

ISA Proposes Constitutional Amendment

An amendment to the ISA constitution was proposed at the regular meeting of the ISA senate last Tuesday. The amendment provides for an enlarged executive cabinet, which at present is composed of six members. If the amendment is adopted the council will consist of two representatives, one man and one woman, from each class, and the president and vice-president of the ISA.

According to the constitution of the organization, any amendment must be published on two successive publication days in the Emerald, and be voted upon one week later by the independent students at large.

The proposed amendment is as follows:

Article VI

Sect. 1. Membership

The executive cabinet shall consist of the following members: Clause 1. There shall be a general chairman and vice-chairman to be elected from the independent students at large, and eight members, consisting of one man and one woman to be elected by their respective classes, freshman, sophomore, junior and senior.

Oregon Mothers Club Awards Scholarships

The Oregon Mothers recently awarded three additional scholarships to Jean Alexander, sophomore in liberal arts, Patricia Metcalf, junior in music, and Pearl Peterson, sophomore in liberal arts, announced Dean Karl W. Onthank Tuesday.

The money for these scholarships came from funds which were reverted when freshmen who had previously been given the scholarships failed to enter the university.

Lost and Found Lists Bracelets, Bandanas

Is it that the girls in gym classes leave their jewelry there in order to have something to come back to, or is it that they are so tired that they haven't the energy left to carry it with them? The lost and found department in the physical plant now contains several sterling silver brocelets and a three-strand set of pearls.

The rainy days of the past week have also caused a rise in the number of bandanas and umbrellas now on the shelves waiting to be claimed.

Many spiral note books have been turned in and are awaiting identification by their owners.

Yeomen To Hold Dance Friday

The Yeomen, independent men's organization, will hold their first big social event of the year, their Membership Dance, Friday, Nov. 16 on the third floor of Gerlinger hall at 8:30 p. m. Refreshments will be served and there will be card tables for those who don't wish to dance.

All Yeomen, and independent students interested in joining the group, are invited to attend with their dates. Campus clothes will be in order and tickets may be obtained from the Yeoman at 50 cents per couple. No stags will be allowed.

Some of the Yeomen selling tickets are: Harry Granger, Clifford Brooks, Samuel Benveniste, Darrel Boone, George Campbell, Alfred Ruedy, or any other member of the group.

When the plans for this dance were discussed at the last meeting of the Yeomen, President Harry Granger stated that "I think that this dance will be a very successful event and urge all independent students interested in joining the Yeomen to attend."

After the meeting Sally Timmens sang, accompanied by Sally Watson at the piano.

Seven Flu Victims Kept at Infirmary

Good news from the infirmary is the information that two students, one suffering from pneumonia, the other from diphtheria, have been discharged and are back in circulation. At present only seven Ducks hold down bunks in the pill palace, although 15 left during the weekend. Most of these are cold or flu victims.

Those still enjoying their residence include Carolyn Wells, Hildegard Buckette, Edward Evans, Rose Hillar, Virginia Gaeden, Libby Sperut, and Ella Hutchinson.

Students who terminated their visits the past three days are: Sally Barr, Fred Mathias, Bob Merz, Jim Kenny, Tom Clohpeck, Joe Grimm, B. G. Simmons, Robert Johnston, Harry Eisminger, Alene Hinton, Bonnie Green, Clayton Frivett, and Warren Street.

flower theater and were walking on 11th street when a man snatched her purse containing $80 in currency. She reported that two men were involved in the crime, both of medium height. It is presumed these were the same individuals who slugged Vrooman.

The small burglaries on the campus recently are not confined to this area alone, police say. Several grocery stores in town have been robbed or held up.

The robberies generally are attributed to the two men who grabbed Vrooman, while the "second story work," which on the campus involved the recent attempted Kappa Alpha Theta houses, is charged to a more experienced "operator," according to Detective Nelson.

The hold-up robbery of Claypool's campus drugstore is charged to still another type of felon. Few small-time criminals change their systems, Nelson said, in the same sense that small-time "wolves" seldom change their "lines."

Despite the addition of a University-employed policeman to the campus, and the possible installation of better lighting throughout the campus, University women are cautioned against walking alone after dark and are advised to keep to the sidewalks.
