

Music School Recitals Go on Air Tonight

Presenting Nancy Carlisle, pianist, in a recital, the music school of the University will take over the airways of KORE at 7:45 p.m. today. Miss Carlisle, a freshman in music, is a student of Mrs. Aurora Underwood.

The program will include: Sea Winds by Adams; Impromptu, Opus 90, No. 4, Schubert; Little White Donkey, Ibert; Prelude in C Minor, Chopin.

Immediately following, at 8 p.m., the school has scheduled Nancy Kirkpatrick, soprano, and Patricia Metcalf, accompanist.

Miss Kirkpatrick will sing Curran's Nocturne; Killarney by Bolf; The Kerry Dance, Malloy; Open Thy Blue Eyes, Massenet.

Former Coed Now At Camp Lejuene

Margaret DeBolt, a student at the University from 1938 to 1941, and a member of the Wasps since last fall, received her wings April 15 at Avenger field, Sweetwater, Texas, after completing seven months of intensive training in army flying. Miss DeBolt is from Klamath Falls, where she received her 45 hours of civilian flying training. While at Oregon she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Women's airforce service pilots, after graduation, are picked for a variety of non-combat assignments at army air bases and training fields throughout the country, relieving male pilots for combat duty. Miss DeBolt was in the eleventh class of Wasps to finish their training.

At the present time Wasps are officially classed as civil service employees of the army air forces, and must have at least 35 hours of flying time before they are eligible for training. Women must be at least 18½ years of age and not over 35, have a high school education or equivalent, be 5 feet, 2½ inches tall, and pass the rigid aviation cadet physical examination.

Trains for Motor Corps

Marine Private Jeanne E. Mills, formerly a student at Oregon, is a student at the motor transport school at Camp Lejuene, North Carolina. She has recently completed her basic training there.

Seniors Warned to Order Caps, Gowns Now

All seniors must order their caps and gowns and announcements at the Co-op by Saturday, April 29, Barbara Lamb, senior class president, announced Monday. Cap and gown rental is $1.75 and the announcements 10 cents each.

Miss Lamb said that no orders will be taken after that date.

J. WESLEY SULLIVAN . . .
... former UO student who graduated April 13 from the army air forces training school at Port Sumner, New Mexico, visited the campus this weekend. He was accompanied by his wife, Elsie Brownell Sullivan, also a former University student.

Sullivan was called for duty with the air corps reserves last spring just after his duties as editor of the Oregana ended. He was senior representative on the ASUO council, and author of the "J.W.S." poems which appeared as a daily feature on the front page of the Emerald during his four years here. He is to undergo further training at Kingman, Arizona.

Order of 'O'

(Continued from page one) warns. Every day at noon, boys who have been found delinquent in the following of traditions will be soundly paddled on the steps of Fenton hall. Girls failing to obey the rules will receive their "reward" on the day of the campus picnic, May 6. As in the past, they will be dunked in the small pool on the old campus.

One other tradition which applies to all students will be that of, "no white shoes on the day of the campus picnic." Order of the "O" men will be on the lookout for offenders of this tradition, as they will for all others.
