WAA Will Sponsor Last of Fun Nights

Duckettes will give out with vim, vigor, and vitality when they go into action Friday, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the last WAA-sponsored fun night of the year.

Tennis, softball, badminton, ping-pong, swimming, and folk dancing will take the spotlight away from masculine company as the feminine population of the campus engage in various muscle-teasing activities. Female 4-F's may guzzle cokes, sold by the WAA members, as they watch their 1-A sisters play.

Equipment and costumes will be found at the cage in Gerlinger.

Speaking to the 15 independent organizations represented at the meeting, Alice Harter called for unity in the party and stressed that the ISA promised a clean campaign. "We have an excellent group of candidates," she commented.

Craig thanked the group for the nomination and declared independents should be given a just share of University activities. "I will do my best to further such a program," he said.

Dorothy Godknecht, junior in journalism, will run for senior representative to the ASUO executive council; Gil Roberts, sophomore in physical education, for junior representative; and Dick Williams, freshman in business administration, for sophomore representative.

After a heated contest, D. Lu Simonsen, president of the inter-dorm council, was picked as ISA nominee for president of the senior class and Charlotte Calder, president of Orides, will run for vice president.

Douglas Moore, YMCA president, was selected for the number one spot in the junior class and Harriet Farr, sophomore in architecture and allied arts, will run for number two position.

The sophomore nominations went to Ed Marshall, freshman in liberal arts, presidential nominee, and Jeanne Simmonds, freshman in journalism, nominee for vice president.

All independent organizations, with the exception of Alder and Sherry Ross halls, were represented at the meeting.

Groups which need workers should phone Marjorie Skordahl, chief coordinator, at 729, at least a day in advance so she can contact and line up the help desired.

After the work has been completed the girls will be rated according to how well the job has been done and the honorary can get an idea of each person's de-

Co-op Board Jobs Open to Students

The annual open meeting for the nomination of candidates for student representative positions on the University of Oregon Co-operative store board of directors will be held at 4 p.m. Monday, May 1, in 207 Chapman hall. Positions to be filled are two junior class representatives and one sophomore class representative.

At a meeting of the Co-op board Wednesday it was announced that 5 per cent rebates will be made to all students turning in their Co-op sales receipts before noon Saturday, May 12. Payments on these receipts will be made after June 5, 1945.

pendability. At a meeting last term freshmen signed with the committees in which they were most interested, and started to work that week.

The Tatler

(Continued from page two) Despite the war, despite the weather they still carry on. Yes, it's still Bob Moran and Gloria Montag. Much to the disappointment of the rest of the girls on the campus.

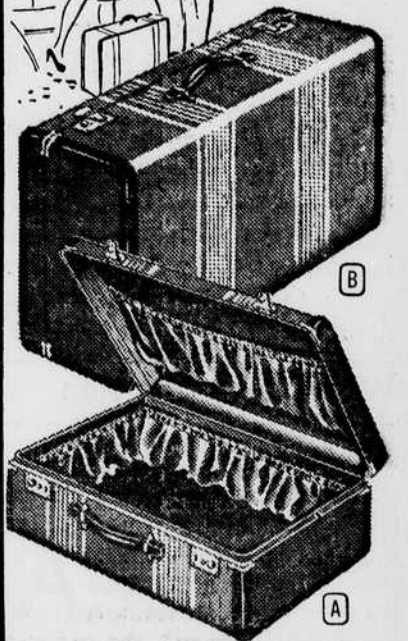

We're sorry to hear that Helen Steele is sick in the infirmary. The campus misses you, "Cis," and hopes you have a speedy recovery.

The Gamma Phis are at it again . . . Screams of childish laughter from their high-school friends are in order. Nat Brown and Dick, "I always toot around in My car," Bartholomew, are still going strong. They hit an all-time high last week when Dick, "I'm sort-of in college," Smith started going steady with Jeanne Knight; also on the steady list we found Don Westcott and Jeannie Robinson.
