

Graduates Sight Jobs, Fun Ahead

Graduating seniors this summer will be scattered from the east coast to the Hawaiian islands. Some have chosen a summer of relaxation before venturing into their chosen work, while others are going to assume their roles of career men and women following graduation.

Alice Harter's plans for the summer include a trip to New York and a visit with her sister in Los Angeles. "I'm going to have one last big splurge before settling down to teaching school," declared Alice.

Edith Newton will step from her role as Oregon editor to news editor of the Astoria Budget. According to Edith this is a permanent job.

Returning to her home in Hawaii, Carol Wicke may possibly work for the OPA.

Lorraine Davidson plans to work in Portland this summer and then go to San Francisco in the fall to live.

Harry Skerry will remain in Eugene until July 10, when he will take his bar examination. He plans to "take a short rest" before setting up a law practice.

Following a "relaxing time" at Seaside, Joan Dolph plans to leave for Radcliff college, July 30. Joan has a scholarship for a year's work in business management training.

Audrey Holliday plans on working in Portland and taking a trip to California.

Phyllis Horstman is going to spend a week in Carmel, California, and then she may possibly work in Portland.

Anne Craven has accepted a position with the United Press this summer. She plans to go to Cannon Beach before starting work.

Student Support Urged

(Continued from page two) in the early post-war years. The fact that this can be done with income tax funds already available and without one cent of property tax offers a unique opportunity for every Oregon youth, every parent and citizen of Oregon to play a role of patriotic statesmanship on that day.

Voting Urged

Orlando J. Hollis, acting president of the University. The state building fund measure to be voted upon by the people of Oregon at the special election on June 22 means so much to the University of Oregon in the way of providing us with needed buildings that I feel justified in calling upon every member of the student body to use his best efforts in calling to the attention of his parents and friends the desirability of going to the polls on June 22 and voting in favor of this measure. We cannot expect to provide adequately for our returning veteran students and for those who will come to us in normal course from Oregon high schools unless our physical plant is expanded as soon as possible after the war. The passage of this measure will enable us to meet the great need on this campus for additional classroom, laboratory, and library facilities.

For More Students

With the proposed state building fund bill on the ballot coming before the public June 22, the voters of Oregon will have the opportunity to provide University classroom and laboratory space vitally needed for an expanding body of students, including returned war veterans. Whether they will go to the polls that day and vote "yes" to Section 300X is up to the sons and daughters of the Oregon electorate, as well as the individuals on the campus who will be voting also.

Providing a $10,000,000 appropriation, $4,000,000 of which will be disbursed for higher education, the bill will enable the immediate postwar construction at the University of Oregon of a classroom and laboratory building, to be lo-ated at 14th and Kincaid streets.

Repairs Covered

If the bill is passed, the proposed $10,000,000 appropriation will be covered in two one-year periods, each year carrying $5,000,000. University construction and repairs, as requested at the current session of the state legislature, are as follows: initially, the classroom and laboratory planned; following this will be an addition to the music building, a remodeling of Villard hall, the construction of a speech and dramatic arts building, an addition to Oregon hall, additions to the library, and an addition to Condon hall.

The appropriation provided by the measure, to be financed by state income taxes, will not necessitate an increase in property taxes because of a clause in the income tax law which provides that receipts from income tax will be used for property tax relief, and for no other purpose. "Thus the measure will not mean the collection of any additional real estate taxes. It will not mean any additional income taxes either, because the legislature provided for the surplus to be held in a reserve fund if the building measure fails to pass," it is stated in pamphlets distributed to all students at a recent assembly.

For Youth of Oregon

Necessary for returning veterans who will be going to colleges and universities on the GI bill, this measure is essential also to the youth of Oregon, for the old facilities are no longer adequate to accommodate the estimated numbers of students, constantly increasing as the population of the state rises.

Every student is urged to impress his parents with the importance and significance of this bill.

If the measure passes the voters of Oregon, it is anticipated that the University will receive $1,645,000 for the approved classroom and laboratory building. None of this money will be used for the student union building or the dormitory construction, for they are both self-liquidating projects.
