

Ducks Meet Vandals Today

Art Holman's Band at Igloo Tonight at 9

With their entertainment shrouded in mysterious silence, Kwama and Skull and Dagger will coordinate this evening to present the year's first dance. The "Kick Off," appropriately titled to represent the opening home football game, will scintillate with the rhythms of Art Holman's orchestra at the Igloo from 9 to midnight.

Exemplary of Oregon's hospitality and good spirit, the Idaho team has been invited to attend and as an added "service" Kwamas will provide dates for the evening.

Ticket Sales High

Robbieurr Warrens, ticket chairman, announced last night that ticket sales yesterday passed all expectations and from this indication there should be a large crowd. Tickets can be purchased at the educational activities office tomorrow and at the main entrance during the dance.

Patrons and patronesses attending the "Kick Off" are Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Franchere, Mr. and Mrs. Eyer Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Webb.

As to the much-discussed subject of "what to wear," short silks and heels are in order for the women with sport clothes and ties for the men. Corsages are not in order.

Orides Pledge Members Soon

All women interested in joining Orides, independent women's organization on the campus, are invited to attend the meeting at 7:30 p. m. in Gerlinger hall. Any woman who does not live in an organized campus living group is eligible for membership in the organization.

Formal pledging will take place the following Monday and the girls should be present at this meeting in order to turn their names in for pledging.

The organization was founded for the purpose of providing independent women with social life similar to that of women living in regular houses. Students are also able to have a voice in campus life and to make some of the contacts that it would otherwise be impossible for them to make.

Orchestra To Give Dec. Performance

The orchestra, under the direction of John Stehn, acting dean of the music school, will present a concert in early December. The date has not been set as yet.

They will play "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, a selection from the Barber of Seville. A heavier piece, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Bizet's Suite Number One" from Carmen.

If Dean Kratt is back by February, he will direct the 35 members of the orchestra in their concert next term, Mr. Stehn said.

College Football New to Many

For the majority of Webfoots the gridiron action in Hayward field today at 1:30 p. m. will be their first college football game. It may also be their first time in the stadium. Seniors remember games in the fall of 1942, while juniors witnessed several soldier-student games in the field in 1943. The result is that few students have a very clear picture of a football game at Oregon.

The first question is: What to wear? Tradition in the past has decreed heels and short silks for women, and rooter's lids for men. Ed Allen, ASUO president, announced at the assembly Thursday that such would be in order. The same day the Women's Coordinating council went on record as favoring heels and short silks.

Entering Stadium

Students will enter the stadium on the east side, being admitted on their ASUO cards. The reserve section, at $1.80 a seat, is on the west, and general admission seats, at $1.20, on the south side, with entrances on Fifteenth avenue. There will also be a special section for children and service men at 60 cents per ticket.

Puddles

"Puddles," the live and quacking Oregon mascot, will be introduced to the two-legged variety of Ducks today at the Idaho-Oregon game. But the naming of Puddles didn't merit any enterprising student two tickets for the reserved section of the game—alas, no enterprising Webfoot even-so-much-as turned in a name. Despite the contest to name the creature—and everyone knows that contests are UO's meat—not a tests are UO's meat—not a and the rally squad was forced to name the bird itself. ## University Co-op Staff Doubles As Sales Increase

The largest increase in sales since the Co-op moved into Chapman hall in September, 1939 has been in cokes," according to Marion McClain, manager of the University's student store.

The staff had to be doubled at the time the store moved from its cramped space next to the College Side Inn to the present site. Sales immediately rose 25 percent and the prewar normal was a 45 percent increase. Sales are now on an equal with those of any period in Co-op history, Mr. McClain said.

The large balcony has proved an advantageous place for the sale of textbooks. During the rush period this fall 18 people worked behind the counter and as many as 300 students crowded onto the balcony.

Mr. McClain said that the scope of the stock has not increased so much as have the volume of sales although the sale of art prints, stationery, and personalized cards has greatly increased.

MAN OF THE HOUR

Tex Oliver, head Webfoot football coach, will send his team into action at 2:00 this afternoon in the first home game in Hayward field in three years. The foe, the Idaho Vandals, promise stiff competition.

