

Graduate Fellowship Offered By Social Science Counsel

The Social Science Research Council, whose main purpose is to assist in the development of an adequate number of well-trained research workers in the field of the social sciences, is making its annual offer of postdoctoral research training fellowships, predoctoral field fellowships, and grants-in-aid of research.

These fellowships and grants cover the fields of economics; social, economic and political history; political science; social psychology; sociology; cultural anthropology; statistics; and social aspects of related disciplines.

Veterans' Awards

The council is also making demobilization awards for social scientists who have been in war service.

The pre-doctoral field fellowships are open to men and women, citizens of the United States or Canada, who are candidates for the doctor of philosophy degree, and who will have completed, prior to the end of the academic year 1945-46, all courses and examinations for which they are eligible before completion of the thesis.

Supplementary Study

The purpose of these awards is to supplement formal graduate study by opportunities for field work which will assure first-hand familiarity with the data of social science in the making.

The post-doctoral research training fellowships are open to men and women, citizens of the United States or Canada, who possess the Ph.D. degree or its equivalent in training and experience at the time of application, or give assurance that the Ph.D. will be received before February 15, 1946, and who, ordinarily, are not over 35 years of age.

The primary purpose of these fellowships is to broaden the research training and equipment of promising young social scientists.

No Degree Candidates

The grants-in-aid are available to mature scholars, permanent residents of the United States or Canada, without reference to age, whose capacity for productive research has been effectively demonstrated by published work. They are not open to candidates for a degree.

Anyone wishing to know more about these awards can obtain information from Elbridge Sibley, secretary for fellowships and grants-in-aid, 726 Jackson Place, N.W. Washington 6, D.C., who is in charge of the communications for demobilization awards, or Laura Barrett, secretary to the committees, 230 Park avenue, New York 17, New York, who is in charge of the communications regarding other fellowships and grants.

4 College Dailies Rate with Emerald

The Oregon Daily Emerald was rated one of the five best college dailies in the United States in 1944-45, according to information received from the Associated Collegiate Press.

The other dailies which were rated All-American were the Daily Northwestern, Northwestern university; the Daily Trojan, University of Southern California; the Michigan Daily, University of Michigan; the Minnesota Daily, University of Minnesota.

The Minnesota Daily and the Daily Northwestern also received Pacemaker awards. Pacemaker is not a rating higher than All-American but "an added distinction given to a limited number of papers whose vitality and journalistic quality make them leaders in the college newspaper field."

Two weekly papers, the Utah Chronicle, University of Utah, and the Willamette Collegian, Willamette university in Salem, and one semi-weekly, the Detroit Collegian, Wayne University, received Pacemaker honors.

Of 180 college papers entered, 46 were judged All-American; 82, first class; 42 second class, and 8 third class. The total also included fourth class papers and critical reports not published.

"It was easy. I started him on Martinis."

efficiency of fire-fighting equipment has made them unnecessary."

The second problem is how the city would finance these new sub-stations, as one is needed on the west side of the city as well as at the University. Seeger commented, "The community is rapidly expanding and we will have to govern our spending according to the needs of the industrial, business, and University districts." The addition and maintenance of two new sub-stations would almost double the budget for fire protection.

In conclusion City Manager Seeger stated, "If, when, and as we are able to extend our fire protection by means of additional stations, we will naturally be anxious to provide the very finest and best protection for the campus." The city manager added that the fire department had been authorized to purchase a new 1000 gallon pumper and a new chief's car. They have spent $2000 replacing smaller pieces of equipment, and have remodeled the fire station.

his fountain pen. Non-conformer Jack Ruble showed some of the old fight by tearing down the blue sign in front of the Side. After successfully recovering from the big ice dive, Dick Smith had quite a few statements to offer; such as, "It's unfair, it's barbarism, it's uncouth, it's cold!" Phil Dana splashed around a bit and showered a few spectators.

A slight error occurred when some of the more enthusiastic members of the dunking party proceeded to dunk their own Jim Ellison. "Hey, fellows, not him!"

from Sheriff Savinar saved him just in time. The dunking committee consisted of Bob Daggett, Bill Ellison, Jim Ellison and Kay Hoff. The committee announced no more dunkings until Friday.

Anyone who joins an agency with the idea that they will do only copywriting will get a big surprise, she said. Although there are many agencies in the South and the East that are large enough to employ specialists, most of them need people who can do different kinds of work.

"Maybe I'm sticking my neck out, but I feel that advertising and other forms of journalism are so integrated that there should be no distinction between them in the course." Mrs. Foland asserted. She explained that in writing stories and in writing ad copy, many of the same rules are followed.

Husband in Army

Although reluctant to talk about herself, Mrs. Foland enthusiastically replied to questions about her husband, who is a first lieutenant in the army. Now stationed in Manila, he is in the quartermaster corps.

"Although I'd love to have my husband work with me when he returns, it wouldn't be long before he would be the one in charge," she said. Foland was on the staff of the Oregon Voter, a weekly publication, before he went into the army.
