

Calendar Full For Travelling WSSF Officer

Although the luncheon and dinner calendar for Miss Huguette Balzola, traveling secretary for the World Student Service fund, is filled for next week, when she will visit on the campus, living organizations may have her as their guest at afternoon teas or evening firesides. Martha Thorsland, chairman of the drive, will arrange such meetings for houses who wish to entertain Miss Balzola.

Arrives Sunday

Arriving on the campus Sunday, she will visit several campus church groups in the evening. These will include: Town and Gown, which meets at the home of Mrs. Arthur Bushman between 4 and 6 p.m.; YMCA-YWCA Community Center downtown, a tea from 3 to 5; Lutheran student group, 5 to 7, and Congregational fireside, at 8. She will lead a discussion at Westminster house on "Problems of European Student Life," between 6:30 and 7:30.

Schedule

Monday she will lunch at noon with WSSF drive leaders. She will meet with WSSF living organization solicitors at their dinner at 5:30 at the YWCA bungalow.

Other appearances scheduled for Miss Balzola are: Tuesday, noon lunch at Judson house; meeting at 4:30 with YWCA cabinet; dinner at 5:30 p.m. at Pi Beta Phi house; fireside for Alpha and Gamma halls at 7:30-8:30.

Wednesday, noon luncheon at Delta Gamma house, Wesley house potluck at 6:30.

Thursday, speak at assembly at 11 a.m.; noon luncheon at Hilyard house; speak at Northwestern Christian college chapel at 3; dinner at Alpha Delta Pi house.

Friday, noon luncheon at Alpha Omicron Pi house.

AAUP Guards Profs' Freedom

A little publicized organization on the campus is the Oregon chapter of the American Association of University Professors. This group is made up of about 123 professors who have at least three years of teaching experience and devote 50 per cent of their time to teaching and fifty per cent to research. Administrative officers are not eligible for membership.

The main function of the AAUP is to insure its members academic freedom and tenure.

Dr. S. H. Jameson, secretary of the Oregon chapter, stated that, contrary to common belief, the organization is not an organized labor union. It's policy is to protect the academic interests of the professors and the school without force, he added.

The names of schools which do not cooperate with the AAUP are printed in the organization's bi-annual publication, the "Bulletin."

The two elected officers of the Oregon chapter are Waldo Schumaker, chairman, and S. H. Jameson, secretary. The various committees are appointed by them.

Regular meetings are held once a term and committees meet at regular intervals.

Chapters of the AAUP are located at almost every college in the country. Organized in 1916, the organization has steadily grown until its membership now totals over fifteen thousand.

Organized in 1923 on this campus, the chapter claims one of the highest ratios of members of any college in the country.

Library Adds Many Volumes Of Non-Fiction

Among recent additions to the library are a number of seven-day non-fiction books covering many fields of interest.

"Lost Mountains," a story of the Cascade mountains, written by Oregonians Robert Ormond Case and Victoria Case, should find interest among natives of the northwest.

Autobiographies

"Walkin' Preacher of the Ozarks" by Guy Howard is the story of a backwoods preacher who for the past ten years, walked an average of 4,000 miles a year visiting mountaineers, all for the astounding salary of about $14 a month.

For those interested in famous personalities, "A Star Danced" by Gertrude Lawrence, telling of her life as a dancer and actress in London, and "African Journey" by Eslanda Robeson, wife of Singer Paul Robson, picturing her journey to Africa seeking first-hand information on the negro problem.

Foreign Affairs

Students of foreign problems will enjoy, "Journey Through Chaos," by Victor Alandrov, showing his life in Russia during the Revolution; "Tell the People," by Pearl Buck, depicting the mass education movement in China; "The Bases of Soviet Strength," by George B. Cressay, who is an authority of Soviet Strength," by George B. Cressay, who is an authority on Soviet geography, and "A Texan in England," by Frank Dobie, the story of the author's experiences as a lecturer at Cambridge University.

Another book of foreign appeal is "Partner in Three Worlds" by Dorothy Duncan, the life story of Jan Rieger, a Czech living in Austro-Hungary, who fought in the first world war as a French officer, made his home in America, then at the outbreak of the 2nd world war, joined the Royal Canadian Air Force.

DRAMATISTS GIVING PARTY

The "Very Little Theater" will give a party Sunday, 8 p.m., October 21. It will be held in the theater building at the main county fairgrounds on West 13th. All students and townspeople interested in finding out about the "Very Little Theater" are invited to come. According to the president, Mrs. Mary Staton Krenk, there will be entertainment and refreshments. This is the first time that a party such as this has been given by the group. The "Very Little Theater" is self-supporting.

Spanish Club to Meet

The Club Espanol will meet in the north room on the third floor of Gerlinger hall this afternoon at 4.

Students who were not able to come last week are urged to join the group, announced language professor Anibal Vargas-Baron.

What is commonly known as the "tail" of a peacock is not the tail at all. It is the "fan" which is formed of the tail coverts and is used for display purposes. The real tail supports the great fan when it is expanded.

Speech Squadron Holds Tryouts Today at YWCA

Tryouts will be held for all those interested in working on the Flying Speech squadron Thursday afternoon at 4:30, in the YWCA, it was announced today.

Dedo Misley is chairman of this group, which will make announcement in the living organizations for all activities held in the YWCA.

War Chest Aid Urged

As part of the program on the Community Chest and National War fund drives, Robert O. Reeves spoke to the Dial club at Grace Lutheran church last night. He will speak tonight at the Officer's Wives club.

Crowding Causes Saturday Classes

Insufficient space, crowded facilities and alternate hours to escape conflicting hours in students' curricula were given as reasons for the Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday classes by Mr. L. C. Constance, assistant registrar, Tuesday.

Most of these three hour courses are found in the English composition department and the physical education school with a few classes in the speech department.

Rhetoric, mainly a freshman course, is unduly crowded because of the large enrollment of this year's beginning class. Physical education facilities, never ample to handle all demands, are being taxed to provide classes for all students required to enroll in these activities.

To date, until building and equipment programs are enlarged, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday classes appear to be the only solution, although they have the blessings of few concerned, either students or faculty members, campus opinion indicates.