First Snowball Rally Oregon Spirit Preview

Climaxing last night's snowball rally, which started from three corners of the campus in front of the Gamma Phi, Tri-Delt, and Sigma Kappa houses and then progressed to the library, was a demonstration of the spirit to be shown by Oregon students at the Oregon-Idaho game this afternoon.

With peppy Evans Sax acting as master of ceremonies for the program, the selection of the name "Puddles" for the rally squad's mascot duck was announced. Mickey Davies and his rally squad led the crowd in the "triple O", the "Locomotive," and several other yells.

The appearance of the football team on the platform caused the congregation of students to break into wild cheering. The crowd disbanded after a rousing "six for the team" to the strains of "Mighty Oregon."

Later in the evening, a rally dance sponsored by the Inter-dorm council was held in John

Registration Closes

Today is the last chance out-of-state students have to pay their fees, it was announced yesterday from the registrar's office. Registration will close today at noon, it was also announced. Classes may be dropped by students until October 27.

Straub hall. The dance was open to all and a large group of students danced to the music of a juke box.

Newburn Heads Church Program

Dr. Harry Newburn will speak at a University Night program at the First Baptist church Sunday evening at 7:30 on the theme, "The University and Its Purpose." Others from the university participating will include Dean Karl Onthank, speaking on "The University and the Community," and Dean Virgil D. Earl and Dean Golda P. Wickham, talking on "The University and Its Young Men and Young Women." "The University and the Churches" will be the subject of a brief message by Dr. Vance H. Webster, pastor of the church.

University students will take part in the service. Hildegard Wagner and a trio composed of Jean Paris, Pat Heinrichs and Evangeline Moshofsky will sing. Rollin Calkin will serve as song leader, with Virgene Lindley at the organ. Men from the University will serve as ushers. There will be a half-hour "singspiration" for all University students in the parlor after the evening service.

Leicht Back For 1st Home Game Today

Tex Oliver's Webfoots meet the University of Idaho Vandals this afternoon at two o'clock at Hayward field to fight out the 31st Idaho-Oregon contest in the history of the schools. A crowd of 5000 is expected to attend the first Duck home grid contest since 1942.

A great boost to the Ducks' backfield will be Jake Leicht, recently discharged from the Army Air force. Leicht, considered one of the out-standing backs on the Pacific coast, teamed up with triple-threat Bobby Reynolds and sophomore fullback, Jim Byers give the edge in the backfield to the Ducks.

Good Offensive

A good offensive game is expected. The Vandals did considerable passing in their game against WSC, and on one occasion Idaho's star half back Jim Hatch broke away for a 74 yard dash against the Cougars.

Oregon's loss of Elliott Wilson because of ineligibility robs the Webfoots of one of their mainstays.

The possible loss of the Ducks of guard Harry Reiton and end Abe Hathway presents a problem to the starting lineup. The loss of these two players might give the edge on the line to the Vandals.

Taylor Moved Up

Don Taylor a reserve full back has been moved up to aid the 200 pound center Bill Anderson.

Experts give Idaho its best chance this year for a victory since its 6-0 victory over Oregon in 1926. In the thirty games played by the rivals, Oregon won 24, lost two, and tied four.

Students wishing to attend the game need only the registration cards issued them two weeks ago at MacArthur court for admission to the game.

Vesper Choir Plans Tryouts

Auditions for the Vesper Choir will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in Alumni hall, Gerlinger, Johnette King, student director, announced today. The Vesper Choir is sponsored by the Student Religious Council and has completed two successful years as a girls choir. All interested women students are eligible and should attend the tryouts.

Miss King, a junior in music, has been appointed by the school of music as student conductor of the choir. Donald W. Allton, professor of music, will act as advisor from the school of music.

The choir will sing for three vesper services during the term and several concerts will be given during the year.

Helen Luvaas, who conducted the choir for the past two years is now taking graduate music work at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York.

Weather Forecast

Eugene and vicinity—partly cloudy Saturday; Sunday, cloudy with light showers. Cooler Sunday with fog along the coast. Maximum temperature Saturday, 75 degrees.
