

ISA Plans Free 'Turkey Trot'

Oregon Ducks will change their style a bit next Wednesday night when the whole campus will be doing the "Turkey Strut" to the music of Harry James or Artie Shaw, Chairmen John Craig and Virginia Harris of the ISA announced today.

In cooperation with the members of the ISA, who are sponsoring this mixer Thanksgiving eve, all members of the student body will be admitted free. Similar to the mixer of last year, Craig promises to provide an unusual Wednesday night's entertainment.

Committee heads appointed for the function are: program, Doro-

YWCA Activators Sell Doughnuts; Profit, $50

Three thousand doughnuts bringing $50 to the YWCA Activators group, were sold on the campus Wednesday, according to Sally Bosch and Alice May Robertson, co-chairmen.

Booths were located in the library, the Co-op, near Friendly hall, and Commerce. Fifty girls helped sell the confections.

Remodel Room In Fenton Hall

The basement of Fenton hall is being converted into a lecture room which will seat approximately 200 students. When the law school was remodeled several years ago, this room was left unfinished. It is now to be completely furnished with forced ventilation, satisfactory lighting and new chairs.

The new classroom, which will be used for general University purposes, is expected to be completed by the fall of 1945. The total cost of equipment and building materials will be approximately $10,600.

Oregon State students honor nations of the world by giving a student body dance at which beautiful coeds represent nine countries.

Campbell Downs NCC Hoopsters

The Campbell co-op basketball team last night, in preparation for the coming intramural league, ran all over a team from Northwest Christian college in a very fast pre-season game, with the final score 43-24.

The game was slow in starting with a 4-6 count at the end of the first quarter with Campbell co-op on the long end. Score at the half was also close, 16-18 with the co-op team still on the long end. From then on the co-op team used a fast break and ran all around NCC.

High man was Mosby of the co-op with 18 points; high for NCC was D. Byers with 6.

Lineups:
S Campbell co-op (43): forwards—Stiles 4, Beyer 10, Wood 1; center—Einnerson 4; guards—Mosby 18, Miller 4, Parker 2.

Northwest Christian college (24): forwards—D. Byers 6, Leavitt 2, Smith 4, Beyers; centers—Huckins, Bartlof; guards—Armstrong, Haskell 4, Osburne 2, Whitford 2.

As I look back over the years, it seems to me that her greatest contribution possibly was to be found in the graciousness and courageousness of her own life. She gave of self generously, in spite of fatigue and the many demands of a dean of women's office. She developed a wide contact with students, as well as with their parents and families.

By the constant and kindly stimulation of her interest and example, she inspired leadership and initiative among the students, inspirational guidance going often beyond the college years and into the lives of graduates living all

Dr. John C. Merriam's Talk Reviews Man Through Ages

Speaking on "History and Evolution," Dr. John C. Merriam, consultant in human values in science and nature, informed general anthropology students Friday that, in relation to world affairs, the important idea in studying history is to discover the important trends and to find how they apply in planning our lives today and in the future.

Changes through evolution may be so radical that species which are almost completely new appear, but the general characteristics of the ancestor are retained, at least in part, he said.

over the country. Her standards were exacting, her principles high.

Her loss will be felt deeply at the University, in her own community and throughout the state.

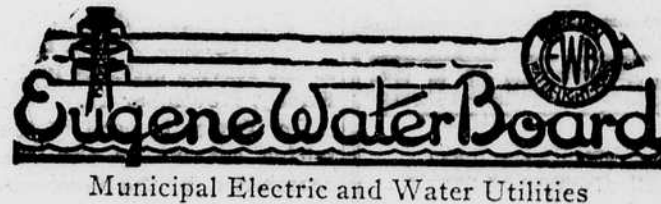

ALICE B. MACDUFF
Assistant Dean of Women

In studying the world and history, three facts must be recognized: (1) The world, in the scientific sense, goes forward under the guidance of natural laws which are dependable and invariable through space and time; (2) Each part of the world of nature, including man, is related to all other parts; (3) As the story of any group is followed, new elements are found to be introduced through evolution, and there is a tendency for things to develop according to natural laws.
