

Dorm Leads Drive For Vet Radios

Twenty-nine radios for blind veterans have been purchased to date by University of Oregon students in a drive which will end tonight at 7. Susan Campbell continued to lead the drive with $101.05 collected by Thursday night. Delta Delta Delta and Pi Delta Phi ranked next with $50 each. Other contributions to date include:

Alpha Delta Pi, $47; Gamma Phi Beta, $45; Hendricks hall, $40; Delta Zeta, $42; Kappa Kappa Gamma, $36.20; Sigma Kappa, $31.95; Alpha Phi, $28.14; Kappa Alpha Theta, $27.25; Alpha Xi Delta, $27; Cooperatives, $25; Chi Omega, $25; Alpha hall, $25; Delta Gamma, $25; Alpha Omicron Phi, $24.69; Alpha Gamma Delta, $21.50; Zeta Tau Alpha, $15.50; University Co-op, $23.73.

Radio Audition Today At Four

This afternoon at 4 o'clock a talent audition will be held in the radio Extension building for all students interested in radio work. The purpose of this audition is to discover material for a student broadcast to be held every other week on station KOAC. No radio experience is necessary, and anyone interested in this type of work is invited to attend the tryouts.

Representatives from station KOAC in Corvallis will be present to aid in the selection of the most suitable talent. A student orchestra is particularly needed.

Author to Appear At Co-op Today

An opportunity to collect the autograph of Major George L. Hall with the purchase of his newly published book, "Sometime Again" will be accorded everyone attending the autograph party at 3 p.m. today in the Co-op.

The party has been arranged by the G. W. Gill Publishing Co., who appraise the book as excellent reading on life in the interior of Alaska.

A 1939 graduate, Major Hall received the Failing-Beekman prize his senior year for original oration. He was affiliated with Delta Tau Delta fraternity while on the campus.

Oliver Awaits Opener Against Husky Eleven

By Bill Walkenshaw

T. U.'s Challenged

"This new T.U. organization on the campus is a fine group—but they definitely have not the originality of Oregon's one and only genuinely secret organization, Water Troll Patrol Troop No. 6," members said Thursday.

"Although the Water Trolls do not go in heavily for publicity, they wish to protect their original status." This statement comes directly from Blanch, The Green Sage Baby. She believes that the water trolls will soon become a power on campus.

Notice to members: Announcement of a meeting will appear soon.

The University of Oregon varsity football squad was due to arrive in Seattle Thursday evening and planned for a workout in the Washington stadium today. This will be the Webfoots' final chance to prepare for their season opener with the Washington Huskies Saturday. Jake Leitch, who was to have been Oregon's big gun in the backfield, had not arrived when the Duck squad entrained for Seattle Thursday morning. Coach Tex Oliver however still has hopes as he did not take a complete 28-man squad, indicating that he still had hope that the former Randolph Field and fourth air force star would arrive in Seattle by game time. Leitch was believed to have been Rumors coming in from Washington are that Norm Sansmay be lost for Saturday's game against Oregon because of a twisted ankle. If this is true it might cancel Oregon's bad break of not having Jake Leitch for this game. All week long the Huskies have been stressing line tackling, with ball carriers substituting for dummies in practice. The Webfoots will boast only part of their scoring power without Leitch but they lack nothing on defense. Bobbie Reynolds, star left half back of '42" and big Elliott Wilson, center, and captain of the squad will be buttwarts at backing up the line. Reynolds, the boy who beat UCLA 14-7 in '42, will undoubtedly be counted on to carry the load on offense. He will receive plenty of support from Deane Bond, freshman fullback who shows plenty of drive and power when he hits a line. Bobbie Reynolds and Elliott Wilson are the only two lettermen on the team. Twenty-one of the players will be freshmen. Oregon's probable starting lineup in Seattle will be as follows: Ends: Bob Anderson, Dale Warberg. Tackles: Bill Morin, Dan Neuman, Bill Walkenshaw. Guards: John Kauffman, Steve Mizzera. Center: Elliott Wilson. Quarterback: Bill Abbey. Halfbacks: Bob Reynolds, Walt Donovan. Fullback: Deane Bond. Accompanying Coach Tex Oliver and the 28-man squad was Vaughn Corley, line coach; Bob Officer, trainer; Anson B. Cornell, athletic manager; Dr. George Guldager, team physician.

