Airshow Serves Basketball With Corn, Jive Succotash

Students Approve Variety Broadcast; Hallock Band, Dick Wilkins Star

By BARBARA GILBERT

For years radio has had its Jack Kirkwoods, Jack Bennys and Fred Allens. Now it has Campus Headlines.

Spiced with a liberal amount of jokes and corn, the University variety show offers the regular features of big-time fun shows, including music, skits and special interviews. Written by Ted Loud, sophomore in journalism, and produced and directed by Marvin Krenk, instructor in radio and speech, Campus Headlines is done entirely by University students and gives the radio audience all over the Northwest a look into one phase of University life.

Students Comment

The first show of winter term Wednesday night received many words of praise from student listeners. Said Bruce Hoffine, member of the University basketball team: "I liked the show very much. There were a bunch of other team members here and we all got a big kick out of it."

"With the exception of the corn that was being thrown around, it was a very good show," commented Lois McConkey, rally squad chairman. "It was well-organized and they seemed to have some very good ideas. Incidentally, Dick Wilkins sounded as though he should try out for radio," Lois said.

Said Deane Bond, president of Skull and Dagger and member of the 1945 football team, "It was a well-rounded program; sounded just like a college program should sound. It was swell."

"Sensational as any name band," was Emerald reporter Don Gruening's comment on the music.

Carrying the theme, "Basketball Returns to Peacetime Oregon," the show featured an interview with Dick Wilkins, University basketball star. "Oregon State will be the toughest game of the year," Wilkins asserted. "They're big and fast, and you know Oregon State when they face Oregon." As for Oregon's prospects for the current season Wilkins said, "They should go quite a way this year."

First Winter Musical Tonight in Igloo at 8:15

The Salzedo concert ensemble, unique and different, will appear at McArthur court tonight at 8:15. Ruth Freeman, flutist; Mimi Allen, harpist; Mary Hill Doolittle, cellist; and Carlos Salzedo, pianist and harpist comprise the group.

The concert, under the auspices of the Eugene Civic music association, is for ECMA members and University students who present their ASUO cards. It will start at 8:15 p.m.

The first group of a series of well-known artists to appear at the University winter and spring term, the ensemble has had two triumphant transcontinental tours in three consecutive seasons. Music critics have been lavish in their praise of the group, individually as well as collectively.

Founder and creator of the group, Carlos Salzedo, is an internationally known pianist and harpist. He is the only harp virtuoso who has appeared many times as soloist with such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic symphony, the Boston symphony, the Philadelphia orchestra and others. He has been heard as solo artist on many major radio programs and has given hundreds of recitals of his own, in addition to his appearance with the ensemble.

Salzedo is also a composer, having written many works for harp, orchestras, chamber ensemble and chorus. His symphonic works have been played by the leading symphony orchestras and chamber music organizations of America.

Founded Magazine

He also found time to create the Salzedo ensemble, a group consisting of seven-harps, which made a number of successful tours of the United States. In 1921, he founded "Eolus," the first magazine in

Student Leaders to Discuss Faculties, Politics at Meet

The University will play host this weekend to campus leaders from 14 Oregon institutions of higher education as the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders meets for its seventh annual conference. Ed Allen, as ASUO president, is secretary-treasurer of the group, and Warren Michael, former student body president of the Eastern Oregon College of Education and now student at this University, will preside as head of the federation.

Registration for all delegates begins this afternoon at the Chi Omega house, and a mixer tonight at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house will introduce the visitors to campus social life.

The six-point docket to be considered by the delegates includes problems which are vital issues this year on campuses throughout the state, and by discussing their individual aspects of each situation, the delegates hope to be able to formulate some course of action.

One of the major problems requiring both student and administration attention is the procurement and retention of adequate faculties. Sharing the spotlight with this question is the probe into campus politics and their significance to the potency and efficiency of student government.

"My aim is to try to work out a better functioning student body on all the campuses," Michael stated, stressing that the feeling of cooperation, unity, and equality must be promoted among students.

Ex-G I Jump Band To Greet New Students At Rally Assembly

Coach Hobson to Introduce Hoopsters; ASUO President Ed Allen to Speak

Today's rally assembly to be held in McArthur court at 11 a.m. will open with the appearance of a new band composed wholly of University veterans, and led by Ted Hallock, junior in English.

ASUO President Ed Allen will act as master of ceremonies and greet the many newcomers to the University student body for the first time. Big attraction of the game rally will be the introduction of all eighteen members of the Oregon basketball team by Coach Howard Hobson.

Other features of the pep rally for the Oregon State game this Saturday night include the rally squad and more music with Hallock and his band.

The nucleus of the band, some six or seven members, played in 1941 and 1942 at the University under the name of Ray Dickson. It's present leader has returned to the campus this term after three and one-half years in the army air force.

Featured artists of the band include Dick Carlton, alto saxophone; Joe Ingram, cornet; Ed Johnson, bass; Tommy Fox, tenor saxophone; Norm Leckband and

Old Oregon Staff Meets Tonight at Side Balcony

General meeting for old and new student activity staff members of Old Oregon magazine will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the upstairs banquet room of the College Side. All students interested in positions on news, advertising and office departments of the monthly magazine are asked to attend. Selections for staff positions are based on interest, dependability and ability. Experience is not a prerequisite.

Senate Meets ISA Aspirants

Voters to Cast Ballots January 19 in Co-op

Eight freshmen and sophomore candidates for positions on the Independent Students' Association's executive council were introduced last night to the ISA senate.

The freshman class presented the greatest number of aspiring students, with five women and two men candidates present. The coed candidates included Gertrude Chernis, Hendricks hall; Lois Cooper, Alpha hall; Mavis Knorr, University house; Beverlie Drake, Susan Campbell; and Margaret Kilsmeier, Highland house. Men who spoke were Bill Pickens, Omega hall; and Fred Goodspeed. Also planning to enter the race, but not present, were Carlie Hayden, Pauline Austin, and Margaret Knighten for the women's position and Bob Brown for the men.

Phil Dana, Omega hall, announced himself as candidate for sophomore man on the council.

Cathie Crombie, senate president, announced that junior and
