 time it's only because I haven't my watch and the hall clock has stopped," concluded a prof.
 "There's a calendar in back of you," remarked a bored sophomore dryly.

Something new in the offing! At the University of Kansas they have an annual Dandelion day. Organized houses and faculty members are divided into teams and every one turns out for a dandelion-digging competition last two hours. This is one novel way of ridding the campus lawns of the yellow flowers. After the digging all workers adjourn for a picnic and V-12's stationed at the university are allowed to knock off chow and join the students. A street dance in front of the library will climax the Dandelion Day festivities. . . . Sounds like something Gloria Malloy and "Joe College" Smith might have cooked up.

At Indiana university another kind of spring campaign is underway; kids who want to study outdoors are asking for benches to be placed in scenic spots all over the campus. . . . This idea is worth underlining. We have often wondered why the only bench the U of O has seems to be the one contributed by some seniors for seniors and an old green thing near the library. Couldn't the Order of the O or some other spirited organization sponsor a bench drive?

GIs at Stanford university will have to watch their manners henceforth; the gig system has been instituted. Minor infractions are adjudged at one demerit each and four such demerits will bring the sad sack an order to remain on the campus over the weekend. . . . More Stanford news: soldiers are being given dancing lessons by the coeds. Elementary rumba and other modern dances are on the schedule for hep GIs. . . . Spodi-odi Everybody's doing it now.

From Cornell intelligentsia we have this contribution to rhetoric: Thoity poiple boids sittin on a coib stone, choipin and boipin; along came Hoimen and his goil friends Goity who woiks in a shoit factory in Joisey. And when Hoimen saw them thoity poiple boids sittin on a coibstone, choipin, and boipin, he says, boy, he says, ain't dey poitibed. . . . If you've never been in the Bronx you'll have to practice that one a little.

Women Fill 239 Jobs In Military Services

With the second anniversary of the women's army corps on May 14, 1944, there are nearly 70,000 women in the army doing 239 different military jobs, here and overseas. Among other positions, women serve on the war department general staff and with the American embassy at London, as weather observers with the air corps in England, as ballistics specialists with ordnance, as medical technicians at army hospitals, as photographers with signal corps, as linguists with psychological warfare, as artists with morale services, and as electrician specialists checking generators in Liberator bombers at an air base.

Free Films

Two free movies will be shown at 8 Wednesday evening, May 16, at Chapman hall. Entitled "Nazis Strike" and "Fire-Power," the films were released by the United States army.

Have a "Coke" = Kom Er Bij, Amice!
 (JOIN US, PAL)

...or how to get on with a Dutch flyer

Like the Join us, pal of the Dutch flyers training in the U. S., the Have a "Coke" of the American airman means Friendliness speaking. Just as it does in your home when offered from your own icebox. Across the Seven Seas, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, —has become the favorite greeting of the open-hearted.

"Coke" = Coea-Cola
 It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called, "Coke".
