

Femininity, Colorfulness This Spring

By ANNAMAE WINSHIP

Fashions for 1945 are practical and feminine. There are many attractive coat styles the newest being the shortie, introduced last spring but in for good this season. There are many variations in the shortie styles. Some are boxed with belts across the back, others are collarless with one button. Perhaps you would rather have a cardigan type with a jaunty belt and flap pockets. Those of you inspired by the friendly relations with China, would prefer the Oriental models, designed after mandarin coats worn in the east.

There are really a number of materials to choose from, including the new soft camel's hair so popular in the off white and beige shades. There are other soft all wool toppers in pale pastel greens, blues, pinks, and yellows.

For the suit lover (what coed isn't one) there are impeccable tailored garments sparkling with style. Look for unquestionable suit appeal in the uncluttered lines of the ever-lovable cardigan models so popular in gabardines and light weight woolens.

Blouses this spring are versatile. They can be worn with suits, wool skirts, or summer cotton skirts. They are fluffy, tailored, or glamorous for evening wear. If you are a dicker devotee, choose your type in the ever-increasing number of styles now available.

Not forgetting the "I couldn't go to college without you" favorite, the college girls' friend . . . yes, sweaters are indispensable. Choose your own from the dozens of new colors. If you are fortunate enough, you may find a cashmere; if not, most of the newer sweaters are soft and wearable and can be found in cardigans, slipovers, and in long or short sleeved versions.

The theme for spring is neatness, colorfulness, freshness, and femininity. Choose your clothes wisely and make them last.
