

Libe Shelves Get Volumes

The library's circulation department has added several books of more or less widespread interest to its lists, according to Miss Bernice Rise, circulation head.

New fiction novels available to students are: Canal Town, by Samuel Hopkins Adams; The Timber Beast, by Archie Binns; Journey in the Dark, which won the Pulitzer prize, by Martin Flavin; The Red Cock Crows, by Frances Gaither; Green Dolphin Street, by Elizabeth Gaudge, which won the Literary Guild award for the month of August.

Woman on the Porch, by Caroline Gordon; Time Must Have a Stop, by Aldous Huxley; Anna and the King of Siam, by Margaret London; The Razor's Edge, a best seller, by A. Somerst Maughan; Lebanon, by Caroline Miller; Leave Her to Heaven, by Ben Ames Williams; and Joseph the Provider, by Students interested in short stories may wish to read The Haunted House, and other short stories by Virginia Woolf.

All the above fiction titles are on the rental shelf in the circulation department. The rental is two cents a day or ten cents a week.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

A meeting of all intramural managers will be held at 11 o'clock on Thursday in the conference room of the physical education building.

A meeting of all social chairmen will be held Friday evening, October 6, at 7:30 in Gerlinger hall. Representatives of all houses should attend.

Members of Hui O Kamaiina will meet at 4 at the Side today.

Notes to You

What to do on and off the campus and still keep out of trouble? That takes a little ingenuity. Especially with all the free time one has. Ho hum. How to spend those lonely afternoons and evenings is the question. This is not just a problem of freshmen alone.

One of the many resources in this thriving metropolis is a joyful afternoon on the millrace—in a canoe. Though swimming in the local Mississippi, voluntary or not, is BAD BUSINESS. In fact, if the thought comes to you, you might even take an evening paddle. Why not consult the professor in astronomy as to how the stars will be that night. Just a suggestion.

If you have never noticed, the campus is surrounded by scenic beauty. Meaning the countryside. The tall majestic hills covered with lush green vegetation would make a marvelous site of a picnic for groups or individuals, according to your own nature.

A suggestion was made for a community sing once a week or month, according to one's stamina to listen as well as sing. The whole campus would take part in the art of Polymnia (singing). On any good night, and there is a good chance of one fair night out of seven, the mademoiselles and mesdemoiselles would gather on the lawns behind the Co-op. The girls being in the slight majority, forming three sides of a square, the men forming the fourth side. It was just a suggestion.
