

CAROL WICKE . . .
... and the Red Cross charter.

Carol Wicke . . . Red Cross Chairman Remembers Poi, Palms

By MARGUERITE WITTEWER

Brown-skinned native girls in colorful sarongs kneeling on the ground under the palm trees making poi, lithe boys paddling swift outdoor canoes on the blue water, ginger blossoms and gardenias everywhere in profuse bloom, all at the Alpha Delta Pi house. No, it isn't another dream of the lady in the dark, those are just the print designs on Carol Wicke's housecoat.

And this lady of the dark hair and eyes feels very much at home in those Pacific island surroundings because twenty years ago Miss Wicke, head of the campus Red Cross and junior majoring in romance languages, was born in Kahului on Maui of the Hawaiian islands.

Carol would do all right in a grass skirt, too; while going to Maui schools she took nine years of dancing lessons including everything from tap to the native hula. "I love to dance but not in front of an audience, although for a while I thought I'd be a dancing teacher. Now I'm studying language here but I don't have any definite plans about what I'll do when I graduate except go back to Hawaii. You just can't plan anything now. I've considered going into the cadet nurse corps but I want to go home first; it'll be four years since I've seen my parents.

Pearl Harbor

"I was sitting in my room here that December 7 when one of the girls burst in and said the Japs were attacking Pearl Harbor. 'That isn't a very good joke,' I said. 'It's true!' she answered and I spent the rest of the day sitting by the radio waiting for more bulletins to come in. I cabled Mother that I wanted to come home immediately but she said it would be safer to stay in school. . . . It wasn't long before I wanted to do something to help so when Caroline Holmes started a course for Red Cross instructors I got interested in that and just stuck to it."

Carol came to the University because she wanted to go to a school away from home and the usual things but still she wanted a contact with the islands. The Hawaiian club here was the big drawing card which determined her selection of Oregon. Not interested in politics or sports, her main activity has been the Red Cross and her efforts on its behalf have helped establish on the campus the University's own Red Cross unit. Concerning the Student Union building, Miss Wicke has one unrelenting request; there must be a Red Cross room in it.

"Working for the Red Cross teaches people to have a sense of responsibility. When they get the Red Cross habit it will set a pattern in their personality which will keep them working at things they start on. The biggest thing in life? I don't know yet what it is but I know that just talking about doing things for people never helped anyone. I've worked as a nurse's aide and when I see the look on people's faces after you do just some little thing for them, some little thing to make them feel better—I know this is true.

"The main thing I've learned in college is getting along with people and in order to do that you have to understand and tolerate their faults and respect their opinions. That is one of the hardest things I have to do," she smiled, "because I usually think my own are right. But I'm an optimist. Everyone should be able to see the bad side of things and set to work to correct it and make it good."

Carol's hobby is photography. She has seven albums of snapshots of most of the campus affairs during her stay here and has pictures of all the coeds who have lived at the ADPi house while she has been there. With her junior Kodak 6:16 she does not attempt to make artistic pictures for effects but is more interested in maintaining a pictorial record of college life.

During spring vacation Carol

Fashion Flashes

It seems our entire spring term is going to consist of nothing but total "duck weather" (rain to you). New spring clothes are harder to locate on Oregon females than red ration stamps. Whenever anyone does get all dressed up in his "best bib 'n tucker" you can be sure that it will rain buckets. We are hoping that with a few scattered house dances our luck will be better, but for this week here goes:

Jeanne Villair looked very springy last weekend in her blue denim pinafore. The dress is trimmed with white eyelet in strips around the bottom, and also around the neckline and the sleeves. The deep round neckline looked very smart with her white blouse.

Apple Green

Dottie Vandeneynde makes a striking picture in her apple-green cotton gabardine two-piece suit. The jacket is collarless and quite long. The buttons are covered and her sleeves are three-quarter length with turned-up cuffs.

We've been seeing a lot of pastel sport jackets this spring and it seems there is a monopoly on the collarless version. Kay Sharp decided to be different and has been wearing a good-looking aqua jacket with lapels which are covered with white braid. Looks nice for a change, don't you think!

We like Sue Abbott's yellow cotton sport dress very much and will be glad when the female population is completely "cotton clad." Her dress has yellow as its basic color and brown and white plaid triangles make up the pattern. The skirt was very full and the top quite plainly tailored.

