9 or 10 o'clock, the air corps assembles to listen and learn about physics, geography, or history.

The boys then take out pen and paper and start taking notes. Soon, however, the more intellectual students have taken up a characteristic slump and one knows that they are fast asleep. Neither fire nor Captain Cable could awaken them. It was only a couple of days ago that we noted some of the more subtle techniques in action (or perhaps inaction).

Some of the boys have mastered the art of sleeping with their eyes open. R. B. Smith is a good example of this school of thought. On the other hand there are guys like Lewis and Lundy. Lewis sleeps with his mouth open, while Lundy sleeps with his eyes closed. Of course, by far the most interesting type is the man who can sleep with his eyes open and appear to be taking notes. We haven't quite mastered the technique yet, but we're working on it.
