

'Barrymore' Vogler To Star In Guild Play

By JEAN LAWRENCE

"Four score and 10,000,000 years ago our fore-fathers brought forth upon this continent a spark of life . . . and then comes the flood."

Louis Vogler, who has played a lamebrained cop, inebriated stock broker, great lover, and now Adam, or more specifically Mr. Antrobus in "The Skin of Our Teeth," slouched at bay behind a stray Emerald and tried to go back to sleep.

We asked him which of his four above-mentioned parts on the University theater stage caused the greatest strain on his dramatic prowess. He thought strain was a good word. After straining for some minutes he replied that the drunk stockbroker in "Dark Victory" last winter term took the most work. He liked best the part of Dion Anthony in spring term's "The Great God Brown." "I died in the second act!"

Disillusioned

Louis "Barrymore" Vogler stated the facts of his life in a broken, sorrowful voice. He comes from Klamath Falls and he's a music major. He drove a logging truck at Fort Klamath this summer. We asked him if he'd gone out for dramatics in high school. "I was smarter in high school than in college—no," was the reply.

"What I truthfully think about 'The Skin of Our Teeth' couldn't be printed, but don't tell people that—we want them to buy tickets," he leered, in sotto. "The best line in the play? 'After experience has taught me . . . ' because it's the last line I say. Come to the play and find out what I'm supposed to mean!"

Red Cross Room To Open Saturday

Soldiers, sailors, and marines are still in need of bandages in the hospitals and on the battlefronts, and every University woman will have the opportunity to help make surgical dressings for the armed forces when the Red Cross room in Gerlinger reopens Saturday.

Dorothy Rasmussen, surgical dressings chairman of the campus Red Cross chapter under the auspices of the war board, announced Wednesday that the room on the third floor of Gerlinger will be open from 9 to 12 on Saturday morning.

Men's Smoker Draws Ratio of 200 to 2; BINFSAOMUO Mystery Is Revealed

About 200 University men students and faculty members—and two women—witnessed an hour and a half of boxing and musical entertainment at the men's smoker held last night in McArthur court.

The secret of the BINFSAOMUO, the committee which sponsored the affair, was revealed by George Luoma, junior in law, who was chairman of the "mystery" committee. The name for which the letters stand was declared to be the "Benevolent, Independent, Nonpolitical, Fraternal, and Social Associated Order of the Manpower of the University of Oregon."

matches made up the fight program, which was climaxed by the first-round technical knockout victory of Bob "Irish" Runyan over Bob Caviness, in a bout that had been scheduled to go ten rounds. Runyan belted Caviness to the canvas no less than three times, and although the latter came back gamely and finished the round, the referee stopped the fight.

In the other boxing bouts Ray Morrison and Dick Stonebreaker, went to a fast draw; Hal Ford and Bert Bowman slugged it out for another draw; and Sid Ainsworth took a third match from Bob Davis by forfeit when Davis' leg, which

Paper for Salvage Drive Offered by Alum Office

Doris Hack, acting alumni secretary, announced Wednesday that 100 pounds of magazines and papers will be given to the first house calling for the salvage. Houses are asked not to call for waste paper before 9 o'clock.

Reception To Honor Faculty

Acting President Orlando J. Hollis and Mrs. Hollis will be hosts to members of the faculty reception in Alumni hall of Gerlinger at 8:30 tonight. New members of the faculty will be honored.

Kwamas Tap Member
Elizabeth Gilmore, Gamma Phi Beta, was tapped for Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, during the dinner hour yesterday.

'Commando' Ashton To Hi-light Assembled

The life of a British commando will be described to University of Oregon students this morning at 11 a.m. in McArthur court by Major Frank Peter Ashton, '27. His talk is entitled "D-Day and After With the British Forces." The former member of Mountbatten's staff in Asia, is scheduled to be introduced by acting President Orlando John Hollis. A vocal solo by Rose Zena Latta with Betty Taylor as accompanist will make up the musical portion of the assembly.

Major Ashton entered the Royal artillery as a captain at the start of the war, after giving up plans for a medical career, but was transferred to the commandos. With the commandos he saw action in Algiers, a landing in Sicily, and later was appointed to an advisory position to Lord Louis Mountbatten in Southeast Asia.

Major Ashton gained battle experience fighting through the Tunisian campaign with the 78th division, after landing in Algiers. A direct bomb hit sank the warship carrying him to a landing in Sicily. Because of his experience and training, Major Ashton was sent to join the Southeast Asia command staff as a naval bombardment adviser, after he became a major in 1943.

Major Ashton is touring the United States under the auspices of the British government. He is scheduled to speak to the Eugene Chamber of Commerce Friday.

First House In War Drive To Receive $5

Five dollars worth of records will reward the house which contributes the most paper to the salvage drive Friday and Saturday, the war board decided Wednesday. To the two houses whose yields rank next, will go phonograph records worth $3 and $2.

The war board chairman in each house should see that newspapers and magazines are collected in his house, and tied in bundles. Coeds are encouraged to collect waste paper from private homes in order to swell their contributions.

Bundles must be placed on front porches of campus living organizations so that they may be picked up after 4 p.m. Friday, October 20, or on Saturday.

Bibbits Strong and Florence Hintzen, co-chairmen of the salvage committee of the war board, will appoint a committee to staff the trucks.

'Smoke Jumper' to Talk Tonight at Westminster

Experiences in combating forest fires will be related tonight by William Walfon, smoke jumper, at 8 in Westminster house.

Mr. Walfon explained the term "smoke jumper" as a man who parachutes from planes to fight forest fires, and he has promised to inform the group of a few of his unique activities in this capacity.

Oregana Pix
Phi Gamma Delta house and Gamma hall are scheduled to have their Oregana pictures taken at Kennell-Ellis studios today.

13 Candidates To Compete In Elections

Nine candidates for the freshman position and four for the junior position on the ISA executive cabinet will compete in Friday's election. Aspirants for the freshman post are Gloria Smith, Barbara Wells, Dorothy Fowler, Beverly Main, Geneva Davis, Margaret Griffiths, Betsy West, Gwen Carter, and Joe Chiaramonte. The junior position is sought by June Fine, Catherine Crombie, Barbara Fossen, and R. Kay Hoover, Jr.

Balloting will be in the Co-op from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. Friday with ISA senators acting as poll clerks. All independent students are eligible to vote.

The plan to have unaffiliated independents choose their ISA senators in this election has been abandoned. Groups of unaffiliates, organized by Irvin Webb, are selecting their representatives by petition.

Carey Orchestra To Play At Dance

Webfoots will be given their first tangible opportunity to show their stuff at a dance Saturday night October 21, at Gerlinger hall. Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, and Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, will join forces to present an all-campus "Hello" dance with the music of George Carey and his orchestra. Although belated, the "Hello" theme will be carried out by the decoration committee and "short silks" will be the rule for women. During the dance, from 9 to 12 p.m., Skull and Dagger will tap five new members.

Anyone desiring "date information" may have his or her problem solved by the date committee, composed of Jean Watson, Barbara Pearson, Russ Monahan, and Bob Bissett, appointed for this purpose. Admission to the "Hello" dance will be $1.20 per couple, including tax.

Mosby Again To Head Campbell Club Co-op

Jerry Mosby was re-elected president of Campbell club coop by unanimous vote at a meeting of the organization held Monday, October 16.

Other officers elected are as follows: Robert Rose, vice-president; Lloyd Stutsman, secretary; Bruce Markell, re-elected social chairman; James Beyer, house manager; Donald White, ISA senator; Dick Tretheway and Gordon Croell, board members at large.
