

UO to Observe Thanksgiving With Vespers

Under the sponsorship of the University school of music, a program of traditional Thanksgiving music will be given at the music auditorium Thursday at 11 a.m.

Included will be organ selections, numbers by the vesper choir, and a meditation by Bruce Jones, a Northwest Christian college student.

Helen Luvaas, organist and choir director, will offer as the program's opening selection, an organ prelude, "Sonata, No. 2" by Mendelssohn.

Two numbers by the vesper choir will follow. They are "Bless This House, O Lord, We Pray" by Brahe and "Prayer of Thanksgiving" arranged by Kremser. Miss Luvaas will direct the numbers.

Accenting the Thanksgiving theme, students will stand and sing the hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People."

Bach's "Arioso" will be presented as a violin solo by Melba Chehak. "A Psalm of Thanksgiving, Psalm 103," has been chosen as the scripture reading given by Audrey Holliday, ASUO president.

"Bless the Lord, O My Soul," by Ippolito Ivanof will be sung by the vesper choir. The text is taken from Psalm 103. Bruce Jones, NCC student, will give the meditation.

"Choral Benediction" by Gretchaninof will be the choir's closing selection. It is titled "Lord, Now Lettest Thou Thy Servant Depart, According to Thy Word."

Completing the program will be an organ postlude by Miss Luvaas.

Prospective Teachers Will Meet November 28

All prospective teachers who plan to avail themselves of the services of the University teacher placement service in obtaining teaching positions for mid year or next year are asked to meet Tuesday, November 28 at 4 p.m., room 2, Education building.

Those interested are asked to enroll and file their records with the office in the near future, as the available clerical help for copying these records is limited.

Mickey Metcalf, originator of the winning slogan of the drive, "Victory Clicks with War Loan Six," was introduced at the rally.

Chi Omega's quintet sang "It Happens to You" and "Cuddle

Up a Little Closer," and the rhythms of Cliff Mallicoat with his jive-hep student orchestra added to the enjoyment of the audience. They played "Honeysuckle Rose" and "Blues in B-Flat." Closing the program, Sue Welch led the audience in singing "Mighty Oregon."

but a small proportion of the Mexican people. Nevertheless, the panorama of Diego Rivera's huge murals on the wall of the Palacio Nacional, with their adroitly worked in but quite obvious social slant, impressed us, as did the equally propagandic murals by the same artist in—of all places—the ministry of education building.

University professors, we learned through questioning of guides and others, are also given to freely-spoken opinions, both in the classroom and out. Occasionally they pass from speech and written opinion to direct action. Student demonstrations against government regulations have been frequent, we were told, and in at least one instance a group was besieged in a classroom. They held out for several days, with food being passed to them by fellow students who had strung a wire to a building across the narrow street.

Opposition to the sentiments of artists is sometimes equally physical. A part of one of the Rivera murals in the palace which attacks the Catholic church has been defaced three times. Each time the artist has replaced the obliterated portion.

Despite the vehemence with which political struggles are often carried on in Mexico, however, anyone with enough money to buy advertising space is permitted by the government to say anything he likes in any publication. In fact, the most restricted section of any big Mexican journal is often its English-language page.

Elisha Gray

Enos M. Barton

When Professor Elisha Gray and young Enos M. Barton, not long out of college, organized in 1869 the partnership later to become Western Electric, they paved the way for many developments which have enriched your life.

For many years, the Company has been manufacturer, purchasing agent, and distributor for the Bell Telephone System, whose service you have known all your life.

Through telephone work, college trained men and women at Western Electric helped find other ways to make your life fuller and safer. For example, radio broadcasting—talking pictures—marine, aviation and police radio—train dispatching equipment—all were pioneered by Western Electric.

Today, Western Electric is doing its greatest job—turning out huge quantities of electronic and communications equipment to help our fighting men and to speed the day of Victory.

When that day comes, Western Electric will resume its 75-year-old job of making communications equipment to further enrich your life.
