

Reserves Shine for Practice Sessions

Picked as the underdogs in a do-or-die game, Coach John Warren tapered off the Webfoots' heavy workouts yesterday and pronounced the squad ready to face OSC tomorrow night.

Both Oregon and Oregon State have their necks in a noose, as the season boiled down to the fourth round of their civil war series. The Ducks scrimmaged during the first of the week with the reserves taking over the OSC style of play. The zone defense that the Beavers will use caused the Warrenmen trouble at first, but the Webfoots hope to break it open as they did in their 51-47 victory over the Orange quint early in the season.

Since then Oregon State has won two straight over the Ducks. However this game may be a different story as the whole squad appears to be in good physical shape for the first time since their series against Washington at Seattle.

The Ducks are faced with the problem of stopping both Red Rocha and freshman Bob Labhart, the two high scoring Beavers. Warren will counter with his high scorers, Dick Wilkins and Bob Hamilton.

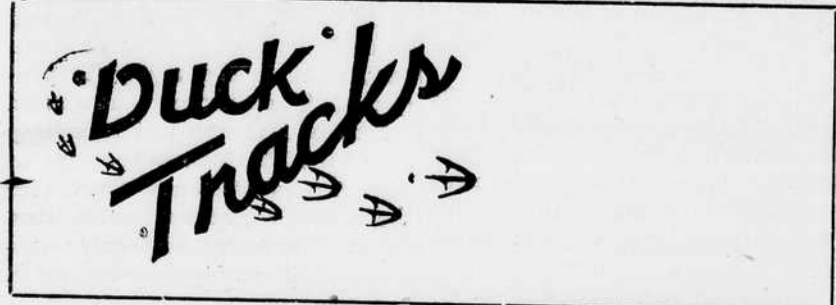

The Webfoot reserves added a bright note to the game picture, as both Reedy Berg and Frank Hoffine sparkled during the week. Hoffine seemed to find his shooting eye during the Idaho series for the first time since the early pre-season games. Berg was effective in his shooting, and did some fine work on the backboards during the Idaho games. He should see some action in tomorrow's tilt.

Slats Gill has been working his Beavers overtime in Corvallis, in hopes of taking his third straight from the Ducks. He put the height-laden Beavers through their final workouts yesterday. His ten-man squad will consist of Rocha, West, McGrath, Henningsen, Labhart, Strait, Puddy, Simms, and Moore.

A Harvard medical professor asserts a child as a rule should be six years old before his tonsils or adenoids are removed.

As a sidelight to the title race, tall Vince Hansen of the Cougars will be provided with a golden opportunity to shatter the league scoring record, set by Gail Bishop when he played with the Cougars. Hansen has tied the mark with 224 counters, and every point he scores against Idaho will be adding to a record.

Idaho will be fighting for their slim mathematical chance of pulling into a fourth place tie with the Washington Huskies, who have won 5 and lost 11. Coach Babe Brown's Vandal quint will be handicapped again by their lack of height. Their tallest man stands only 6 feet 3 inches, against the 6 feet 9 inches of WSC's Hansen.

The game between WSC and Idaho at Moscow tonight could do almost as much for the Webfoot title chances, as the game against OSC here tomorrow night. That is, providing the right team should win. In this case Idaho is the right team. If they should tip the Cougars, at least it would clear up the picture for Oregon and Oregon State.

The Vandals have a scrappy, ball-hawking team, but lack the necessary height to combat the Cougars. Not even the teams with tall firs have done too good a job of stopping Vince Hansen, and the odds are all that Idaho won't be able to either.

Higher Scoring
Checking back into the records, it seems that individual scoring is on a sharp uprise. Starting back in 1930 the scoring mark has been shattered five times. Stowell of Idaho held it originally with 171 points. Lewis from OSC topped

LEAGUE STANDINGS

OREGON .....	10	5	.666
Oregon State .....	10	5	.666
Washington State .....	9	5	.643
Washington .....	5	11	.312
Idaho .....	3	11	.214

that in 1933 with 173, and Galer of Washington repeated the next year by hitting the 176 mark. In 1936 the longest standing score was made by Wally Palmberg of OSC, who poured in 187 counters.

An interesting fact to remember is that all of these records were set when the rules were very much different. You had a jump ball after every basket, and it's easy to imagine how much slower the game was.

Even when the game became faster and featured higher scores, it took six years before Palmberg's record was passed. The 1942 Idaho squad featured bespectacled, southpaw Ray Turner, who hit the basket for 192 points to break the long standing mark.

Even 192 points were only good for one season, however, as Gail Bishop of Washington State put the court humps through workouts that seemed destined to last a good many years. Bishop hit a seemingly tremendous total of 224 points during the 16 games conference play.

WSC Man High Again

Vince Hansen of Washington State didn't start the season out in a blaze of glory, but by the time conference play had started he was creeping up in the scoring column. And now with two games left, the towering six-foot, nine-inch center has tied Bishop's mark. It's almost a certainty that Hansen will top the mark, and if he continues his hot streak, he may reach the 250 or even the 260-point mark. From now on, you high scoring enthusiasts will really have something to shoot for.

WSC Vandals Clash Tonight

Washington State and Idaho tangle tonight in Moscow, with the Cougars heavy favorites to win, but the pressure will be on the WSC quint. Washington State needs to win both of the weekend games from Idaho to remain in the Northern division hoop race.

Twin victories would cinch the Cougars at least a tie with the winner of the Oregon-Oregon State game. They have won 9 and lost 5.
