

House Photo Schedule Out

Starting Tuesday, October 3, individual Oregana pictures of students in campus living organizations will be taken at the Kennell-Ellis studios, 961 Willamette street above the Rex theater, Edith Newton, Oregana editor, announced late Thursday night. From 9 until 11:50 a.m. and in the afternoon from 1 until 5:50 p.m., two pictures will be scheduled for every 10 minutes each day.

Fifty cents to be paid at the time the picture is taken and ten cents extra for each additional copy to be printed in the Oregana in the honorary or club pictures sections. Seniors will pay 75 cents for both their cap and gown picture and their living organization picture.

Each house will receive two identical schedules to be filled out. One will be kept at the house and the other will be picked up by an Oregana staff member before the pictures are taken.

Following is the schedule for the houses:

Young Republicans Plan UO Campaign

Campus Young Republicans who met Wednesday night elected Harry Skerry, senior in law, chairman of the organization. Jean Taylor, senior in journalism, was named secretary. Further officers and details will be decided upon in the near future.

Bob Broderick, of the Eugene Junior Chamber of Commerce, speaking to the group gathered in Gerlinger hall, asked representatives of living organizations to volunteer their services in registering all voters for the coming presidential election. Booths where citizens of age may register will be placed at strategic locations throughout Eugene.

Alpha Phi is in charge of the booth in the Keith's university pharmacy, 798 11th; Delta Gamma, Minor building; Gamma hall, M. & K. Super market, 1587 West 11th; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Gamma grocery, 295 West 17th; Pi Beta Phi, McDonald theater; Alpha Chi Omega, First National bank.

Approximately 100 students and one member of the AUSTP pre-med students, Fred McGeoch, attended the meeting last night. A Democratic organization similar to this one will be announced soon, according to reports from headquarters in Portland.

Club Hears Prexy

Acting President Orlando J. Hollis spoke Thursday noon at a meeting of the Corvallis Rotary club. His topic was: "Personal Glimpses of the Constitutional Convention of 1787."

COED Freshmen 'Have Time' At 'Coketail' Party

People came in by shifts of 100 at a time! The porch and steps were loaded with women waiting to get in. The welcoming committee at the door of the "YW" bungalow, with armfuls of tempting coke bottles, was unable to hand out the refreshments quickly enough. The girls behind the shiny black bar were frantically slipping dozens of drinks on the board. No exaggeration: the annual freshman party sponsored by the YWCA to acquaint new girls with the activities of that organization was, as President Joan Dolph has aptly put it, "A red-hot good success."

Evidently, Jo Dolph practiced what she preached in her new booklet, "How to be Red-Hot Good," which first appeared on the campus yesterday afternoon. More than 200 coeds came to the party to satisfy their curiosity about the inside of the intriguing little volume in its gay green and yellow cover.

Emily Rhodes played background music on the piano while the girls chatted and "floaters" flitted around the open fireplace from group to group of coke-sipping coeds, asking whether they were enjoying themselves and suggesting with subtle smiles that they join the "Y." Arranged by Martha Thorsland the program consisted of a chalk talk by Betty Householder—doing the talking; Joene Johnson—doing the chalking, and Jean Kirkwood providing the music.

Besides Lois Greenwood with a big smile, and Jo Dolph looking bright-eyed and triumphant, several members of the "Y" advisory board were present: Mrs. V. N. Freeman, chairman; Mrs. Jessie H. Bond, Mrs. F. E. Smith, and Miss R. Louise Fitch. Mrs. Evelyn Street was a guest of the board.

Symposium Group Extends Invitation to All Freshmen

The initial meeting of this year's symposium program will take place Tuesday evening, October 3, at 7:30 p.m. in room 107 in Friendly hall, for which all regularly enrolled University students, including freshmen, are eligible. The nature and purpose of the symposium and topics which will be taken up this year will be discussed.

Under the year's program, the group devotes one term to study of significant social, political, or economic problems, through study, field trips, and lectures from authorities, and two terms to public appearances.

Last year the topic was "Juvenile Delinquency." Members made 65 engagements and spoke to more than 8000 people. Previous mem-

Council Discusses Mixers; Calls for Student Union Head

What the ASUO executive council did Thursday night:

1. Opened petitions for four student positions.
2. Passed a resolution requiring the council approval of all ASUO expenditures over $25.
3. Discussed re-opening of Wednesday night mixers.
4. Discussed exchange assembly with Oregon State.
5. Picked a rally squad head.

A new student union head will be selected by the executive council after interviews Thursday afternoon. Only upperclassmen will be considered for the office. Last year the student union committee was revived after several years' dormancy and definite plans for rooms and services were begun under the direction of Gene Conklin, chairman.

