Library Lists Hours, Explains Use of Books

Library cards for students wishing to check out books may be received at the circulation desk, according to Miss Bernice Rise, circulation librarian.

The purposes of the circulation department are to encourage recreational reading, supply supplementary material and to check out these books.

Located at the east end of the library is the reserve book room which also can be used conveniently for studying. The reference room is at the west end of the building.

Library hours are: Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday, 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Reserve section: Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 2 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Miss Clarice Krieg is acting librarian of the University library.

End of Student 'Shooting' In Sight at UO Hospital

New students who have visited the "Tonic Palace" these last few days might like to know a little more about the facilities.

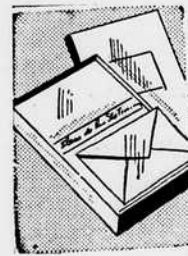

Probably of most interest is the fact that the little man in white, aiming a squirt gun with a needle in it at their arms, will be finished with this task within a few days. This fact alone should bring the color back into pale faces.

The palace is open from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The early closing hour is to permit sick call for the soldiers. The hospital staff is anxious for students to accommodate themselves to these hours so students should be careful of eating green apples or catching colds after 3:30.

The staff lost four nurses this year. Two of these were to Dan Cupid and one to the army. Only three nurses have been employed to fill the gap left by these four, so they are still looking for a nurse to work at least half a day. Because of the shortage students should make it a point to keep themselves in good health, emphasized Dr. Miller.

Excellent food is provided by an also excellent cook and assistant, according to the doctor.
