George Boughton Recital To Introduce Violinist

Corelli to Bloch Program Scheduled Tonight at 8 in Music Auditorium

A Concert featuring music ranging from the older works of Archangelo Corelli to the modern composing of Ernest Bloch will be presented by George Boughton, new member of the music school faculty, tonight at 8:15 in the music auditorium. The violinist will be accompanied by his wife, Saga Oollin Boughton.

The program will open with Corelli's "La Follia," which portrays moments of sadness and longing, alternating with flashes of joy and gaiety. The compositions of Corelli, popularly known as the father of violin playing, are distinguished by clearness, nobility and grace.

Next on the program will Johannes Grahms' Sonata, Op. 78 for piano and violin, written in 1878. Throughout the work both the piano and violin share in the development of the musical ideas. The theme of the last movement is the "Rain Song" from Op. 59.

Glazounow's Concerto, Op. 82, is, according to the program, one of the finest additions to the concerto repertoire of the last forty years.

Camille Saint-Saens' "Havanaise" is a fantasy built on the Habana Spanish dance.

The composition, "Nigun," is the work of the contemporary Swiss-American, Ernest Bloch, who is now a resident of Oregon. The "Nigun" is a musical interpretation of the soul of the Jewish peoples.

The Catalan pianist, Mompou, is the composer of "Maidens In the Garden," arranged for the violin by Joseph Szigeti, who appeared on the campus in a previous concert.

"La Campaella," the final movement from Nicolo Pananini's Second Concerto is one of the compositions used by Liszt as the basis of his "Paganini Etudes."

The public is invited to attend Boughton's first concert before a Eugene audience.

Queen Contest Deadline Set

Lane County Trailing Current V-Bond Drive

Victory queen contestants have only until Friday, November 30, to get $5000 support in bonds and qualify for the Lane county finals Dec. 8. Candidates who are still without sponsors are asked by Harold Wyatt, McDonald theater manager, to turn in additional pictures which will be posted at bond booths downtown so that bond buyers not connected with any organizations may vote for the girl of their choice.

Additional pictures may be turned in to Barbara Patterson today at the Theta house.

No one candidate will be sponsored by the University. Because such an arrangement draws money from outside Lane county, the executive council decided to co-operate with the local drive instead of conducting a separate contest on the campus.

Webb Gard, chairman of the Lane county drive, has issued an appeal to all Lane county citizens to buy as many bonds as possible and lift Lane county from its present position as the lowest Oregon county in bond purchases. He quotes a treasury department report which shows the state of Oregon as a whole, and Lane county in particular, lagging far behind the rest of the nation in the current drive.

Do-nut Sale Bids Due

Petitions for chairman of Mortar Board doughnut sale scheduled to be held the first of winter term, must be submitted to Janet Douglas at Hendricks hall by 3 p.m. November 30, it was announced yesterday. Petitioners must be freshmen, Miss Douglas stated.

INVITATIONS . . .

To Oregon's first postwar Homecoming, in the form of posters, are being checked by Dorothy Rasmussen, chairman of the alumni committee, before they are circulated throughout the state.

LOOKING FORWARD . . .

To this Saturday's Homecoming game, President Harry K. Newburn reminds Deane Bond, fullback on the Webfoot team, of the 19-6 spanking the Oregon State Beavers handed the Ducks in their last encounter. A Grants Pass organization presented Newburn with the "Dead Duck". Bond smilingly tells the president it won't happen again.

Marge Allingham Manages, Plays Lead In Newest UO Comedy

"Ambidexterous" is the word for Marge Allingham, business manager of the University theater guild and one of the leading characters in "The Time of Your Life," scheduled for the Guild hall December 1, 4, 5, 6. Campus dramatics are nothing new to the junior English major. Besides

Eddie Miller and his band will pace Homecoming celebrants at the feature dance this Saturday evening in McArthur court, Bill McLennan, homecoming chairman, announced last night.

The Miller aggregation, rocketing to recognition as the nation's outstanding new band since Pearl Harbor, stars a crew of former Benny Goodman and Bob Crosby headliners. The public seized enthusiastically on the orchestra upon its releasing the best-seller record "Yesterdays," backed by "Stomp Mr. Henry Lee." Matty Matlock, erstwhile Crosby star, does the arrangements and draws the spotlight for his clarinet solo work, while he and the band are ably propelled by rhythm men Nick Fatool on drums and Nappy LaMare on guitar.

Jazz addicts will remember Eddie Miller for his long series of inspired tenor sax choruses with the old Crosby herd. Starting way back in the riverboat days with the now legendary Fate Marable band, Miller has played alongside most of the swing greats of the last twenty years, some of whom now play under his own banner. Upon onetime-boss Crosby's commissioning in the marine corps, the new jazzmaster organized and set in motion his own orchestra, the parent of the present group.

Homecoming dance tickets will be sold by Yeomen and Ordes under the direction of Bill Ellison, ticket chairman. Sales will be made at the Co-op and the Side 1-5 p. m. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and 10 a. m. until noon Saturday. Short silks will be worn.

Committee heads are Elaine Taylor and Martha Harrold, patrons; Dorothy Davis, decorations; Kay Hoff, clean-up and Bill Ellison, tickets.

Patrons and patronesses are Mr. and Mrs. John McCloskey; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stickle; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ghent and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Riddlesbarger.

Ex-GI Enters New Line; Tends Bar Proficiently In "Time of Your Life"

With a leaning toward law, an interest in everything involving the good of the University, and a special fondness for football and bridge, Clifton James has little or no explanation for his footlight versatility. Evidence of his dramatic talents was shown in his fine portrayal of Steve in "Ladies of the Jury." As Nick the bartender in Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," James will have more opportunity to exhibit such prowess.

A graduate from Oregon City's Milwaukee high school in 1940, he entered the national guard that fall. He received his army discharge this summer following three years in the South Pacific with the 1st division. While there, his stopping places included New Guinea, Biak, and the Philippines. His re-entry into the States occurred on V-J day, when his ship docked in Seattle.

Living at Sigma hall on the campus, James is a freshman in sociology with particular interest in social work. When questioned about his future plans, he said he'd probably end up as either an "educated tramp or politician."

Get Student Tickets Early at 'Mac' Court

All students who plan to attend the Oregon-Oregon State game December 1 must obtain a special game ticket from the athletic ticket office in McArthur court, it was announced recently. The student must report to the office in person, with his student body card, and a Homecoming game ticket will be given him. There is no charge for the special tickets, as they are being issued merely to determine the number of students who plan to go to the game.
