Year's Activities Discussed In Annual Exec Meeting

Mothers' Weekend activities started yesterday with the meeting of the Mothers' executive board, with Mrs. H. A. Busterud and Dean Karl W. Onthank presiding. The board discussed the results of the activities of the past year and various members made their reports. According to Dean Onthank, the report from the financial chairman was especially gratifying.

Thetas Win Cup For Top Singing

Kappa Alpha Theta, singing "Madame Jeanette," took top honors in the All-Campus Sing last night in McArthur court. Arliss Boone, chairman of the Sing, presented the cup to the winner's leader, Nancy Kirkpatrick. The Thetas then sang their house song, "Theta Lips."

Runners-up in the contest were the Alpha Omicron Pis, singing "Angels of Mercy," the official song of the Red Cross nurse corps. A solo was presented by their song leader, June-Marie Wilson.

Honorable mention went to Highland house, which sang the "Wedding of Jack and Jill."

Judges in the contest were Mr. Glen Griffith, director of music at Eugene high school, and of the Eugene Women's Choral group; Madame McGrew, professor of voice, and Mrs. Maude Garnett, director of music at the University high school.

Marie Rogndahl, Oregon's regional winner in the Hour of Charm contest, thrilled her audience again with the aria which she sang on the radio, the bell song from "Lakme." Her encore was "Voices of Spring."

A surprise came when it was found that Oregon, too, has a Frank Sinatra. The audience received Milton Surface's two numbers in true Sinatra style.

Other entertainment was a hula dance done by Charlotte Wicke and Doris Trask.

Ervin Webb was master of ceremonies for the event, and he and Lewis Vogler presented a Dr. I. Q. contest, quizzing members of the audience.

Honorary Initiates To Attend Movie

Following their initiation into Pi Delta Phi, French honorary, new members of that society will be guests at a French movie, "Heart of Paris," at 207 Chapman hall at 8:15, Wednesday night, May 10. The film, originally released in France as "Gribouille," is free to the faculty and French students and their friends.

The movie has been described as "a fine, sensitive portrayal of a Parisian family in everyday life." The French comedian Raimu stars as a juror who acquits Michele Morgan, and then gives her a job in his bicycle shop, where "complications develop." The showing is sponsored by Pi Delta Phi and the Romance language department.

Ruth Eckhardt, senior in liberal arts and secretary-treasurer of the society, is in charge of the initiation banquet to be held at 5:15 in Gerlinger hall.

Students who have been invited to join are: Louis Clause, Janet Flieschbauer, Champlin Garrison, Carol Greening, Barbara Hawkins, Shirley Drusilla, Dorothy Routt,

Friar Returns From New Guinea Post

A member of Friars, senior men's honorary tapping new pledges at the picnic today, who is visiting the campus for the weekend festivities is Lieutenant-Colonel Delbert C. Stanard. Back on the campus after two years in New Guinea serving as surgeon-general of the 41st division. Colonel Stanard was graduated from the University in 1914.

For many years he was a practicing physician in Eugene. He was called into the army in 1941.

While he was in school, Colonel Stanard was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, and was president of the junior class. He was also a member of Friars, senior men's honorary.

His daughter Patricia, attended the University from 1940 till 1943.

Stag Shag On Terrace

Good music and lots of fun awaits campus dancers this afternoon at the Terrace Dance, to be held on the library terrace from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Dancers may go right from the dance to the Campus Picnic at 5:30 on the lower campus.

As is traditional, the dance is strictly stag, announced Marian Schaefer, chairman. "No dates are necessary, and army screening tests will be over just at 4, in plenty of time for the boys to get there." No admission will be charged.

A nickelodeon has been supplied, and the newest and best of dance records, plus some of the better "oldies," are promised.

Last year, dancers were forced to flee to Gerlinger gym because of ill-timed rain. And though the Junior Weekend committee has held its breath for fear something similar would happen this year, it looks as if the sunshine will hold for the weekend.

Campus Picnic

Wilson, Dick Foss, William O'Bierne, and Harlowe Bohn.

After the royal group has assembled, the prime minister will perform the coronation of 1944's Queen of Junior Weekend.

Activity-minded junior women will wait with bated breath as the long, black-robed line of Mortar Boards, led by Sue Sawyer, weave through the crowd, tapping its new members with the presentation of a red rose. An outstanding woman member of the faculty will also be chosen to Mortar Board at that time.

Friar's, senior men's honorary, will also tap today. Though their once-long line has diminished, the honor of membership is no less great.

Asklepiads, medical fraternity, will choose its honored few today, when the white-masked doctors-to-be trundle out their stretcher, long a tradition of the honorary.

Sometime during the afternoon's entertainment, the famous Oregon Canoe Fete will be presented. Mystery surrounds the affair, but the chairmen have promised that there will be ten floats on the water.

Hard-working campus-cleaners will be rewarded today when Gloria Malloy and Bob Smith, co-chairmen of campus cleanup day, will give a prize to the house which did the best job of cleaning and sweeping its assigned part of the campus.

The eight Oregon district units of the Oregon Mothers association have contributed nearly $2500 to the funds. Portland, $661, Marshfield, $251, and Eugene, $250, made the most significant additions.

Today's events especially scheduled for the visiting mothers will lead off with the annual open business meeting in Guild theater, Johnson hall. All mothers are urged to attend this affair because election of officers will be held, reports from the committees will be made public, appropriations for scholarships will be made, and this spring's Oregon Mothers' scholarship winners will be announced.

