

Amphibian Show Set For Junior Weekend

Plans have been under way several weeks now for the Amphibian swimming program, to begin the Junior Weekend festivities Friday, May 5, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Gerlinger pool. "The enthusiasm and hard work shown by the Amphibians the past few weeks promises an entertaining evening for both Amphibian members and their guests," remarked Dorotha E. Moore, instructor in physical education and adviser to the group.

This decision was reached last night at a business meeting where 23 active members held formal initiation for six pledges, presenting them with the official "A" pin and a corsage.

The Amphibian swimming program is under the direction of coordinating chairmen Doris Trask, practice groups; Pat Ferguson, art and property groups; and Charleen Browne, work and planning groups.

Activity program committee for guests includes: Bobbie Edwards, chairman, Jean Sutherland, Jeanne Fitzgerald, Allison Hales, and Rosemary Alber. Wanda Lu Payne, chairman, and Bette Hinds are in charge of refreshments. Handling ushering will be June Rogers, chairman, Milo Woodward, and Eva Anderson. Betty Bush is chairman of the properties committee, assisted by Janece Thompson. In charge of programs is Mary Lu Welsh, with Marie Morgan and Maurine Straub as aides. Publicity

Scholarships, Grants-in-Aid Available for War Workers

Opportunities for professional training with expenses paid or with partial financial assistance through scholarships and grants-in-aid are being offered in many essential war time occupations, according to a letter published by the Western Personnel service received by the personnel department.

Federal funds are available through the U. S. Cadet Nurse corps for girls desiring to start or complete their training for professional nursing or for those who wish to take post-graduate study in special nursing fields. Under this program young women, 17 to 35, may receive their tuition, fees, maintenance, and uniforms, plus monthly allowances from $15 to

Willis C. Warren Sworn into Navy

Acting Librarian Willis C. Warren will leave Wednesday, April 12, for the University of Arizona at Tucson to attend navy officer indoctrination school. Mr. Warren was sworn in as a lieutenant, junior grade, in Portland on March 13. He does not know yet exactly what his work as a deck officer will be.

His successor at the library has not been officially named; that announcement will come next week.

Mr. Warren has been acting librarian since August, 1942. Before that time, 1930 to 1934, and since 1935, he has served in various capacities on the campus. He received his B.A. degree from the University in 1930, and his M.A. in 1934. In 1935 he received his certificate of librarianship from the University of California.

His family will remain in Eugene.

$30 according to length of training time.

In return for this training, members of the corps agree to remain in nursing for the duration of the war. A list of 1,300 accredited schools of nursing through which application may be made is available from the National Nursing Council for War Service, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

The American Red Cross offers two scholarship programs to graduate students. The first scholarship is for second year graduate social work students interested in specializing in psychiatric or medical social work and willing to accept after nine months of graduate training, positions with the Red

Writer to Speak

Assembly at 4 Features War Experiences

Author, foreign correspondent, teacher, Mrs. Lise Lindbaek, speaker at today's assembly, has been a foreign correspondent since she was 19 years old. Her talk will consist mainly of her experiences in covering world-wide events such as the burning of the Reichstag, League of Nation conventions, and the fall of Paris. The assembly will be held at 4 this afternoon in 205 Chapman.

A native of Norway, Mrs. Lindbaek came to the University to teach Norwegian to foreign area and language students. She has written several books on Norway and is now working on one describing the life and work of Norwegians in this country, especially in war work.

Members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism honorary, are sponsoring the assembly. Penny Nichols, president of the group, stressed that this is an all-campus assembly, and not necessarily just for journalism students.

Religion Group Chooses Head

Maureen Conklin, sophomore in architecture and allied arts, was elected president of the University student religious council at their last meeting. Lois Clause, junior in English, was chosen vice-president, which puts her in charge of the University vesper services held monthly.

Other officers elected for this campus-wide coordinating council for religious activities are treasurer, Lucille R. Bryant, junior in business administration, and secretary, Betty Lou Cramer, junior in liberal arts.

Retiring officers are Eleanor L. Scott, president, Betty-Jean Taylor, secretary, and Alyce M. Pepion, treasurer. Their work during the past year had included the sponsorship and promotion of the University vesper choir under the direction of Helen Luvaas and the vesper services. They have also promoted the World Student Service fund and other inter-faith cooperative enterprises.

Arrangement and promotion of the annual Easter sunrise service is another activity in which the council takes part. The service this year will be held in McArthur court at 6:45 Sunday.

Names for Princesses Due Tomorrow Noon

Names of all candidates for Junior Weekend princesses must be turned in to Carol Wicke at the Alpha Delta Pi house by noon Friday. Girls must be members of the junior class and have a GPA of 2.00 to be eligible for candidacy.

Greeks, Independents Wait For Nominations

By ANNE CRAVEN

Independent and Greek leaders have adopted a policy of watchful waiting after bombshelling the campus with news of selection of candidates over a week ago, and almost three weeks before the date of nominations. Greek leaders met earlier than usual "to get the nominations over with" and then sat back waiting for the ISA list, only to be jolted out of their seats a few days later with the announcement that Audrey Holliday, a member of the Greek bloc, had chosen to run without backing.

Men to Assemble

An assembly of all men students of the University will be held at 5 p.m. today at Steiwer hall, at which time certain matters of especial interest to the male portion of the student body will be discussed. It is urged that as many men as possible attend this meeting.

Odeon Rehearsal Set for Saturday

All contributors to Odeon, all readers, prospective readers, performers, and committee members, are asked to attend a rehearsal of the whole program in the music auditorium at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 8.

The actual performance will take place that evening at 8 and will consist of a program of original short stories, poems, essays, dance performances, and musical compositions which will last between an hour and a half and two hours, after which the audience will adjourn to Gerlinger to witness the art exhibits.

Refreshments will be served at Gerlinger by Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary.

Following this, ISA members got on the band wagon by choosing their nominees, and failing to find someone to run for number one spot, announced that the independents would endorse Holliday. Now both sides, with nothing else to do, are just marking time until the nomination assembly, to be held April 13. All declarations of intention to run and certificates of eligibility must be turned in to Nancy Ames, ASUO president, or the educational activities office in McArthur court before midnight, Monday.

Last year, the ASUO and class nominations were made at separate places and times but this year's policy has not been announced yet.

Ten of the 28 houses on the campus are not represented among the list of candidates, while Kappa Kappa Gamma, Highland house, and Orides are the only houses that have more than one person up for office, so far. The lineups are as follows: ASUO president,

Rebec Improves After Operation

Dr. George Rebec, professor emeritus of philosophy, is improving and getting stronger after an operation due to phlebitis, Mrs. Clara L. Fitch, secretary of the graduate division, learned this week. Her information came from Dr. John F. Bovard, a good friend of Dr. Rebec, and former dean of the school of education here.

Dr. Bovard is now on the faculty of UCLA, and has been able to see the retired University man every day at the White Memorial hospital in Los Angeles.

"He has amazing ability to take it considering his age and previous

Red Cross Dressing Room Moved Again

The Red Cross surgical dressing room, which has been moved to what was formerly the soldiers' recreation room on the third floor of Gerlinger across the hall from the old room, will be open again on Saturday from 9 to 12. Carol Wicke, head of the Red Cross, urged all coeds on the campus to make that date their response to the call for service.

Miss Wicke also announced that the executive committee of the newly-organized campus unit will meet tonight, 6:30, in the new Red Cross room.
