

Mother Goose in War Theme Chosen for Junior Weekend

By JEAN TAYLOR

"Mother Goose Goes to War" this year, as all of the University of Oregon campus begins preparations for its celebration of a wartime Junior Weekend.

The secret was out Monday when Anne Craven and Edith Newton, co-chairmen of Junior Weekend, announced that Charles Politz, junior in journalism, and Bill Buell, junior in liberal arts, had conceived the winning theme for the 1944 Junior Weekend. The $5 prize was awarded them for their effort and its results.

"Mother Goose Goes to War" will be used as the theme throughout the weekend, according to Miss Newton. Plans are getting underway this week for a program which will approximate that of other years.

The fourth annual All-Campus Sing, under the chairmanship of Arliss Boone, junior in journalism, is scheduled for Friday night, May 5. In addition to the usual singing competition among the choruses of the various living organizations, Miss Boone has announced that there will also be presented a program of skits provided by both civilian and army students.

The Terrace Dance, a part of Junior Weekend which was not held last year, will be revived, to be held Saturday afternoon. Marion Schaefer, business administration, will head the committee in charge. The terrace in front of the library will be the dance floor, and the dance, according to Miss Schaefer, will run from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Following the Terrace Dance will be the Campus Picnic on the old campus, under the chairmanship of Flora Kibler, liberal arts. The picnic will be held from about 5 to 7, during which time this year's Junior Weekend queen and her court will be formally presented. The coronation of the queen will be held at that time.

Allen's Influence Recalled By Hoyt

In a quiet and reverent atmosphere, a few words honoring the memory of Dean Eric W. Allen of the journalism school were spoken at memorial services in the music auditorium Sunday afternoon.

"We, of the press of Oregon, feel that Eric Allen is particularly ours, by training in his early years and in thinking in his later years. He believed in newspapers and ever was anxious to improve them. Oregon journalism is undoubtedly better for his having lived, and for his having lived in Oregon," said Palmer Hoyt, managing editor of The Oregonian, who represented the press of the state.

Speaking for the faculty, W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising, told of the dean's life more in relation to those among whom he lived. During the 30 years since he came here and founded the school of journalism, the newspaper conference was established, and as the first graduates began to join professional ranks, there came final convincing evidence of the success of the school. He was a great student, an idealist, but not a dreamer. He was a moralist and reformer, intensely committed to society, said Mr. Thacher.

The Allens were an unpretentious family. They lived their lives, raised their children, and left their imprints on us, pointed out William Tugman, managing editor of the Register-Guard, who represented the community. He was responsible indirectly for many civic

Song Titles Due Friday

Titles of songs to be sung by living organizations at the fourth annual All-Campus Sing to be presented May 5 during Junior Weekend must be turned in to Arliss Boone, chairman of the sing, at Alpha Chi Omega before Friday at 5, it was announced today.

Miss Boone asked that the songs be as nearly as possible in keeping with the theme "Mother Goose Goes to War." She cautioned that living organizations should begin working on their songs as soon as possible.

This year, aside from the entertainment provided by the musical competition between houses, special enjoyment will be offered parents and friends visiting the University for the weekend. The innovation which Miss Boone plans for the Sing, will be student-presented skits.

Anyone, including soldier-students who will be on the campus at the time of Junior Weekend, who has a skit which he would like to present should contact Arliss Boone, 1307, as soon as possible.

The skits may be of any type, running from 10 to 25 minutes, Miss Boone said. She urges that groups or individuals contact her soon, so that definite plans for the All-Campus Sing may get underway.

Social Leaders to Meet

All social chairmen will meet at 4 p.m. this afternoon in the alumni room, Gerlinger, Mrs. Alice MacDuff announced.

Ocean Hitch-Hiker, Alum, Suggests Traffic Control

Hitchhiking on six different ships in five days across the Central Pacific ocean trying to find his "home" carrier after being shot down at Kwajalein, Ensign Clyde J. Lee, a member of Oregon's football team in 1942 and a navy torpedo bomber pilot, is in favor of a traffic control policeman in the busy war theater between Pearl Harbor and Truk.