White Jersey

Marilyn Holden looked very striking at a recent dance in a white outfit. The dress was pure white jersey with gold sequins and to top it off she wore a turban of matching white. With her dark hair and complexion she made an unusually attractive picture.

Odd plaid combinations have been scarce this year and we were very much taken with the skirt of Glenna Burnett. The background is grey and a rich wine color runs through the grey in large stripes. Sounds good enough to eat, doesn't it?—Martha Thorsland.

went to Salt Lake City with ADPi Dorothy Rogers and was impressed with the fact that it is different from any city she has seen because of its wide streets and abundance of candy and pancake makeup. The service they attended at the Mormon Tabernacle were described as "just beautiful, such wonderful acoustics."

The city that wins Miss Wicke's approval as tops on her list is San Francisco. "I'm crazy about Frisco. It's the most cosmopolitan place I've been; there are so many different, interesting places to eat and although sometimes the food isn't the best, it's a lot of fun. San Francisco has almost everything and I love Chinatown.

"There's something about the fog that makes San Francisco different from any other city. I like the fog because it is distinctive, there's just something nice about it."

The ideal life, however, Carol thinks, would be to live in Hawaii. According to her, it is the best place in the world, and asked why she thought so, Miss Wicke smiled in her slow, sweet way, "Because it's my home." And there is not much anyone can say to refute an answer like that.

Ruth L. Bonde, formerly head of home management department at Pennsylvania State college, has gone to Macalester college as director of an experimental program in family life education.

Suit of Hearts

The little fat boy with the bow and arrow has had a pretty busy week in spite of weather conditions, etcetera.

The Alpha Phis had a rushed-up shower the other night for Jean Erice who has moved the date of her wedding to Lt. Hal Jackson, ATO, up a week. The bells will ring this Saturday in Portland.

Kappa Mercedes Foley had Lt. Gene Schmidt here from The Dalles for the weekend and her house dance. Sunday he said good-bye . . . but she has his Sigma Nu brass to keep her thinking of him.

California News

And word comes from Fresno that Dee Gee Jeanne Hines has announced her engagement and the date, early in May, of her wedding to Lt. (j.g.) Ernest Ingold, UO Phi Delt. They'll live in Pensacola, Florida, where he's stationed with the USN air corps.

She's had his SAE pin for some time and last week Gamma Phi beauty Mary Wright, one of last year's Junior Weekend court, announced her engagement to Homer Thomas, ex-SAE house president. He's in the paratroops but rumor has it around that there'll be a wedding sometime this summer.

On-Campus Romance

It was a big evening Saturday night at the Alpha Gam fireside for Marion Saltness and Jack Edwards. At that time a big diamond made the transfer from his pocket to her third-finger-left-hand. He's a pre-med student here on the campus which makes them two of the luckiest people we know.

Apologies to Elaine Wilson for last week's blunder. . . . "The best laid plans of mice and men. . . .!"

AWS Notes

Tomorrow is going to be the AWS auction and you don't want to miss it. There are going to be some really valuable articles auctioned off by Bob Smith. Have you lost from one to three fountain pens this year? Well if you have they will probably be on sale tomorrow. Make a date to be at the Side at 4 on Wednesday. You don't want to miss it.

The Kwamas and Phi Thetas have been tapped and soon Mortar Board will tap its new members. The time for finals and summer vacations is coming faster than one can realize.

Mother's Weekend or Junior Weekend is almost here so write to your family today and have them come to Oregon. It is a splendid chance for them to see the campus and to meet all of your friends. A variety of entertainment has been planned and this will be an occasion that your family shouldn't miss. Sit down today and write them a letter and be sure that your mothers come so that you can celebrate Mother's day with her.

News Notes

The new books that are more complete than the Welcome books are being slowly put together. In these books will be all the campus information that is not in the Welcome Book, such as campus activities, more data on housing and a more complete view of the campus. This book will build for a better freshman participation in activities so if it interests you at all turn in petitions now to the educational activities office.

Smoker

The all-men's smoker last Friday was a big success even though two girls did get in. The women attempted to fool the boys but as was true at Coed Capers they weren't quite good enough to get away with it.

This Friday night, don't forget to come to the snowball rally. It will be the first sign of Junior Weekend and it is really going to be lots of fun, so I'll see you there.
