

San Francisco Ballet Scheduled Here April 10

"If you like to be entertained you will like ballet. It is not a form of entertainment which must be cultivated—it is a form of creative expression that not only tells a story but also delights with its sheer beauty of movement and color," stated William Christensen, master of the San Francisco Ballet company which will come to Eugene April 10.

The troupe will perform in McArthur court, giving three ballets, "Nutcracker Ballet," the second act from "Swan Lake," with music from Tchaikowsky, and "In Old Vienna" by Johann Strauss. The San Francisco Ballet originated as an outgrowth of the San Francisco Opera company seven years ago, has its own building and staff.

William Christensen, director and choreographer for the group, is a Danish-American formerly of Portland.

The night performance at McArthur court at 8:15 will be the only one open to the public. Two shows will be given in the McDonald theater Tuesday morning for Eugene school children. Tickets will be put on sale April 2 in the educational activities office at a reduced price for University students.

Native of Peru To Talk Today

Americo Usandivaras, Pan-American exchange student to the United States, will meet with University Spanish classes today from 2 to 4 p.m. for informal conversation and discussion in room 212 Friendly hall. Mr. Usandivaras, a native of Lima, Peru, is appearing in Oregon this month through arrangements made by the office of the coordinator of inter-American affairs and the state system of higher education.

Wednesday he spoke to a Eugene high school assembly, and took part in a forum meeting in Commerce hall on the campus. He will meet with Spanish classes at University high school this morning, and will speak this noon at the Chamber of Commerce meeting at the Eugene hotel.

Usandivaras, who now is studying American educational methods by attending Missouri State Teachers' college, attended San Marcos university of Peru, and became a member of the staff of the minister of education. He is a former Peruvian naval cadet.

ASUO Dance Set in Portland

A dance given especially for University students and their friends living in Portland or the vicinity will be given under the joint sponsorship of the ASUO rally squad and the campus social chairman, Friday, March 30, in the Palais Royale. Music will be furnished by Coates' eight-piece orchestra. Tickets will be on sale at the entrance for $1.20 per couple, and dancing starts at 9 p.m.

The Palais Royale is the former Uptown ballroom, "one of Portland's finest," according to Anna-mae Winship, Emerald business manager, who initiated plans for the dance.

It has been emphasized that the dance is exclusively for Oregon and Oregon State college students who are in Portland during spring vacation and will welcome this opportunity to get together. Students may escort non-student dates but must bring their own student membership cards.

April 1 Limit Set For Scholarships

Students interested in applying for the state fee scholarship are reminded that the deadline is April 1. Application blanks can be obtained from Mrs. James De Freest in the president's office.

Since the number of scholarships to be awarded this year is small, applicants must have a grade point of 3 or better. The decreased number of scholarships is due to the smaller number of students enrolled, since the scholarships are awarded on the basis of two per cent of the total enrollment.

Zeta Hall Creates 'Stairway to the Stars'

A new moon and silver stars carried out the theme of Zeta hall's house dance, "Stairway to the Stars," when the women of that hall presented their annual house dance Friday, March 2, in the main dining room of John Straub hall.

Bonnie Hesse, social chairman, announced the following committees on planning the dance: Gloria Smith, decorations; Nikki John, refreshments; Gwen Carter, music; Donna Knight, chaperons, and Rusty Sparks, clean-up.
