

Campus Pleases Foreign Visitor

By MARGUERITE WITTEWER

Exclamations of delighted surprise from Madame Albert Jonniaux, distinguished world traveler and wife of the Belgian court artist, came at intervals during the entire one-hour tour of the University campus Thursday afternoon last week.

Madame Jonniaux, who spoke on World Unity; Our Part as Individuals at the all-campus assembly in McArthur court last week, requested to be shown around the campus after her luncheon at the Alpha Phi house.

"How exquisite! What a perfect setting for chamber music; it is informal and yet it is so peaceful. Surely you are one of the few schools with such an auditorium?" she said when she was shown the school of music auditorium by Dean Theodore Kratt of the music school. The outdoor theater behind the music building was viewed with surprise and appreciation for the old apple orchard and the potentialities of springtime beauty.

Campus Architecture

The contrasting colors in the marble of the interior of the library were praised as being particularly lovely and Madame Jonniaux wanted to know where each variety of the stone was quarried. The entrances of the library and the soft muted coloring and restful arrangements in the browsing

First Amphibian Tryout Scheduled January 23

Potential Esther Williamses will be given the opportunity to try out for Amphibian membership January 23 and 30. Tryouts will be held at 4 p.m. on these days in the Gerlinger pool, Betty Crabb, chairman, announced.

The 35 members of the women's swimming honorary are planning the presentation of their spring term water pageant given annually on Junior Weekend. Women interested in participating are urged to attend the Tuesday tryouts.

Flowers for Pill Palace

Flowers are in order for the four coeds on sick call at the infirmary, and all corsages, bouquets, orchids, roses, gardenias, or violets may be sent to: Bonita Hesse, Sylvia Sachtre, Loree MacFarlane, and Signa Grimested.

The pill palace, located at 13th and Onyx, provides medical care for all University students and is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on week days.

room impressed her, as did the wrought iron doors of the circulation room.

The campus-guest became interested in the name of the architect of the buildings, E. F. Lawrence, dean of the school of art and architecture. She seemed fascinated by the unusual structure of the windowless Murray-Warner museum of Oriental art and was escorted through the museum by Mrs. Marjorie Reynolds, museum librarian.

"My husband and I have always loved Chinese art and I do believe that you have one of the most splendid collections in this country. This is one of the very few museums which deals exclusively in that kind of art and I wonder if your students really appreciate the great beauty which is here available for them," Madame Jonniaux, former resident of London, Paris, Spain and now San Francisco, commented.

From a young soldier, killed in action, who had never even attended the University of Washington, Nelson A. Wahlstrom, university comptroller, recently received a money order for $13.63 to be applied to student aid funds.

Journalism School Changes Secretary

Mrs. George Berrettoni, formerly Martha Stewart, graduate of the University school of journalism in 1938, is replacing Mrs. Laurance as secretary of the school of journalism.

Women's editor of the Emerald while she was at the University, Mrs. Berrettoni also has her name on the Turnbull-Hall plaque, for the outstanding senior student member of the Emerald staff.

After graduation, she worked on the Woodland Democrat for three years under J. W. Sehorn, also a graduate of Oregon. Mrs. Berrettoni is here for the duration; her husband is with the 7th army in France.

Dr. George Beadle Gives Chemistry Lecture Today

Dr. George W. Beadle, professor of biology at Stanford university will lecture on the subject, "Genes and the Chemistry of the Organism" in room 207, Chapman hall, at 8:15 p.m. today.

Members of the student body and all others interested are cordially invited to attend.

Soderwall Makes Study

Dr. A. L. Soderwall, instructor in zoology, is making a study of the reproductive cycle of the Hamster, a native rodent of Palestine and Syria.

Colombian Student Finds

When asked how the social functions and customs here correspond to Colombian consuetudes he replied, "Well, again they are much the same, even our manner of dress is similar. A few customs are different, such as with dating when you are required to have chaperones. But many Americans have an erroneous opinion about this, for when we, what you call double date, chaperons are not necessary.

Colombians Always Late

"Also it is always a practice to arrive late at all parties; no one with good manners arrives on time. We have two or three official dances a year given by the republic, besides the private affairs.

"As for the girls, well, I don't know how to qualify them. I like

Pie-Eyed

Fun at one of the campus sor-slice of the pie squarely in the burbling point when one of the sisters sat smack down on a slice of soft lemon pie which had been placed in her chair while she answered the phone. Revenge proved to be rather stickily sweet when, while the members were filing out of the dining room, the owner of the be-spattered skirt landed another slice of the pie squarely in the face of the first offender.

their frankness, because I feel it is better to tell what you are thinking. We don't have any redheads and few blondes in South America, and you have many here, which I like."

Horace seemed to think the American language was quite difficult, "When you come to South America it is not hard for you to understand our language, but when we come here, oh, it is terrible! Especially to try and understand the people who speak Spanish.

Enjoys Slang

I had the most trouble with the word scissors, for we would pronounce it scesors, and when I tried to buy one in a drugstore, they offered be everything from salt to seeds. I like your slang because it is so expressive, and another thing I enjoy is your lack of gossip."

Future plans are rather indefinite for Horace, because of the war, but he does have many ideas, "Perhaps I will stay here for another year and then return to South America to do some sort of city planning. There is a city near the capital of Colombia which I am particularly interested in and maybe that can be worked out."

Lost

SILVER cogarette case with the initials F.J.T. on it, from a gym locker in Gerlinger on Monday afternoon. A reward is offered if the finder will please return it to Sallie Timmens at the Gamma Phi Beta house or turn it to the Emerald. It is of the utmost sentimental value, and its safe return would mean more to its owner than its material value. No questions will be asked.
