Auction Postponed; Sale Next Week

The AWS auction that was scheduled for yesterday at 4 was called off by Mary Riley and Signe Eklund. Miss Eklund stated that due to the many campus robberies everyone would be short of money and that it was also too near the end of the month. Threatening skies also put quite a damper on the whole affair.

The auction will be held on May 3 next Wednesday, in front of the Side at 4.

There have been many more contributions to the auction. The Cop has donated boxes of school books, notebooks, and other types of reading material. Mr. Smith, manager of the Side, has given many articles that have been left there at different times throughout the year.

Bob Smith and Ralph Rathjen will be the auctioneers next Wednesday, Miss Riley said, as was scheduled for this Wednesday.

One free article will be given to everyone who makes a purchase of $5. The articles to be auctioned include a wide variety to be sold at bidding prices.

Miss Eklund announced that a poster committee will be appointed and all who are interested should call her tonight at the Tri-Delt house around dinner time.

Student Union Plans Started

"You don't just graduate from a University," asserted Ann Leo, former chairman and now senior member of the Student Union committee at the meeting last night, "you leave part of yourself here and you take part of the University with you."

Gene Conklin, chairman of the committee, added, "The Student Union is not merely a fantastic dream any longer. Day by day we are getting closer to the materialization of our plans." But in order to get definite action on the architectural plans detailed lists of specific features which the students themselves want to use and have in their building must be determined, it was stated.

Mrs. Leo revealed that the administration of the University has shown a marked interest in this revival of the twenty-year-old campaign for a Student Union building, and stated that the students have a legal claim for a Student Union, that there is a necessity for one, and that the machinery towards the completion of preliminary plans and red tape surgery was once again under way.

Doris Hack, acting secretary of the alumni association, reported on current feeling among the former graduates, and added that alumni returning to the campus readily

UO Air Corps Men Reclassified For Post-Graduation Assignments

Reclassification of the 193 members of the army air force technical training detachment on the campus has determined their respective destinations upon completion of the program on May 20, Captain C. D. Cable, commanding officer, said Wednesday.

After being examined by the medical board, all the men were found qualified for overseas duty. On the basis of academic achievement and of grades received as soldiers, the air corps trainees were also screened by a board from Ft. Worth, Texas.

Eighty-three men qualified for radio and radar training in Canada. Their study will take about six months; other assignments will involve shorter periods of training. Assignments as weather observers were received by 82 men; 25 of them will go to Kentucky for study in direction finder evaluation. Two men have been assigned to airplane mechanic gunnery, and one, to radio mechanic gunnery.

Captain Cable stated that these are all very good opportunities, but that commissions could not come directly from the courses. Should a member of the detachment fail to maintain his academic standard here, he will be eliminated and be assigned elsewhere.

Final examinations for the air corps program will be given on May 4, 5, and 6. Major-General Curry, commander of the army air force western technical training command at Denver, Colorado, is expected to be present May 20 for graduation exercises, which will end the program. The detachment will leave the campus a few days later.

Weekend Plans Include Annual Sunlight Serenade

The musical festival will be under the chairmanship of Connie Fullmer, junior in liberal arts. Miss Fullmer said yesterday that the program is "excellent and varied."

As it has been in the past, the serenade will be presented in the bowl in the rear of the music school. The program will run from 3 to 5, Sunday afternoon, May 7.

House Leaders to Check 'Lights Out'

In explaining the enforcement of the 12 "lights out" rule on week days, Dean Hazel P. Schwering said Wednesday that most of it depends upon the housemothers, house presidents, and proctors of the individual houses, who will see that this rule is kept. Exceptions will be made when a student is working on a thesis or other important theme, or for a student who works during the day. Permission for this will be granted at the discretion of the house officers. The hours will be extended during exam week.

"The purpose of this ruling," stated Mrs. Schwering, "is to watch out for the health of the students. It is not intelligent for them to ruin their own health, and late hours will certainly do this. We are putting it up to the leadership of the house officers, and we assume that all the students will cooperate."

A poll of house opinion on the new regulation brought forth almost unanimous disapproval. According to representatives of the various houses it is felt by the girls that the 12 "lights out" does not give sufficient time for studying in most cases. As expressed by one house president, the girls consider themselves the proper judge on when they should be in bed. Another house president laughingly called the restriction an "affront to our rights."

Ode to a D. of W.

We couldn't sleep a wink last night,
Cause our room light burned past 12.
Our conscience—giant shapes it grew,
For we knew, dear dean, you were worrying too.

picked up the air corps and its band at the library. A big program has been planned for entertainment, but the secrets of it will not be divulged until later in the week.

An innovation to Junior Weekend celebrations is the addition of a sign contest in which all houses are to participate. The signs, says Blanche Svoboda, chairman of the committee, are to carry out in some way the theme of Junior Weekend, "Mother Goose Goes to War." Signs may be of any size.

All signs are to be carried in the snowball rally, and taken up to Gerlinger, where they will be judged during the program. Judges for the event will be Hoyt Franchere, assistant professor of English, Marian Gage, president of the junior class, Betty Ann Keup, chairman of the rally squad, and Blanche Svoboda, chairman of the sign contest.

Presentation of Queen Anita and her court, numbers by the air corps band, yells, excitement, and a surprise drawing of the name of a house which must sing, are part of the general plans for the big evening, but the rest of the entertainment is shrouded in secrecy.
