 dent will receive these hilarious announcements of forthcoming attractions in much the same manner that the girls were entertained yesterday noon by the squadrons out on their second mission.
 The occasion of the skit yesterday was the new and fashionable coke party which is being held at the YW bungalow this afternoon at 4 p.m.
 Squadron members are Baha

Munkeneau, Phyllis Perkins, Margery Skordahl, Katie Schneider, Pat Smith, Betty Householder, Janice Crabtree, Jean Jones, Carolyn Jacobs, and Pat Davis.

Perhaps as much as 250,000 tons of flourite, an essential war material, have been found in Hudspeth county, Texas, by the University of Texas bureau of economic geology.

Iowa Wesleyan, founded in 1842, is the oldest college west of the Mississippi.

Campus Calendar

There will be a Phi Beta meeting at 7:30 tonight upstairs in Gerlinger hall. All members must attend.

Mortar Board President

 is what you make it. Success isn't a thing to strive for. Feeling that you've contributed something to people, being able to play second fiddle and play it well, is more important in achieving that intangible, hard-to-define thing called happiness.

Although Gerd isn't exactly playing second fiddle to anyone on this campus right now, she approves of the idea—which is something. And after she graduates she hopes to continue her education in some eastern school. Miss Hansen's greatest ambition, however, is to go back to Norway some day, possibly to engage in post-war reconstruction there.—D.Y.

Campus News Bureau

 Dorothy Godknecht, for the latter. Besides cooperating with newspapers, the bureau occasionally is called upon to write articles for national publications, and obtain special stories or information.

Photos by Teter

Mrs. Sophia Moore, newly-appointed secretary for the bureau, is assisted by Mrs. Hermiona Smith Bain, and on a part time basis by several students. Photography for the bureau's use is done by J. Warren Teter, manager of the photo bureau, and to some extent by students in the graphic journalism class.

Originally University publicity was handled by one man, usually a journalism professor. Later the bureau was established and moved to its present location.

The late Eric W. Allen, dean of the school; Alfred Powers, journalism professor at the Portland extension center, Collin N. Dymont, later dean of the college of literature, science, and arts here, and Ralph D. Casey, now director of the school of journalism at the University of Minnesota, are among those who were in charge of publicity.

Former Heads in War Work

A recent director of the bureau, Lyle Nelson, is now in Washington, D. C., where he is editing war department technical publications (ordnance). Another alumnus who was in charge of the bureau is Cecil Snyder, who is serving in the navy.