The position of sophomore representative to the council has been thrown open because of the resignation of Leon Williams spring term last year. Only persons who have attended the University two terms and have a minimum of 24 credits and a maximum of 73 are eligible to apply.

After considerable discussion on the advisability of selecting a yell king this term, the council elected to pick two men as members of the rally squad and either put one in as yell king winter term when he had acquired more experience, or wait until spring term elections when the position will be on the ASUO ballot.

All petitions for the four offices must be turned in to Jean Taylor, second vice president of the ASUO, by Thursday and applicants will be interviewed at the council meeting that afternoon.

Funds Require Vote

On recommendation of Audrey Holliday, ASUO president, the council passed a resolution providing that all expenditures in excess of $25 shall be voted upon by the executive council and that all requisitions upon ASUO funds must be signed by the ASUO president. As the constitution stood, the president alone was responsible for all funds. As Miss Holliday explained at the meeting, this provision was written when all ASUO money came from the educational activities board and was budgeted by that board. The ASUO card drive has made it possible for the council to run on its own funds, contributed by members of the student body.

It was brought up that the boys' houses have requested a renewal of

Satire Set By Guild

"The Skin of Our Teeth," Thornton Wilder's satire on the history of the human race through the ages, will be presented on Guild hall stage, October 27, by the University theater players, and directed by Horace Robinson, adviser for the University theater.

The play was unanimously accepted by the organization following Mr. Robinson's nomination of it for their consideration.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" is Thornton Wilder's unorthodox version of the history of all civilization typified by one family, the Antrobuses. Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus carry the thread of the play from Adam and Eve to the end of the war—any war. The cast has approximately 35 members.

Four, and possibly five, plays is the production goal of the University theater this year, according to Mr. Robinson. The second fall term play, scheduled for production the first week in December, will be directed by Ottilie Seybolt, associate professor in speech and dramatic arts, who has returned from a year's leave of absence spent in New York.

Tryouts, which began last night, will continue tonight at 7:30 in the Guild hall auditorium, Johnson hall.

HORACE ROBINSON . . . "The Skin of Our Teeth" will be directed by him.

Book Houses Offer Awards

Two awards for book manuscripts have recently been announced by E. P. Dutton and company, New York publishers. The G. I. Joe Literary award offers $5,000 to the author, a service man or woman of any rank (in any branch of the U. S. service) wounded in action in the present World war, of the best book manuscript submitted before January 1, 1943. In the second Lewis and Clark Northwest contest, a cash award of $2500 is offered for the best book manuscript submitted by an author from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, or Alaska by June 1, 1945.

In 1945 the G. I. Joe award, the publishers believe that they may find some of the many great books which are bound to come out of the experiences of the men and women who have served in World War II. Both fiction and non-fiction, including poetry and collections of short stories, will be considered. Of the total award, $2,500 will be paid on acceptance of the manuscript, and $2,500 on its publication.

The Northwest contest competition is open to all persons born in this area, regardless of present residence; to those who have lived in the area for at least five years; to anyone who is at present a student in or has graduated from a recognized course in English literature or creative writing in this region. Both fiction and non-fiction novels are acceptable, but not poetry, drama, short stories, or material for textbooks.

An editorial staff in each territory specified will read the manuscripts submitted from that section and forward the best to the book publishers for final judging. Oregon is represented by Dean Alfred Powers, Oregon state system of higher education, division of creative writing and publishing.

Additional information on either contest may be found on the bulletin board in the journalism building.

ASUO Head Greet Frosh

Audrey Holliday, ASUO president, spoke to a group of freshmen eager to join in campus activities at Westminster house Thursday afternoon.

All freshmen were asked to acquaint themselves with what actually is going on around the campus. They should go to as many meetings this year as possible. By the time they are sophomores or juniors they will be certain as to the activities in which they are really interested. Two of these are the Oregana and Emerald which

Red Cross Talk Set for Tuesday

The history of the Red Cross and the work it is doing in the present war will be explained by Mrs. Cora Tirtle, executive secretary of the Lane county Red Cross chapter, in an assembly next Tuesday, October 3. All Red Cross chairmen and house representatives are expected to be in the alumni hall in Gerlinger at 4 for the meeting. Other students, and faculty members who wish, are invited to attend.

Each house is represented on the Red Cross by one of its members. Such representatives will be chosen at house meetings on Monday night.

Petitions for several committee chairmen must be turned in by 4 today to Carol Wicke, chairman of the campus chapter, at the Alpha Delta Pi house. Not previously announced is the position of chairman for the staff assistant corps. Other positions open are: sewing chairman, nurses' aide chairman, phone committee chairman, and accident prevention chairman.

Complete details on the work of the various committees may be obtained from Miss Wicke.
