

All-American Jake Leicht lugging the leather on one of his yard eating jaunts against Oregon State college on Hayward field Saturday afternoon. Leicht broke away twice going all the way on such gallops to keep Oregon in the game even though the Beavers nosed out the Ducks 13-12.

Jake Leicht Picked as Top Backfield Ace

Twinkled-toed Jake Leicht trotted up the ladder to fame and grid fortunes last weekend, pulling down a slot on the New York Sun's All-American football team for 1945.

The skim of the overnight milk in the fall classic of the sports world also included six Army gridders, two stars from Alabama, and lone representatives from Ohio State and the Navy elevens.

Wedemeyer Close Second

Jake Leicht barely nosed out Herman Wedemeyer of St. Mary's for the backfield position. Statisticians gave information for the final nod when they pointed out that Wedemeyer had a superior line and inferior opponents with which to work.

Dick Strite, sports editor of the local Eugene Register-Guard was the real final voice in the selection. He compared the UCLA-Oregon tilt and the UCLA-St. Mary's fray. In the former Leicht averaged 6.75 from scrimmage while in the latter game Wedemeyer failed to make a one-yard average.

The touchdown twins of the Army, Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard, had almost unanimous approval from the judges for their two positions on the team. The backfield quartet is rounded out by Harry Gilmer of Alabama.

Barons Stand At Intramurals' Top Scoreboard

With two more days of volleyball games to be played, the Barons are leading the Intramural sports program. The Barons have won six games and lost one in the tournament this season.

The only team that could tie the Barons are the Omega hall men who have won four and lost one game. With the possibility that this does happen, a final championship game would be played between Omega hall and the Barons.

Standings to date of the rest of the teams are: Independent Seven, three wins and three losses; Zeta Hall, two wins and three losses; Campbell co-op, two wins and three losses. Emery's, one win and five losses; Sigma hall, three wins and two losses; and Sherry Ross, two wins and three losses.

Referees for all the volleyball games have been Herman Mills and Bud Rossum.

Paul R. Washke, intramural sports program director, stated Tuesday that basketball "A" and "B" would be played during the winter term. He also added that handball would be on the schedule during winter term.

During the fall term, touch football was sponsored by the intra-

'Playful' Gale Litters Campus

The gentle breeze which tore limbs from campus fir trees, banged the windows, and in general kept everyone awake Monday morning just before daybreak, was a 50-mile gale according to U. S. weather bureau reports.

The wind, which lasted for several of Monday's early morning hours, averaged a velocity of about 25 miles per hour, reaching its 50-mile climax at 5:30 a.m.

The chief damage caused the campus was in the form of limbs—giant limbs, tiny limbs, twigs—that littered the lawns on the old campus after the gale had ripped its way through the tall evergreens.

The wind, according to Louie Jensen, assistant at the physical plant, was probably the worst that has hit Eugene in some time. Jensen was in charge of the crew who raked up and disposed of the debris.

mural sports office. The winning team was the Greeks who coped the championship from Sherry Ross in an overtime period. Points scored by teams entered in the touch football league were: Zeta Hall, 87; Sherry Ross, 80; Independent seven, 80; Greeks, 150; Lodgers, 0; Omega hall, 60; Campbell co-op, 80; Sigma hall, 62; and Emery's, 75.

Puzzling Points of Pigskin Play Perused by Protagonist

By LIZ GILMORE

In order to enjoy a football game, the first essential is to know what it is all about, and I am sure that a great many girls and even boys are still bewildered by the finer points of the game.

For example, how many of you know that a football is called a pig's kin because it is related to a pig, or that tactics are what the players use to hold up their pants? For this information, I took accurate pains to get it from no other than Mr. Tex Oliver himself.

Playboy Passers

To begin with, let's take the players. (I'd love to). There are 11 consisting of a wholeback, two half-backs, four quarterbacks, a referee, an umpire, an announcer and a water boy. There are also the substitutes that sit on the bench to root for the team.

The object of the game is to see how many players can jump on the man with the ball. The referee gives them 15 seconds to do this and then he blows his whistle. The team with the most players on the ball carrier gets the ball for the next play.

Touchdown Tactics

The boys are all trying to make a touchdown (so they can get their letter). A touchdown is when a player runs between the goal posts and touches his fingers down to the ground. If he is able to put the ball on the ground and sit on it, that is called a touchback. If a player is hurt, he scrimmages for help.

When the ball is thrown by a player who has a free ticket to the game, that is called a pass, and he is an eligible passer. If he has no free ticket he is an ineligible passer. Sometimes a player is caught playing on the other side, then the play is called "offside." Another important term is "punt." That is what a player does when he has run a long way.

As soon as the referee gets tired of blowing his whistle, the game is ended. This is usually after about two hours, depending on the referee's wind.

Would anyone like to play a game of ping pong?
