

Donated Dollars Aid Students; WSSF Operates Rest Homes

A "chalet" for rundown and tubercular students from liberated France is an example of the destination of the dollars collected from University of Oregon students during the current World Student Service fund will go. The center recently was opened at Combloux in the Haute Savoie region of France, and already 50 students, mostly from Paris, are spending from one to three months in the quiet, invigorating mountain atmosphere.

During the German occupation, curriculum and professors in French universities were strictly regulated. The Vichy government called up a large proportion of the student population for deportation to Germany. Many escaped and joined the French Forces of the Interior (FFI). Others did forced labor in German work camps or received prison sentences.

Students Run Down

As a result of such hardships and the severe food shortage, most students today are run down in health and suffer from nervous disorders, undernourishment and weakened resistance to infection.

Typical among students who have been treated at the Combloux Chalet and returned to studies is a 19-year-old medical student, who, while Caen was a center of fighting, shouldered the burden of nursing 180 patients at Caen hospital. After six weeks he contracted a primary tuberculosis infection that would have kept him from finishing his studies.

Students Schedule

Life at Combloux is run directly by the students. A rigid, self-imposed schedule has been set up for the student starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and ending at 10 at night with a two-hour rest period in the afternoon. A social and cultural program is conducted to avoid mental stagnation and to stimulate thought.

Other chalets patterned after the one at Combloux are being planned for European students. This work is made partly possible by contributions of American students to the WSSF in drives on college campuses throughout the United States.

Alpha Xi Honors Faculty At Dinner Party Friday

The Alpha Xi Delta faculty dinner was held Thursday night in honor of the following members of the faculty: Mr. and Mrs. Alan B. Wickham, Ernest Haycox, author and guest of the Wickhams, Mrs. Grace Glang, assistant dean of women, Dr. Quirinus Breen of the social science department, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Washke, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCloskey.

In the receiving line were Elaine Coleman, president of the sorority, Mrs. Evelyn B. Street, house-mother, and Connie Van Allen, social chairman.

Guests were entertained by Hollis Anne Haekley singing "Where 'Ere You Walk" with Virgene Lindsley at the piano.

Employees Offered Group Insurance

Two separate group insurance plans for prepaid medical and hospital care were announced in the October 16 issue of the faculty news bulletin. All University employees, including faculty members, physical-plant employes, and administrative personnel, are eligible.

The Northwest Hospital Service plan (Blue Cross), covers only hospital service, and the Eugene hospital and clinic plan covers both medical and hospital service.

Staff members joining either of these groups may make payments by payroll deductions in the business office. Under both plans, membership will be accepted at stated quarterly dates.

The availability of these plans is an outgrowth of recent investigations of the AAUP insurance committee on the campus, headed by Hoyt Franchere of the English department. Originally, only employes of the University library had a contract with the Blue Cross plan, but, through the efforts of the insurance companies, this service was expanded to include all faculty members and employes.

Next membership date for the Blue Cross plan is November 1, while the Eugene Hospital plan membership date is December 1. Mrs. Margaret Hutchison, payroll clerk, business office, may be contacted for further information.

UO Launches GPA Campaign

A new policy of disqualification aimed at improving standards of scholarship and removing non-productive students is now under consideration by the committees on advising and scholarship, Clifford L. Constance, assistant registrar, said Monday.

This policy has been brought about by students who are on probation and have failed to make a 2 point GPA average. Students who are having a second trial must either produce a satisfactory average or withdraw from the university, Constance said. The new policy will take effect at the end of the fall term.

The committees effected this ruling in order to make room for the returning veterans.

Constance remarked that the committees are interested in student reactions to this proposal. Letters or suggestions may be sent to the registrar's office.

'Ladies' Judge Loves People

By SHIRLEY ANDERSON

"I love people . . . I adore people . . . I fairly dote on humanity!" Such was the reply finally worked out of Lewis Vogler when we asked him the why and wherefore behind his interest in the theatre.

Portraying the mighty mar behind the bench in "Ladies of the Jury," Vogler is already a veteran of the footlights. He has previously held five roles on the University theater stage, including last year's production "The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder. Returned Webfeets will well remember his inimitable characterization of Mr. Antrobus, the leading role in the drama.

Seemingly loathe to disclose facts about himself, "Judge Fish" does admit a fondness for physics. "Of course, I want it clearly understood that my sole interest is music" he hastened to add. For verification he reminded us that he is a junior major in that particular study. He also threw a little light on his summer occupation, saying that the forest service kept him busy throughout the warm months.

Vogler is loathe to be quoted regarding his opinion of the approaching play. He merely says "Let 'em come and find out for themselves . . . who am I to reveal the fascinating plot five days early?"

Doughnut Sale Planned By YWCA For October

Barbara Borrevik, sophomore, recently appointed chairman of the YWCA Doughnut Sale, has scheduled the event for Oct. 20 and 31 with a Halloween theme.

Her committee chairmen are: finance, Kay Becker; booth sales, Jordis Benke; advertising, Roxie Sears, Mollie Muir, Joan Williams; house sales, Beryl Howard; booth decorations, Joyce Gordon.

The members of each committee will be contacted by their respective chairmen.
