

Girls 'n Boys 'N Music . . .

By DOROTHY KIENHOLZ

If Oregon coeds are wondering why they didn't have a date last Saturday, they can blame it on the many house dances which absorbed most of the eligible men on the campus.

As a group of "potential FBI women" wandered from house to house dolefully peeping in windows to see what the men in their life were up to, they saw several original ideas in the way of house dance themes.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Fluffy cotton clouds, glittering stars, and cherubic angels formed the decorations for the Theta "heaven" in the living room, while the strains of George Geyre's orchestra floated through the "ethereal" atmosphere. A peek into the basement uncovered heat. In the center, a space fenced off by large black chains contained a cauldron of dry ice steaming and bubbling over a fire. The floor about it was littered with bones. Two Thetas dressed in red "longies" served punch and cake. Upstairs, the center of attraction in the sunroom was a wishing well, with arbors and love seats scattered about the room.

Continuing their wanderings, the sluths stopped next at the Alpha Gamma Delta's traditional formal, "Castle Dance." In the living room were thrones occupied by Mrs. H. J. Boyd, the housemother, as queen, and the pledges as princesses. The "court" of lords and ladies was composed of the patrons and patronesses.

Alpha Delta Pi

The Alpha Delta PIs preferred a "Raze Hay" barn dance. After climbing the hay stack barrier at the door, the weary wanderers dropped to the floor amidst corn stalks. Enjoying the portraits of Ozark mountain people on the walls, the detectives were startled to hear the clock strike 11.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Back down the row to the Kappa Kappa Gamma house, the amateur Sherlock Holmes and Watson found a "Gay Nineties" music hall, complete with dance floor, and photo tintype room, in which pictures of that era were displayed. Snaps taken of different individuals with courage enough to supplant the head of the sketched figures, with their own, provided much amusement.

Pi Beta Phi

With curfew about to sound only enough time remained for a quick peek through the closed curtains of the Pi Phi house at their "Jama Jump," pajama party. A buffet supper had been served around the fireplaces, and the decorations connoted a sleepy atmosphere.

that the future of America is to be found in the unity of our people in support of democratic processes and in a determination to make the will of the people the policy of the government."

Berlin announced that London has been under fire from the new V2 robot bomb for some time. Very heavy damage was claimed.

The sky is not blue, not even on the sunniest summer day. The sky is absolutely black. It appears to be blue as a result of dust from the earth itself, which diffuses light.

Net Spiking Highlights Fast Games

In Wednesday's volleyball game, the Gamma Phi Betas decisively beat their opponents, the Kappa Kappa Gamma team, by a final score of 60 to 15, the Pi Phi team defeated the Alpha Chis, 37 to 33, and the Alpha Gamma Deltas emerged victorious over the Alpha Xi Deltas, 39 to 20.

In the first half the Gamma Phis were leading the Kappas and maintained their lead throughout the entire game, with their captain, Janet Thompson, Norma Wilder, and Jo Anne Knight doing a consistent job of expert serving. The combination of Sally Spiess, Janet Thompson, and Jeanne Robinson as spikers at the net rolled up the score for the Kappas. Acting captain for the Kappas was Mary Fairchild.

The Pi Phis, captained by Mary Lou Welch, and the Alpha Chis, headed by Margery Slayter, were tied, 17 to 17, at the end of the first half, but the serving of Peggy Finnell chalked up the winning points for the Pi Phis.

At the end of the first half, the Alpha Gamma Deltas, headed by Margaret Hughes, were leading the Alpha Xi Deltas, captained by Edith Wilson, 18 to 11, and stayed in the lead to make the final score of 39 to 20.

In Tuesday's game the three victorious teams were Alpha Delta Pi over Alpha hall, 45 to 24, Chi Omega against Omega hall, 33 to 29, and the Sigma Kappas over Delta Gammas. The closest of the three games was between the Sigma Kappas and the Delta Gammas, and an extra five minutes of play was required to decide the winner, because when time was called the teams were tied. The captain of the victorious Sigma Kappa team was Corky McFadden, and for the winning ADPi team, Barbara Stephens.

On the ADPi team, besides Captain Stephens and sister Evelyn, Bobby Edwards, Betty Davis, and Charlotte Wicke played and served to bring the team home the winners. For the Chi Omegas Marilyn Holden and Dorothy Shepperd scored although Captain Lois Blankenship, Gayl Barber, and Ethyl De Nite of Omega hall kept up their team's scoring average.
