

Pigger's Guide Gets New Face

A bright yellow cover will be one of the distinctive features of this year's Pigger's Guide, according to Jean Lawrence, editor. The cover has been designed by Carol Hinson, freshman in art.

A few changes have been made in the student directory this year. The songs and yells which were printed in the back of last year's directory have been omitted as they were previously printed in the freshman handbook. Another difference is that no asterisks have been placed before the married students' names.

Positions on the Pigger's Guide staff are: Jean Lawrence, editor; Berta Reithe, assistant editor; and Annamae Winship, business manager.

Wesley, Westminster Plan Social Activities

Wesley house reminds students that Tuesday night is open house for all who care to come. After classes on Wednesday at 4, drop in for tea around the fireplace. It's mighty tempting on rainy days, and relaxing too, according to Miss Mary Carpenter, director.

Westminster House

A potluck dinner will be held at Westminster house at 6 on Wednesday evening—food for thought, and also for eating. Everyone is welcome.

Webb Reports

New "YW" Plans Now in Progress

The University YWCA is sponsoring a new plan which will provide a program for out-of-school girls and young business women. This will complete the plan which already includes approximately 1000 high school and college girls in Eugene.

The program calls for forums, informal classes and discussions, and recreational activities, among them coeducational. A committee from the YMCA is working on the developments of the plan.
