

ALEXANDER KERENSKY, RUSS DIPLOMAT, TO SPEAK TODAY

ALEXANDER KERENSKY
Former head of the post-revolutionary provisional government in Russia. Kerensky, now in exile, will speak to student audiences on the campus today and Wednesday.

PHYLLIS KISTE
The University's own version of Helen of Troy, Miss Kiste is a heartbreaker in her own right; as for launching ships? See "The Trojan Women" and find out.

Today's World

THROUGH CRUMBLING Rhine river defenses U. S. first army infantry and tanks plunged to within 10½ miles of Cologne. To the south the U. S. third army moved ahead several miles in three crossings over the Pruem river.

GREAT CENTERS of the center of Tokyo is reported to be in flames following Monday's raid by more than 200 super-fortresses and 1,000 carrier planes.

NEARLY ONE-HALF of Iwo Jima including the vital central airdrome is now in the hands of U. S. marines.

FOR THE 14th consecutive day American and RAF bombers pounded Berlin. Erfurt, Mainz, and Bremen were also attacked.

In his only appearance in Oregon, Alexander Kerensky, former Russian diplomat, will speak on the campus today and Wednesday, the fourth speaker on the University-sponsored lecture series.

Kerensky is not only an important name in Russian history, but in world history, for his part preceding and following the Russian revolution helped shape the course of world events. An upholder of democracy, Kerensky became the president of the provisional government of Russia in 1917, only to be exiled when the Bolsheviks came into power. Until the fall of France in the present world war he lived in Europe, working to promote democracy. Since then he has lived in the United States. He is appearing in Eugene under the auspices of the Association of American colleges.

Schedule of Appearances

Included in Kerensky's schedule is a public lecture at 7:30 Tuesday evening, in the auditorium of the music building, when he will speak on Russia and the international situation.

In addition, he will appear before certain classes. Tuesday at 11 a.m. Kerensky will speak to students in war and peace, international relations, and editing classes in room 207, Chapman, on the origin of democratic and totalitarian ideologies.

On Wednesday Kerensky is scheduled to appear before the history classes, in room 207, Chapman. At 11 a.m. he will speak on the Russia revolution of 1917, and at 2 p.m. on Russia and the Far East. All students are invited to attend these classes.

ISA Announces Post-Game 'Mix' For Saturday

Tickets for the ISA "Winter Mix" will be placed on sale Wednesday, Harriett Farr and Doris Spearow, co-chairmen for the dance announced. The dance will be held in Gerlinger hall Saturday night after the Oregon-Oregon State game, March 3, and campus clothes will be in order.

Ervin Webb, dance program chairman, promises an entirely new program which will be highlighted with new campus talent. Webb reports that he and his committee have developed an unprecedented method of presentation which will enable everyone to see the show.

Decoration Chairman Gloria Smith, has developed a design for the ISA dance which features a radical departure from the usual decoration theme, according to reports from her co-workers.

Members of the committee are planning a record attendance for the dance because of the large number of Oregon State students who will be visitors on the campus for the basketball game.

CAPT. MAURICE HUNTER
Reported killed in action in the Burma theater, Captain Hunter is the son of Chancellor and Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter.

Maurice Hunter, Chancellor's Son Killed in Action

Word that their younger son, Capt. Maurice Harold Hunter, was killed in action at Lashu January 31, was received February 25 by Chancellor and Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter of Eugene. Capt. Hunter, who recently informed his parents of his impending promotion to major, was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1941. While in school, "The Load" as he was known to his fraternity brothers, was a member of the military honor society, Scabbard and Blade, and of Beta Theta Pi. He also participated in football and was commander of Company A, honor company of the ROTC.

Trained at Ft. Ord

Capt. Hunter entered the army infantry as a second lieutenant the day after his graduation from the University in June, 1941, and was assigned to the seventh division at Fort Ord, California. After further training at Fort Benning, Fort Meade, and Camp McCoy, he was sent to India, where he trained Chinese troops. He was promoted to captain in November, 1942. Assigned to combat duty as captain of E company in the 475th regiment in November, 1944, he was active in the campaign to open the Burma road, and was killed in line of this duty. For his service with this unit in the Burma road operations, he was awarded the bronze star January 20, which

Norway Under Nazi Rule on Movie Bill

Norwegian resistance to the Nazi regime will be depicted in "Before the Raid" which will head the program of free movies to be given at Chapman, room 207, 7:30 Wednesday night. "Indispensable Ingredient," a color film, is the story of salt as it goes through its various processes.

