Twenty-five Amphibians on the edge of Gerlinger pool before a practice for the Amphibian exhibition opening Junior Weekend festivities from 3-5 p.m. this afternoon.

Tour of Campus Suggested For Visitors' Entertainment

For the benefit of the large number of visitors, many of whom will begin arriving on the campus tonight in time for the "Sing," most of the University building will hold open house over the Weekend, according to Dorothy Rogers, open house chairman.

Since the majority of parents have already expressed their interest in visiting the well-known Oregon buildings and various exhibitions here, the students will be responsible for seeing that their Moms and Dads are taken on a tour of the campus sometime between the regularly scheduled Junior and Mother's Weekend events.

Sigma Xi Makes Plans For Postwar Growth

Basing their plans on a probable enrollment of 4,500 students immediately after the war, the Oregon chapter of Sigma Xi, national science honorary, has inaugurated a Sigma Xi committee on science post-war planning for the University.

The committee has already started an investigation for a new laboratory and classroom building for the science departments, which is second only to the Student Union building on the postwar building list. The state board has approved the Kincaid building site as the location for this building.

An extensive study has also been made of the desirable expansion of the staffs of professors and graduate assistants, of laboratory equipment, and of new courses. Advanced science fields suitable to the Northwest and especially to Oregon will be stressed, including paleontology (in particular paleobotany) ecology (biological science dealing with the relations of organisms to environment), plant and animal physiology, biochemistry, and electronics. Also the regular science courses will be expanded to take care of the enlarged enrollment expected.

Mr. Turnbull Named To Teacher Committee

George Turnbull, professor and acting dean of the school of journalism, has accepted an appointment to membership in a committee of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism.

The committee will deal with research teaching problems in the journalism field with emphasis on possible postwar changes. Dr. Raymond Nixon, head of the department of journalism at Emory university, Atlanta, Georgia, is chairman of the committee.

Mr. Turnbull said that he was familiar with the activities of the committee in a general way but Parents will be met at the Southern Pacific depot by the welcoming committee and given transportation to the campus. Their luggage should be taken to the hotels or student living organizations where they will be guests for the weekend, and then all visitors must register at Johnson hall. Registration should be completed immediately upon arriving on the campus in order to eliminate confusion.

Many of the various departments of the University have exerted considerable efforts to arrange special exhibits of the work and collections for the benefit of the expected crowds. All students are urged to take their parents personally on a tour of these buildings and the chief points of interest on the campus.

The following order of places to be visited has been planned to cut the tour to a minimum of walking and yet cover most of the campus. It is suggested that the tour begin with registration at Johnson hall and from there progress as follows:

Pioneer statue, Friendly hall, infirmary, journalism building, McClure hall where the chemistry laboratory exhibit will be displayed, the architecture and allied arts building with various interests represented, Deady and Villard hall (the oldest used buildings on the campus), the Oregon seal on the Anchorage side of Villard, down the walk to the YWCA and YMCA bungalows, to Condon hall and the museum of natural history, across the street to Oregon and Commerce halls, stop in at the Co-op and see Chapman, visit his-

the Pioneer Mother to Gerlinger, past the old girls' dorms and cover the library, check the view of the mall as seen through the Like doors and printed on the cover of the Oregonian, and then spend an hour at the Museum of Oriental Art.

This tour should give all visitors a representative idea of the campus. McArthur court can be visited Saturday night when mothers go to watch the Junior Prom, and the School of Music will be seen at the Sunlight Serenade on Sunday.

Booth Bequeathes $10,000 to Oregon

R. A. Booth, pioneer Eugene lumberman, bequeathed $10,000 to the University for creating and maintaining two fellowships and for scholarships, according to the terms of his will revealed Wednesday.

Mr. Booth was one of the founders and later president of the Booth-Kelly lumber company and served in various public positions. The University granted him an honorary degree of master of arts in public service in 1929. He found-

Campus Tuned to Sing

Lilting melody and charming voices will be in evidence tonight when the junior class presents the fourth annual All-Campus Sing, under the chairmanship of Arliss Boone, at 8:30 in McArthur court.

Miss Boone announced that tickets for the event are on sale in the educational activities office in the Igloo today from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. They can also be bought at the box office at the time of the performance. Tickets for those not singing are 50 cents.

Houses singing are cautioned to be at the court at 7:30 p.m. Chairman of the judges committee for the contest is Mr. Glen Griffith, director of the Eugene high school a cappella choir. Miss Maude Garnett, instructor of music in the University high school, and Madame McGrew, instructor of voice at the University music school, are also on the committee.

Marie Rogndahl, Oregon's Hour of Charm division winner, will be featured. She will sing the Bell Song from "Lakme."

Also on the program are skits by Jean Templeton and Lois Vogler. Singing order of the choruses is as follows: Alpha Gamma Delta, "Children's Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel; Delta Delta Delta, "Poinciana"; Alpha Xi Delta, "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes"; Sigma Kappa, Mozart's "Cradle Song"; Alpha Chi Omega, "When a Gypsy Makes His Violin Cry"; Hillcrest, "My Buddy"; Alpha Omicron Pi, "Angels of Mercy."

Alpha Phi, "Make-Believe"; Casablanca, "Summertime"; Gamma Phi Beta, "Stormy Weather"; Kappa Kappa Gamma, "All the Things You Are"; Delta Gamma, "Begin the Beguine"; Hilyard and Rebec, "This Is My Dream"; Alpha Delta Pi, "Nursery Rhyme"; Highland house, "Wedding of Jack and Jill"; Pi Beta Phi, "Sweetheart of Dreams"; Chi Omega, "Kashmire Song"; Kappa Alpha Theta, "Madame Jeanette."

Culprits Warned To Appear Today

A large number of culprits must appear on the steps of Fenton hall this afternoon to pay the penalty for breaking the traditions of Junior Weekend, says Herb Hoffman, president of the Order of the "O." Offenders were reminded that their punishment doubles if they don't show up.

Women's names outnumber the men's. Their penalty will be a thorough "wetting down" at the campus picnic, Saturday evening.

Politz Appointed to Edit New Student Handbook

Charles Politz, junior in journalism, will serve as editor of the University handbook to be published this summer as a welcome book and source of information on the campus. The educational activities board announced the appointment Thursday afternoon.

Politz has been an associate editor of the Emerald, editor of Lem-on Punch in the Oregonian, president of the ISA senate, and has drawn cartoons for the Emerald. He is president of Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary, makes honor roll grades, and is a member of Friars, senior men's honorary.

The handbook will combine wel-
