Duck Tracks

By Bob Chapman

Don't forget your STUDENT BODY CARD for Saturday's game because if you do it will be just that much tougher on your rapidly depleting checking account (if you're lucky enough to have one), because, as of the first of this term, all athletic privileges are included in your tuition fee.

In the last few years students had the opportunity to buy athletic cards at a discount each term but from now on tuition fees will take care of all damission fees for sports events on the campus except championship playoffs.

Leicht and Reynolds

Speaking of playoffs and the like, yours truly would like to remind Tex Oliver of a statement he made in the spring of 1941. Quote, "Jake Leicht will take Oregon to the Rose Bowl." This is as good a year as any so why not do it this season?

With the return of All-American Jake Leicht to the campus Tuesday there is every reason to believe that Leicht and Reynolds can take Oregon to the Rose Bowl as did Bob Dethman and Don Durdan at Oregon State in 1941.

Our boys played a great game at Seattle last Saturday and if their first performance is any indication of what is in store for Oregon grid followers watch those Webfoots go. Last week the Los Angeles Times came out with a story stating that the Oliver Twist would go places this season and that Oregon was being overlooked as a threat to the "Big Four."

Closed Practice Again

Washington played a smoother game of ball than Oregon's understaffed ball club did, but with a week of practice behind closed doors Tex should have a few new tricks up his sleeve for the Idaho game here Saturday. Reynolds has been under close observation all week. Leave it to trainer Bob Officer to take care of the casualties, but he is expected to see limited action against the Vandals.

Oregon's schedule is tough but since the Navy Trojans, as they call themselves, are omitted from competition as far as Oregon is concerned there is a possibility of a Rose Bowl trip (pardon us while the sports staff takes 15 seconds off to dream). UCLA, California, and Washington are plenty tough, but Washington will meet a determined Webfoot eleven, on November 3 in Portland.

Return Engagement Nov. 3

Early this week L. H. Gregory, sports editor of the Oregonian, predicted that Oregon would eat Husky in their return engagement. In fact, the only hope Washington has of winning will be slim, because the next time Bob Reynolds will have the assistance of Jake Leicht, and the entire Webfoot squad will have a few games under their belt. Reynolds ran wild over the Welchmen, but think what Leicht and Reynolds will do November 3 in Portland.

A test of Washington strength will come in Berkeley Saturday when the Huskies tangle with Buck Shaw's Golden Bears. If the Welchmen come through with a victory Oregon will be in a better position to judge the picture as far as California competition with UCLA and Cal is concerned.

A Comparison

Callanana and Company of USC have the team this season. UCLA is average with a few experienced lettermen; California, the same as Washington State; Oregon State, better than most scribes believe (Stiner will bring a dead Cougar back Saturday afternoon). Oregon—as the Los Angeles Times said, "Watch the Webfoots; Idaho, fast and tricky (forget the Washington State score), plenty tough; Washington State, overated; Washington, won against the Webfoots but were outplayed. You decide.

Watch OSC Saturday

According to the Williamson poll the Cougars should clip our Aggie cousins, but Bob Stevens will lead the Staters to an upset. Idaho is stronger than the 43-12 score against Washington State last week indicates. In the third quarter is was 12-12, but the Vandals started to gamble and the Cougars took the easy way to victory.

Gill Brown, sports editor of the Oregon State Barometer, stuck his head out too far last week when he slammed Dick Strite, for including Jake Leicht in the 1945 dope book even though Jake was miles away from Hayward field. The Southerners don't have Jake, and you'll really see some passing, broken field running, punting and what have you when Jake and Bob Reynolds team up.

Wife: "I went to the fortune teller today. She said my second husband would be handsome and clever."

Husband: "Do you mean to tell me you were married once before and never told me?"

Preacher—"For shame, my lad. What have those poor little fish done to be imprisoned upon a day of rest?"

Lad—"That's—that's what they get for—for chasing worms on Sunday, sir."

Enthusiastic Rooters Raise Roof at Assembly

Whipping up enthusiasm with a master hand, yell king Mickey "Personality Kid" Davies, his two yell dukes, Jim McClintock and Bill Gross, and the ever-energetic rally squad led by Lois McConkey, rehearsed the UO rooters in the yells to be used at the Idaho-Oregon game Saturday in the first pep assembly of the year held Thursday.

Starting with the Oregon locomotive and finishing off with the triple O, the squad kept the students jumping between skits, songs and the patter of Emcee Bob Moran. New yells, which will be tried out at the game were run through with such enthusiasm that several Kwamas and a stray dog were trampled on in the excitement.

A high point of the assembly was the presentation of Coach Tex Oliver who introduced the members of this year's varsity team who stood up briefly from their places in the audience.

The Chi Omega trio, Norma Green, Pat Hanley and Kay Sauve harmonized on two numbers, "Manhattan Serenade" and "Day-break."

Finishing off the program the Alpha Chi Omega girls, Jane Grace, Helen Nelson, Janet Beigal, Arlie Norcross, Barbara Hawley, and Marylu Diamond presented a skit "What Goes on in the Locker Room," with an all-girl football team, complete with jokes out of Captain Billy's Whiz Bang.

Sheets containing the word to Oregon songs and yells were distributed by members of Kwama.

Football players introduced are as follows:

Centers: William Anderson, Don Martin, Larwence Neer, Donald Thompson.

Guards: Melvert Byers, Glen Cusic, Neil Diess, Louis Hlapcich, John Kauffman, Robert Maclay, Steve Mezzera, John Ohmer, Ha-