Luncheon for all visitors will be served at the student living organizations at noon.

Sponsored by the associated women students, Young Women's Christian association, and the Eugene Mothers club, tea will be served for all mothers this afternoon from 3 to 5 in alumni hall, upstairs in Gerlinger. Besides Dean Hazel P. Schwering and Assistant Dean Alice B. Macduff, faculty women, officers of the Mothers association, and presidents of the sponsoring associations will be in the receiving line.

Past officers of the association will pour and white-sweated members of Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, and yellow-sweated members of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary, will serve.

Tea is being prepared for 300 guests and background music will be furnished on the piano and stringed instruments.

All mothers who are not planning to stay at McArthur court to watch the Junior Prom all evening, or who have no other plans for tonight, may attend the special weekend features—three scenes from famous plays—being arranged by Horace Robinson, acting head of the drama department, suggested Mrs. Marvin T. Warlick, president of the Eugene Mothers club. No admission will be charged. The show will last approximately an hour and a half in the Guild theater in Johnson hall and the public is invited.

In accordance to old Oregon traditions mothers will find space reserved for them in the balcony of the Igloo tonight. They may watch the dancers from there and will be served punch.

Tomorrow morning all Eugene churches are having special Mothers' day services.

The Oregon Mothers' state board of directors will hold their annual weekend meeting at the Eugene hotel. The occasion will be a no-host breakfast to be served tomorrow at 8:30 a.m.

Following the church services, Mother's day dinners will be served at the living organizations and the seventeenth annual Oregon Mothers Weekend, 1944, will conclude with the Sunlight Serenade at the music school.

George Schade, Wilberta Winniford, and Bettie Hall.

Pledged as honorary members are the following: Miss Augusta Nelson, instructor in Romance languages; Mrs. Ethel B. Nichols, instructor in Romance languages; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van de Velde.

Melodies to Sound Sunday At Weekend Serenade

Melody present in the bowl at the rear of the music school, will be offered to music lovers Sunday afternoon at 3 when the Sunlight Serenade, traditional part of Junior Weekend, will be held. Connie Fullmer, liberal arts, is chairman of the affair.

Jim Bartell will be master of ceremonies, and under his direction the program will hold such highlight musical gifts as a

Pvt. Lyle Larson To Sing Monday

Private Lyle Larson, baritone from the ranks of the air corps students, will appear as guest soloist with the women's choral club spring concert Monday evening. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the music auditorium.

Pvt. Larson studied music at the University of Minnesota and has been studying singing since he was a small child. He will sing several solos Monday night and will do "The Holy City" by Gaul with the chorus.

In Minnesota, Pvt. Larson was a member of an opera company and took the lead roles in "Vagabond King," "Naughty Marietta," "Student Prince," "New Moon," "Desert Song," and many others.

John Stark Evans, professor of organ and theory of music, will lead the group in several numbers.

Proceeds from this concert go to establish the Maude Densmore scholarship to be awarded a senior girl from Eugene high school for a year's study at the University.

soprano solo by June-Marie Wilson, senior in music, singing "High Flight," and "Toujours, L'amour, Toujours." Lyle Larson, air corps, will sing two old favorites, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and the "Desert Song."

The Theta quarter will present the "Last Chord."

Instrumental numbers on the program are to be a string ensemble playing a selection from Mendelssohn. Marilyn Olson, in a violin solo, will play "Gypsy Airs."

The Vesper choir, directed by Helen Luvaas, will close the program with their presentation of "Let All My Life Be Music" and the traditional "Oregon Pledge Song."

As a special feature of the Serenade, the winning house in the All-Campus Sing will present the song which won them the prize, announced Nelles Miller, chairman of the program committee.

During the sunlit performance, refreshments will be served to the audience by members of the committee, according to Ruth Van Buskirk, chairman of refreshments.

Advertising Fraternity Pledges Three Members; Will Parade at Picnic

Three men have been pledged to membership in the W. F. G. Thacher chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national honorary intercollegiate advertising fraternity. The pre-initiation ceremony for the new pledges, Kenneth Morse, Raymond Schott, and Herbert Hoffman, will include the appearance of the candidates with the traditional sandwich boards during Junior Weekend.

At the initiation later Carl Webb, professor of journalism and executive secretary of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' association, will be received into the fraternity as a professional member. Professor W. F. G. Thacher, adviser to the local chapter of the fraternity, is also its national president.

Games to End Girls' Season

The next week will bring to a close the girls intramurals in both baseball and tennis. This week the semifinals between leagues three and four were played off with the Dee Gees coming out on top by beating University house 11 to 6. From the second inning to the last, the Dee Gees led by a large score. Helen Johns played her usual good game and was responsible for many of the University players' outs. In the second inning, Marilyn Glenn came to bat for the Dee Gees and brought two runners in by a long hit to right field. Outfield errors on the part of the University players was one of the greatest causes for the high number of runs made by the Dee Gees. Marjorie Priest, for University, played an excellent game for her team in the position of shortstop.

Rebec-Hilyard and Orides of leagues two and three were supposed to play off their semifinals Thursday night. In the third inning, however, the catcher and

'Dopey' Bush Steals Show

A six-act show, "Life of the Lifeguardess," was presented by the Amphibian club, women's swimming honorary, Saturday afternoon before a full house of Oregon mothers and students. Alysone Hales, as the lifeguard and narrator, reviewed the process of learning to swim from beginning to advanced class. Betty Bush as Dopey