NUMBER 83

Phyllis Horstman New Secretary of ASUO

Phyllis Horstman, former junior class representative of the ASUO executive council, was unanimously appointed as secretary of the council Monday, Nancy Ames, ASUO president, announced.

Miss Horstman will succeed Martha Jane Switzer, who was graduated last term and resigned her position. This advancement of Miss Horstman to the number four position in the council leaves open the position of junior representative and petitions for this office are now open.

To be eligible, a student must have two terms at the University, 74 hours of credit, and an eligibility slip from the dean of men or women. Petitions should be given to Jean Page, first vice president of the council, at the Pi Beta Phi house by Thursday noon.

During her freshman year, Miss Horstman was a member of the freshman student union committee and ticket chairman of the Frosh Glee. She was president of Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary, ticket chairman for the sophomore Whiskerino, co-chairman of the Co-op receipt committee of the campus war board, and co-chairman of the Christmas Seal committee during her sophomore year.

This year she is a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, chairman of the hospitality committee of the war board, chairman of the Junior Prom, outgoing treasurer of AWS, a member of the campus coordinating board, and she chairmanned several campus drives. Her appointment leads to speculation as to whether she will be a candidate for a 1944-45 ASUO position.

Wednesday night open house will be continued, according to the vote of the council. Each Wednesday five houses will be open to soldiers and civilians, beginning with the first five houses listed in the student director, Alder lodge, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Alpha Omicron Pi.

Dr. Smith Goes To Washington

With a background of nearly 12 years in the Philippines and travel in the orient, Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University geology and geography department, is going to Washington, D.C., this summer as research analyst in the Far Eastern section of the office of strategists services.

Dr. Smith doesn't know exactly what his work will be, except that it will concern the Far East. Due to report the first of June, he expects to stay until October 1.

"Whether I stay on depends on developments in the Far East and other things," said Dr. Smith, "but I expect to come back." Depending on transportation, his daughter, Phoebe, a junior and Pi Phi on the campus, may accompany him to visit relatives.

In 1905 Dr. Smith went to the Philippines, where he was geologist for the Philippine government and chief of mines, bureau of science. According to Dr. Smith, this bureau was the largest institution for tropical research in the Orient, and perhaps in the world. It carried on all scientific work for the government. Half of his work took him all over the islands.

Campus Goal $1000 in Drive

With a $1000 goal set for the 1944 Red Cross membership drive and a cup to be kept until 1945 to be awarded to the house turning in the most money, the campus campaign begins Wednesday, according to Dorothy Rasmussen, general chairman.

Records of any kind totaling $3 will be awarded to the house contributing the second largest amount and another week of close neck-and-neck competition between the living organizations is foreseen by the chairmen.

Kwamas will man tables placed at strategic positions on the campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday and contributions will be taken there. In order to catch any odd change, jars will be found in the Side, Taylor's and the Co-op.

All house Red Cross representatives are to meet in the Red Cross room in Gerlinger at 4 today for final instructions. Daily reports from the representatives are to be telephoned to Mary K. Minor, 2900, and the amounts collected from each house will be listed in the Emerald each day. A large poster in the Co-op will display day-to-day recordings of the house results.

Everyone contributing 10 cents or more will be given small flag pins; Red Cross membership cards are given for contributions of a dollar or more. The annual membership drive will last until Wednesday, March 29.

Sinatra Type Not For Pinza

By LOUISE MONTAG

"Sinatra? Never heard Sinatra!" exclaimed Ezio Pinza, strapping six-foot opera basso, in an interview after his concert Monday night in McArthur court.

In Philadelphia he had a stage-door encounter which suggested the Sinatra type. As he came out after an appearance a lady marine kissed him heartily. He termed it "silly."

"Women are my hobby, but I never sing thinking to impress women. I can't sing with that intention," he commented with a gleam in his eye.

He doesn't think of women when he sings, he protested, but about what he's singing. When the song's about women? Then he thinks about the music, he said.

The biggest wolf in opera is Don Giovanni in that opera, remarked the handsome Italian after his accompanist explained that a wolf was a Casanova. Does he like the role? "Very much!" he replied with enthusiasm. "Don Giovanni
