

Clear Thinking Needed Now, Colonel Says

Warning that we must get to know the people of other countries in order to keep our position in the world, Lt. Col. James Owen Conville, Thursday assembly speaker, declared that we must learn to do our own thinking and not accept the ideas of others too readily, or we will lose the opportunities which have opened to us as a nation during the war years.

Col. Conville, who has only recently returned from duty in Europe, saw at first hand conditions on the continent, and declares that since the war, the United States has become the greatest nation of the world.

In many ways, England is very different from us, he said, but on the whole, they are the nation most nearly like our own, and we should learn to co-operate with them, not necessarily doing as they do, but learning to "live and let live."

Although they are our competitors in many things, we should share the responsibilities of peace with them, he explained.

While in Europe after his landing in France on D-day plus 2, Col. Conville had the opportunity to observe the nations as they were liberated. At first the French were very cool, he said, but explained that the coolness was due to their fear of the eventual return of the Germans. The Belgians, who had adopted a method of amicable agreement with the Germans, often promised to do things which they knew were impossible rather than say "no" he said, because they were so used to agreeing—or else—with their conquerors.

In Germany itself, where Col. Conville was last stationed in Aachen, the military government found cities deserted, and help was recruited from refugee camps to rebuild and repair the cities. Declaring that they "never found a Nazi," Col. Conville said that nearly all German civilians questioned wouldn't admit party membership, or would insist they hadn't paid dues to the party, despite the fact that they had held positions given only to Nazis.

It will take a lot of clear thinking to win the peace, he declared, but in his opinion, the young people of the nation are up to it.

Princeton Job Accepted

Dr. C. B. Beall, professor of Romance Languages, has accepted an invitation to teach modern languages at Princeton university, during the winter and spring terms of next year. He will go there as visiting professor and will give courses in the graduate school.

Anne Burgess Elected New Kwama President

As newly-elected president of Kwama, Anne Burgess has received the late Hazel P. Schwering's Kwama pin, which she will keep throughout her term of office. Miss Burgess was elected following the initiation banquet at the Eugene hotel Wednesday night.

Other officers elected were: Barbara Johns, vice president; Janet Hicks, secretary; and Barbara Hawley, treasurer.

AWS Notes

The AWS cabinet is making big and exciting plans for painting and redecorating their office in the Igloo. At the moment there is quite an extensive controversy on color. Should the floor be chartreuse or heliotrope? We can assure you of one thing, though. The AWS office next year will not only be quite beautiful and altogether exciting, but filled to the brim with activity and chatter. You must remember to stop in and see us.

Thursday the big auction at the Side sponsored by AWS will feature Evans Sax and Bob Moran as auctioneers. Be sure to come. Who knows, maybe those mittens you lost winter term and that knobby-knit you've been missing for quite some time may be up for auction. It will be quite an interesting affair, to say the least.

Incidentally, we hope that every living organization has turned in a list of seven girls who are interested in helping incoming freshman women to Signe Eklund, AWS president. Watch for notice of the first meeting, which will be held sometime in the near future. These girls will act in the capacity of "big sisters" to the new freshmen and will help them become oriented to university life.

That's all until next week. See you at the Side! — By Barbara Johns, AWS reporter.

name. He appeared the well-trained American businessman that he is."

"W. L. White said that Molotov's face was devoid of expression. This certainly was not so at the conference. Molotov is a proud man, intelligent, and alert. He was very impressive. He spoke only in Russian.

"At the Chinese press conference, Soong said he really had no reason for calling it. He just wanted his delegation to see an American press conference. All political parties in China were represented. A member of the press asked to have the communist delegate stand to see if he looked dangerous. The request was interpreted for him. All of the delegation laughed, he stood . . . and did not look at all dangerous.

"Anthony Eden was a man of the British school of diplomacy. He was immaculately dressed. He used a lot of drive, and talked quite a bit with his hands. At first I thought he would be the one to sway the conference at a difficult spot."

Romulo of the Philippines climaxed the session, however. An orator par excellence, he has been chosen to write the preamble to the charter.

AMERICAN HEROES

BY LEFF

As our guns groped blindly for vital enemy targets in Tunisia, Sergeant Donald V. Peterson of South Minneapolis crept beyond our lines. Snipers and machine guns raked the ground, but he pushed on, snaked forward into view of our targets. Sheltered from withering fire by one small bush, he radioed fire commands and our guns battered the enemy. His country recognized Peterson's bravery with the Silver Star. You can recognize it with another War Bond.

Annual Breakfast Given By Juniors For UO Seniors

Junior women at the University will honor seniors and housemothers Saturday at the annual Junior-Senior breakfast to be held this year at noon at the Osburn hotel.

A few tickets for the event may still be purchased at the YWCA bungalow, Ireen Jolivet, general chairman, announces.

Committee members for the luncheon are: Dorothy Manville, tickets; Evelyn Jones, guests; Altha Paul, decorations; Marion Saltness, entertainment, and Shirley Peters, publicity.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

A short Outing club fireside for all members and potential members will be held in Gerlinger hall today at 5:30 p.m. in order to discuss plans for the coming year. Each woman attending is asked to take a sack lunch and ten cents for cokes and popcorn.

Sociologists will dine and initiate for Alpha Kappa Delta tonight, 6:15, banquet room of Wills' cafe.

Peggy Ryan is Hollywood's most dynamic example of a slick chick who burgeoned into a leading comedienne in the space of several years. Brought to Universal to do a bit of jivin' in one film, the little Irish lass remained to become one of the brightest young stars on the lot. She comes to the screen next as a star of "Patrick the Great," entertaining comedy drama of a theatrical family. It is the last of the fourteen films co-starring her with Donald O'Connor, who left soon after to enter the Army Air Corps. Peggy has danced professionally since the age of three.

Ad Honorary Sets Luncheon

Miss Olive Keller, advertising manager for Charles F. Berg, Portland, will be guest speaker at the Gamma Alpha Chi luncheon today noon at the Eugene hotel. She will speak on "Your Future Perfect."

Annamae Winship, president of the women's advertising honorary, will preside at the luncheon, at which faculty members of the journalism school, members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, and Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, will be special guests.

The speaker will be introduced by Ensign Elizabeth Edmunds of the Waves, who is visiting on the campus. She is a past president of Gamma Alpha Chi, and served as business manager of the Emerald last year.

Ice Cream Sale

Ice cream will be sold on the campus today at booths located at the library, the Co-op, and the art school. The sale is sponsored by the YWCA.

The sale will last from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., during which time dixie cups will sell for five cents. Geneva Davis is chairman of the event.
