

Assembly to Welcome Dr. Koo

Dr. Koo Suggests 'Moderate' Terms

By MARGUERITE WITTEW and JACK CRAIG

"When I escaped from Hong Kong after the Japanese took the city, I looked a lot like those pictures you see in your daily papers of starved prisoners of war in Germany; I had lost 32 pounds," Dr. T. Z. Koo told interviewers Wednesday.

Dr. Koo, short, slim, bright-eyed in his long grey Chinese dress and black soft leather slippers, arrived in Eugene Wednesday night from San Francisco where he has been attending the peace conference. The Chinese delegate explained that he had been able to make his getaway from the Japanese by destroying all his passports and identification papers and by traveling under what he termed his "school name," Tien Chai. Chinese children are named by their parents and renamed by their teachers in school.

'Inferior' Japanese

"No peace can be possible except on terms of unconditional surrender," Dr. Koo emphasized, accentuating his words with descriptive gestures. However, the Chinese educator continued, "hard peace terms" would embitter the proud and sensitive Japanese people who for many years have lived under a national feeling of inferiority. "You cannot keep 70 million people dissatisfied and unhappy and expect to live in a peaceful world," he said. Exploitation of a conquered nation inevitably leads to war after a period of years, Dr. Koo pointed out, citing Germany and Austria as examples.

He explained "hard peace terms" as the kind of treaty which would allow perhaps a 30-year period of U. S.-Chinese occupation of Japan, the complete reorganization of the educational system, and other radical measures.

Law Lads, BA Boys Will Climax Feud

The school of law student body, headed by President Harry A. Skerry, today voted to consider the business administration school's reply to the law school's previously issued softball game challenge as intended to be an acceptance. Due to the ambiguity of the alleged reply and the loquacious indulgence in typical business administration falsehoods, and in light of a precedent of reluctance on the part of business administration student body, it was difficult to ascertain whether the propaganda was intended as acceptance or refusal.

The law school students were swayed to request the business administration students to accept their challenge when Donald E. Turner, commissioner of athletics, reported the campus was looking forward to the annual defeat of the BA student softball players. The feud is a traditional Junior Weekend event.

ONE MARDI GRAS, COMING UP!

... Junior Weekend Co-chairmen Jean Kirkwood and Ed Allen look over pictures of last year's weekend events to check last-minute details for this year's Mardi Gras celebration.

Committee Reveals Junior Prom Plans

Final plans for the biggest dance of the year, the Junior Prom, were announced today by Signe Eklund, chairman of the dance. The Klamath Falls marine band which was well received at the Butler's Ball has consented to play for this highlight of Junior Weekend.

The dance will start at 9 p.m. and will last until midnight Saturday. Tickets are $1.80 per couple. It will be a formal affair, and flowers may be worn.

Spring Clean-Up Begins Today

Armed with brooms and rakes, Oregon men and women will start at 1 p.m. today to slick up the campus for Junior Weekend. The cleaning spree will last from 1 to 5 p.m. During this time, Mary Corrigan, chairman of the clean-up, will conduct a committee of judges on a tour around the campus to determine which organization is entitled to first prize for doing the neatest job.

The dean of women has approved the wearing of jeans or slacks for women. The campus has been divided into sections and assigned to various living organizations, according to the list which appeared in Wednesday's Emerald.

The prizes last year were awarded to Delta Delta Delta, Hillcrest lodge, and Casablanca lodge.

THEMES PLANNED

All women's living organizations have turned in their float themes, Lois Evans, chairman of the parade, announced today. Gamma hall will present "Candy," Alpha Phi, "Dreams," and Chi Omega, "Rhapsody in Blue." It was incorrectly reported that Gamma hall had not turned in their theme by the deadline set. They submitted "Candy" on time, but through a duplication with another house, it was overlooked.

Football Poll Continues

Thirteen men notified the Emerald Wednesday of their intention to turn out for football fall term, if football is to be included in the University athletic program next year. Returns on the Emerald survey of available football manpower, in conjunction with the current campaign to interest potential players to participate, were not complete Wednesday and the survey will continue until Saturday.

All questionnaires turned in to the Emerald or dropped in the box in the Co-op will be given to Cornell, University athletic manager.

EMERALD'S 1945-46 FOOTBALL MANPOWER SURVEY

All men returning to the University fall term, 1945, and who are willing to turn out for football, are requested to fill in the following blank and turn it in to the Emerald managing editor's office or the box in the Co-op.

University Is Heaven After Iwo, Says Major Smith

By JEANNE SIMMONDS

A new and shiny gold oak leaf sparkles on each shoulder as Major Warren E. Smith, USMC, home from 27 months in the Pacific, walks across the campus of his alma mater, the University of Oregon. For the major, a 1941 graduate, received his promotion March 31, and month-old oak leaves still retain their shine.

Today's World

ALL GERMAN LAND, SEA, and air forces in Italy and southern and western Austria—estimated at nearly 1,000,000 troops—were surrendered unconditionally to the allies by their commander.

MARSHAL STALIN announced the capture of Berlin, the Red army's greatest victory of the war, in a triumphant order of the day broadcast from Moscow.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN said that he had it on the best authority that Adolph Hitler is dead.

GENERAL SIR MILES C. DEMPSEY'S British 2nd army plunged a spearhead to the Baltic cutting off all of Denmark and the northern corner of Germany adjoining Hamburg, Kiel and Wilhelmshaven.

NOTICE

There will be an official practice of the law school softball team at Howe field, 4:30 this afternoon. There will be a spectator charge of fifty cents per person, according to the law school commissioner of athletics, Donald E. Turner.

Chinese Delegate Will Discuss Peace

Dr. T. Z. Koo, Chinese government delegation adviser at the San Francisco conference, will speak at an all-University assembly today at 11 a.m. in McArthur court. He will also speak at a YMCA-YWCA sponsored forum in the Alumni hall of Gerlinger at 4 p.m.

Dr. Koo arrived by plane last night at 7:15 p.m. and will be on the campus all day Thursday before returning to San Francisco. He is appearing in Eugene under the auspices of the YMCA and the YWCA with the cooperation of the University and the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Koo has lived, until recently, in Japanese-occupied territory since 1941, and the bombing of Honk Kong. Later he went to Shanghai and finally to Chungking. Early this year the Chinese government appointed him as an adviser to the Chinese delegation at San Francisco.
