Brazilian Star Last In Series

Bidu Sayao, Brazilian coloratura soprano, who will sing at McArthur court Wednesday night at 8:15, will be the last of the featured artists sponsored by the educational activities board for this academic year.

Miss Sayao's tour started last fall in Atlantic City and was interrupted by her appearance at the Met through January and February. Until last summer, when she stayed in America, she had not had two months of vacation since beginning her career.

This summer she hopes to spend a month fishing and swimming and resting in Maine. Usually when the season ends in Europe or the United States, she returns to South America where the opera season is just beginning.

In the words of Time magazine, she is the "Metropolitan's most decorative recruit in years." She is tiny, slim, dark-eyed and has reddish hair. Reports refer to her as "typically Latin in looks."

She is also known as one of the world's best-dressed women. She prefers the North American style of clothing.

She has commented, "For once it's an ill wind that's blowing North and South Americans some good. The war has blacked out Europe's art. So North Americans are rushing south and South Americans are rushing north. Through your writers and singers and composers and dancers you will learn

Boxing, Wrestling On Smoker Card

Three boxing bouts and one wrestling match have so far been scheduled for the all-men's smoker Friday night at 8:30 in McArthur court, Jim Lund, freshman in business administration, reports. Lund is in charge of arranging the fight card.

Headlining the program will be the wrestling match "to a finish" between Howard J. "Nick" Weddle, flashy freshman in physical education, and Milt Sparks, freshman in architecture and allied arts. Rivaling this match are the fistic shows to be put on by Gordon Gellatly, sophomore in liberal arts, and Jack Gahlringer, jr., sophomore in liberal arts; Ray Morrison and Curtis Eutterfield, freshman in liberal arts; and Jack Lauderback, freshman in architecture and allied arts, and Bob Johnson, freshman in liberal arts.

All these lads are known to be scrappy battlers and eager "mixers," and most of them have had a long string of high school and other amateur bouts to their credit.

Nancy Ames Talks to Rallies

Pre-election rallies were held last night by both Greeks and Independents. The Independents started things off in Gerlinger hall at 6:30 and finished up just as the Greeks gathered in front of Johnson hall a little after 7. Nancy Ames, ASUO president, spoke to both groups. The text of her speech—exactly the same for the two sides—is printed on the editorial page.

Frosh Nominate Class Candidates In Short Meeting

In a short 20-minute meeting Monday in Chapman hall the freshman class nominated four candidates for first and second class positions for next year.

President Leon Williams opened the meeting and gave a short financial report that the freshman dance netted approximately $30. Nominations were then opened.

Greek nominee for president is Barbara Pearson, majoring in liberal arts. She was nominated by Beverly Carroll, freshman class vice-president.

Alice Buckingham, freshman class secretary, was nominated by Nannette Meehan, president of Laurel lodge, as ISA candidate for president.

For second position the Greeks nominated Jean Lawrence, journalism major. ISA candidate for second position is Elizabeth Haugen, also a journalism major.

Vote Today

We thought it proper to publish this note,

Though we had to go into rhyme: No matter how often you plan to vote

Only check one ballot at a time.

Corralling all available cars and noise makers, Independents rallied their forces at Gerlinger hall last night immediately after dinner.

A snowball rally picked up members of the various lodges by foot and by auto, and they continued to Gerlinger where the candidates were gathered. Master of ceremonies, Alice Buckingham, helped add to the enthusiasm with her antics. She introduced the candidates and others who assisted on the program.

A "Greek," dressed in long robe and wreath, entered during the meeting, made her way to the stage, and disrobed, revealing a sign over her red flannels, saying, "I'm an Independent."

A box of candy went to Laurel lodge, judged highest of all houses present in lung-power, for their contributions to the cheering.

Following the main rally at Gerlinger Independents coeds formed a serpentine snowball and wound their way over the campus to the

Judiciary Committee Allows Soldier Vote

University students, both civilian and soldier, will go to the polls today to pick campus leaders for the coming year. Voting will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the YMCA hut.

At a meeting of the judiciary committee Monday afternoon, it was decided by a unanimous vote that all undergraduate students enrolled in the University under the military program are automatically members of the ASUO and are therefore entitled to vote in the elections.

'For You' Chosen As Top Tune Here

Decorations at the Frosh Glee Saturday night disclosed the number one song of the campus to 160 people attending. A large replica of the first measures of "For You," voted first by Oregon students, was placed on the stage in Gerlinger hall.

Leonard Ray's orchestra with Sue Welch, vocalist, featured also the second and third place winners, "I Love You" and "Poinciana."

Library Contest To Begin May 6

Students will once again have a chance to display their libraries at the annual undergraduate student library contest, which will commence May 6, 1944. At that time, all displays will have to be arranged in space allotted them in the library by 10 a.m., and will remain on display until 6 p.m., Sunday, May 7.

The Association of Patrons and Friends of the University of Oregon Library and the University of Oregon Co-operative store are sponsoring this contest which judges the best personal library among the undergraduate students. The prizes have been set as follows:

First prize, $15 in books, offered by the Co-op store; second prize, $10 in books, offered by the Association of Patrons and Friends of the Library; and third prize, $5 in books offered by the association.

All entries must be made by 6 p.m., Friday, May 4, at the circulation desk in the library, stating the name of the contestant, the number of books and general nature of the collection. Students are reminded that each book must bear some definite mark of owner-

The committee consisted of Calvin C. Crumbaker, professor of economics, A. B. Stillman, professor of business administration, K. J. O'Connell, associate professor of law, Betty Lee Stuart, senior in liberal arts, and Harry Skerry, first vice-president of the ASUO.

Polling books have been prepared and all names will be checked off as the students vote. The soldiers must present their permanent passes as identification and the civilians, their educational activities cards. Civilian students have been requested to vote in the early morning so that the soldiers will have a chance to vote.

Top honors Tuesday will go to either Audrey Holliday, backed by the ISA, or Phyllis Horstman, Greek candidate. Those campaigning for the vice-presidential spots are Jean Taylor, Greek, and Adele Riggs, Independent. Only one candidate, Ruth Van Buskirk, Greek, is up for number three position.

Running for representative posts on the ASUO executive council are Alyson Hales, Greek, and Anne Craven, ISA, for senior; Gene Conklin, ISA, and Phyllis Evans, Greek, for junior; and Leon Williams, ISA, and Florence Hintzen, Greek, for sophomore.

In the class elections, Marty Beard and Arliss Boone are the Greek candidates for senior class offices and Alice Harter and Edith Newton are running on the ISA ticket. Vieing for junior class offices are Esther Griffiths and Charlotte Calder for the ISA and Virginia Wright and Marilyn Holder for the Greeks.

Barbara Pearson and Jean Lawrence, Greek, and Alice Buckingham and Elizabeth Haugen, Independent, are candidates for the sophomore class positions.

Voting will be by preferential ballot for both ASUO and class offices.
