

Memorial Service Sunday To Honor M.H. Douglass

A memorial service, to be dedicated to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew H. Douglass, will be held Sunday at 4:30 p. m. in the Congregational church. Dr. W. G. Nicholson, pastor, will conduct the service which, he stresses, will not be an eulogy, but rather a vesper service. All friends of Mr. and Mrs. Douglass among faculty and students are invited.

Douglass served as librarian on the campus for 32 years, and built the present library after studying libraries over the country. His dream, to build a library designed for both usefulness and beauty, was realized in 1937, when the present library was built. During his years at the University, he increased the number of books from 15,000 to 333,000 volumes.

Held Many Posts

Douglass was active in professional activities; he was a member of the American Library association, president of the Iowa Library association, president of the Pacific Northwest Library association for 42 years and for several years its treasurer.

In 1942 Douglass resigned his office, but the Pacific Northwest Library association recognized his accomplishments at the University of Oregon library by electing him to honorary life membership in the association. He was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, and held office as treasurer, vice president and president of the Oregon chapter.

Those who recall Douglass remember his wide assortment of choice roses which he grew only as a hobby. Although roses were his avocation, Douglas was one of the judges in the famous annual rose festival held in Portland and was recognized as an authority on roses.

Members of the library staff are furnishing flowers for the service.

Oregana Portrait Deadline To Be Early Next Week

Unaffiliated men or women who have not had their pictures taken for publication in the 1946 Oregana may have them taken at Kennell-Ellis Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, Berta Reische, yearbook managing editor, announced Friday.

Each picture will cost one dollar and the money is payable to Editor Jean Yoder, journalism building, next week.

Pigger's Available At Co-op Today

The University student directory, known to all Ducks as the Pigger's guide, may be picked up today at the Co-op during store hours, according to Jack Craig, editor. If students do not secure their copies today, they may obtain them from the Educational Activities office in McArthur court, Craig added.

This year's guide includes lists of all living organizations, important campus numbers, a DFS poem on "How a Pigger Came to Be," a list of University faculty committees, and a list of heads of houses, in addition to the regular faculty and student information.

A special section of all graduate students and auditors has been compiled and separated from the rest of the text.

Local merchants support the financing of the directory.

To pick up his copy, each student must present his ASUO card.

President Harding figures prominently in radio's early history. The first broadcast recorded his election; his was the first inaugural speech read on the air, and he was the first president whose death was reported by radio.

Ex-Shackrat, George Pasero, Visits Campus

One-half of the sport-editing team which in 1940 brought the Emerald one of its highest sports ratings in history appeared briefly on the campus Thursday night and Friday in the person of George Pasero, '40, navy chief yeoman.

Pasero, rated one of the best sports-writing products the Emerald ever developed, visited with friends and characteristically found time to talk over the athletic situation with local athletes old and new.

'Gold Dust Twin'

He has been in the navy for four years, 21 months of which was spent on desolate Adak island in the Aleutians. At one time Elbert Hawkins, the other half of the "Gold Dust Twin" Emerald sports team, was stationed only 100 miles away, although the pair never managed to get together.

Pasero went to The Journal in Portland upon graduation in 1940, and at the time of his entry into service was one of The Journal's first-line sports writers, regularly covering coast league baseball and similar events. His present schedule calls for a few more months in the navy, "and I'll worry about the rest of it when I get out."

Editorial Reunion

The visit provided a service reunion between Pasero and Lt. Ken Christianson, who is spending a sick leave finishing up graduation requirements. Christianson was a sports room boy under Hawkins and Pasero who later became a sports editor himself.

After lunching Friday with George S. Turnbull, acting dean of the school of journalism, Pasero left for the Washington game in Portland.

Happy engineering phenomenon which aids stratovision is the fact that as antenna elevation is increased, power required to deliver the same usable signal to a given area is sharply reduced.

Rev. McCallum to Talk At Town and Campus Club

"Are Servicemen Turning to Christianity?" will be the topic of a talk to be given before the Town and Campus group of the First Christian church Sunday evening by Rev. Hugh N. McCallum, new minister of the church.

Rev. McCallum was recently discharged from the army, having spent 33 months in the South Pacific. He was with the first army hospital unit on Guadalcanal. Before entering the service Rev. McCallum was pastor of the Mallory Avenue Christian church in Portland for five years. He graduated from Oregon in 1925.

Preceding the talk, a brief worship service will be led by Dorothy McSey. The meeting will begin at 6:15 and will be held in the White Room of the church.