"Architects of England" shows the work being done in England by her builders.

Also on the program will be a March of Time on South Africa.

Franchere Will Address House Librarian's Meet

Hoyt C. Franchere, assistant professor of English, will discuss the outstanding recently published novels at a meeting of house librarians this afternoon at 4 in the browsing room of the library. The general public, as well as students and librarians, are invited to attend.

Frosh Garlic Glamour Gal Gets War Blame, Likes It

"I'm the 'glamour girl of the garlic age!'" laughed Phyllis Kiste, freshman in English, soon to appear at Guild hall as the mysterious Helen of Troy in "The Trojan Women."

"She's such a hypocrite, proud and very beautiful, the only Greek among all those Trojan women, and they blame her for the war. It's fun to pretend you caused all that trouble!"

Phyllis is having her first real fling in drama, although she was in the production class at Franklin high where she was also feature and sport's editor of the Franklin High Post. She graduated from Franklin in '44 and worked for eight months in civil service for the navy. She entered the University in September on an Oregon Mothers' scholarship.

No Greek Gods Now

The play is very interesting to her, Phyllis says, especially since she is learning a lot about history and Greek gods and goddesses. There's always some fun, too. "First we thought I should come on stage singing 'The Last Time I Saw Paris,'" but Mrs. Seybolt didn't think it quite appropriate. It's still my theme song."

Best of all she likes the fact that after Menalaus takes Helen home a captive, intending to kill her, she gets the best of him after all. "This day and age things are different," Phyllis said in mock sadness.

YW Officer Here To Talk To Women

Miss Eleanor French, executive secretary of the national student council of the YWCA with offices in New York, will arrive in Eugene this evening for a two-day visit on the campus. This is a part of an extensive tour of college and university YWCA branches across the country.

While on the campus Miss French will confer with officers and board members of the local association. On Wednesday she will be the guest of the Luncheon club at a pot-luck lunch at the YWCA, and in the evening will attend a joint meeting of the YWCA-YMCA student cabinets. Thursday noon all campus women will have an opportunity to meet Miss French when she addresses them at an open meeting at 4 p.m. at the "Y" bungalow.

Miss French has been on the na-

Red Cross Drive Will Climax With Awarding of Silver Cup

The Red Cross drive is in full swing on the campus this week. March 2, a silver cup will be awarded to the house with the largest contributions. Nick Weddle, president of Skull and Dagger, has announced that the cup may be awarded during the half of the Oregon-OSC game Saturday night.

To the first house to go 100 per cent an award of $4 worth of records will be presented. This money is to be taken to Mary K. Minor, collections chairman, at the Tri-Delt house.

Quota Set at $1200

The quota for the University has been set at $1,200, which will be turned over to the Lane County war fund. This fund includes nurses' aides, blood donor services, emergency relief, disaster relief, and others.

Membership cards may be purchased from the house representatives for not less than $1. Small Red Cross flags will be given to any contributor no matter how small his donation may be.

General chairman of the Red Cross drive is Phyllis Donovan; collections chairman, Mary K. Minor; publicity chairmen, Nancy Sampson and Peggy Finnell; representatives, Doris Spearow; and

Veteran Pleads No Ill Intent To Indecency Charge

By JOHN J. CRAIG

"I really didn't mean any harm by anything I did," Hubert W. Callaway, 22, of Eugene, said in an interview Monday afternoon through the grilled door of the Lane county jail. He is being held under $5000 bail on a complaint from District Attorney William S. Ford charging him with lewd exposure of his person in a public place.

Young Callaway was arrested after recent reports of assaults on young women in the vicinity of the University campus. Callaway, a truck driver for a local creamery, was charged with disorderly conduct and released Saturday night on $50 bail set by City Recorder John Fields.

On Monday at 10 a.m. Callaway appeared before Justice Howard M. Brownell, on a complaint signed by Fort charging him with indecent exposure. Judge Brownell set a higher bail and granted Callaway time to consult an attorney until Tuesday, when the case will be continued. The charge placed against Callaway carries a penalty of three months to one year or $50 to $500 fine if the defendant is convicted.

Callaway's arrest was preceded by numerous reports to the police department of girls or young women being molested in the vicinity of the campus. Friday night a woman reported a car containing a nude man parked at the Amazon bridge on South Willamette street. She obtained the license number and after investigation Callaway was located and arrested.

The tall, lean, brown-haired boy puffed nervously on a cigaret, while being interviewed. He said, "I have not been very well lately—and have been under a doctor's