Jury Play To Open Season

"Ladies of the Jury" is the title of the play chosen to open this year's dramatic season on the campus. This announcement was made to a turnout of around 85 would-be actors and actresses at the first Theatre Guild meeting Thursday evening.

A tale of the trial and tribulations of a jury unable to agree is the gay and delirious farce. "Up-ropiously funny" was the comment given by the Cincinnati Post during its presentation in that city. Not a new play, it has met with much success and appreciation wherever it has been presented. The cast includes nine women parts and from 12 to 16 for men.

Any student interested in the 3-act drama but was unable to attend the tryouts Thursday may leave word before noon today in the office of Otilie T. Seybolt, associate professor of dramatics.

Education Reviewed by Newburn at Assembly

By Shirley Peters

Declaring that education is an individual affair, Dr. Harry K. Newburn, newly-appointed president of the University, warned his listeners at the opening assembly of the 1945-46 school year that "Whatever happens here, insofar as education is concerned, depends entirely on the individual student. We can give you the environmental factors, but we cannot educate you," he said.

Contrary to the often-repeated belief that a university is a place in which one merely prepares to live, Dr. Newburn stated that the time spent in a college or university is the most fruitful period of life. The university provides the richest environment possible, and has proved to be the perfect place in which one can grow up, the president declared.

Ask Questions

In order to check on this progress during the year, Dr. Newburn suggested that each student ask himself the following questions: Am I better able to think logically and soundly? Am I improving in ability to communicate with others orally and in writing? Do I more appreciate the worlds of art? Am I better able to deal with people? Am I gaining an understanding of the workings of the world? Am I more aware of the pervasive forces of society and politics? Do I recognize kinds of values? Do I care and strive more for higher values? Am I better able to fill a position with confidence in the world of work? Affirmative answers to these questions should indicate to the student his progress in growing up, Newburn asserted.

Future Bright

Forecasting a bright future for the University shortly, Dr. Newburn revealed that not only was housing for living quarters to be extended, but that nearly every department on the campus was in line for expansions. In addition to the new Student Union building, of which ASUO president Ed Allen spoke briefly, other buildings are soon to be built.

These include a science hall and additions to the library. A great many of the faculty members who have been on military or civilian leave during the war are returning, Newburn said, and the best available staff members are being obtained to care for the additional classes.

Big Family

Comparing the University to a family, Newburn jokingly remarked that the family seems to be increasing rather rapidly. There is now a 48 per cent increase in enrollment over last year with a 27 per cent increase in women, 133 per cent increase in men, and more than 100 per cent increase in veterans over last year's totals.

Judging by the number of women enrolled, if the percentage of men were the same as before the war, the enrollment would total over 5000 students, according to Dr. Newburn.

Co-op Mailing Hours

The Co-op has announced its mailing hours, and starting Monday the following schedule will go into effect: 12:30-1:30 p.m., 4-5 p.m. week days; 10-12 a.m. Saturdays.

U. P. Manager To Speak Here

National Newspaper Week, October 1-8, will be observed on the campus, as well as throughout the state and nation, with a talk Tuesday evening at 7:30 in Chapman hall by John W. Dunlap, northwest manager of the United Press.

Students, faculty and interested townspeople are invited to hear Dunlap discuss freedom of the press and modern methods of worldwide news coverage.

Free Press

"A Free Press—Torch of World Peace" is the theme of this year's Newspaper Week observance, according to Carl C. Webb, assistant professor of journalism and manager of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association. It is sponsored by newspaper association (Please turn to Page Eight)
