

Busy Life For Ducks

A balanced schedule of study, activities, and social life is what every Duck in the know tries to achieve, and hep students have no trouble finding dozens of interesting projects to fill each term on the campus.

Entertainment can always be found downtown although most Oregon students prefer to center their life around the campus. Eugene is equipped with a year-round ice-skating rink, roller rink, four theaters, a playhouse, several bowling alleys, two night clubs for dining and dancing, and many restaurants for those special occasion dinners or Sunday morning late breakfasts.

On campus the millrace is always crowded on warm afternoons with canoeing coeds and men. For those indispensable afternoon cokes and between-classes bridge games, everyone congregates at the College Side Inn (to Ducks, just the "Side"), Taylor's the Siberian, the Falcon, Doc's, and Robinson's.

Popular Picnics

All Oregonians are passionate about picnics, if attendance at these affairs is any indication. Weather permitting, everyone puts roasting weinies at the big fireplace at Hendricks park on their must list.

Football and basketball games, as well as rallies, will play a bigger part in each Duck's life this year. There'll be the thrill of more dates to college dances, and open houses at living organizations and Wesley and Wesminister houses.

Student plays, recitals and guest lecturers give Ducks a welcome diversion from books. It is expected that again this year renowned artists will be presented in concert in McArthur court through the Eugene Civic Music association.

All Students Belong

Previously such artists appeared under the Greater Artists Series, but now the University pays a lump sum for membership of the entire student body. Eugene residents will join the association this fall in a drive extending from September 17-22. After that membership will close. Over 1800 Eugeneans belonged last year.

Eight artists appeared in Eugene last year under the program, and C. E. Gaylord, president of the association, says that officials of the association will attempt to equal or surpass the balance, quantity and quality of the 1944-45 attractions, among whom were Rise Stevens and the Don Cossacks.

occupy half of John Straub hall as they did last spring term, and men students will live in three of the units. The Kappa Sigma house will be used by women students, and Alder lodge will house men.

Frats for Dorms

Dean Onthank says that arrangements will be made to rent other fraternity houses for student dormitories if enough reservations are received.

Two new sororities will be on the campus. The Zeta Tau Alphas have rented the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house, and the Delta Zetas have arranged for the Sigma Nu house.

Dean Onthank does not believe any of the fraternity houses will reorganize this year, although it is possible that enough fraternity members from each house may enroll fall term to make re-opening possible.

Students interested in finding rooms in private homes may take advantage of the city YWCA's room registry service. A file of available rooms now is being kept in the Y's office in the new Community Center. Some Eugeneans are willing to rent rooms to married couples.

Leaflet Aids Veterans With Information on UO

Major features of the three programs which assist discharged veterans in continuing their educations are explained in the leaflet, "Opportunities for Veterans at the University of Oregon," published by the Oregon state system of higher education. Copies are available at the veterans administration office in Portland.

Veterans who plan to attend the University of Oregon should file with the registrar, preferably before arriving on the campus: (1) official transcripts of all high-school and college work completed before entering service (except work done at the University or for which transcripts are already on file in the registrar's office; and (2) documentary evidence of work completed in service training and educational program for which academic credit is desired.

Those who wish educational aid with the U. S. veterans administration an application for authorization in the University under the terms of the act. Application forms may be obtained from any office of the veterans administration from any USES office, or from the University administrator of veterans affairs.

- To play bridge

Do you want to be a BWOC or a BTO? Do you want to be a real part of Oregon life? Then drop in for "Side-Time"

It's right on the campus and it's the heart of the campus.

FOR THAT

Oregon Look

There is a certain something about her manner ... about her dress ... it's that Oregon look a fashion-wise Eugene store like Russell's can help you achieve.

We modestly claim to be experts at helping college women choose their clothes, their cosmetics, their accessories, even their linens. Why else would both Vogue and Mademoiselle ask us to feature their clothes?

P.S. This year we're adding REALLY dressy dresses.
