Sophomore Job Goes To Jeanne Simmonds

ASUA Executive Council Picks News Editor; Consideration of Yell King Petitions Postponed

Jeanne Simmonds, Emerald news editor, was appointed sophomore representative on the ASUA executive council at a meeting of the council yesterday.

Besides her Emerald position, Jeanne is on the WAA cabinet, a member of Amphibians, and treasurer of the sophomore class.

Teams Inspire Dance Theme

Basketball players for both the Oregon and Oregon State teams are warned to be prepared to see themselves as others see them by Gloria Smith and Marilyn Anderson, co-chairmen of decorations for the ISA Hoopster's Hop, which is taking place from 10 to 12 p.m. in Gerlinger hall Saturday night following the basketball game.

The Ducks and Beavers will dance to the music of Ted Hallock and his 12-piece orchestra, which is making its first appearance since it was disbanded in 1942.

Tickets for the dance go on sale today at 50 cents per person in the Co-op from 1 to 5 p.m., and will be sold all day Friday and until noon Saturday. Some tickets will be sold in houses. The event is open to both stags and couples.

Patrons and patronesses for the dance include: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Franchere, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stickle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Means, Mr. and Mrs. John C. McCloskey, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur P. Riddlesbargar.

Veterans Reminded To File for Money

"All veterans are urged to file Veteran's Administration Rehabilitation form No. 1950 for eligibility and entitlement to subsistence payments as early as possible after release from active duty service" said Mr. Emmett F. McGraw, chief of the veterans guidance center at the University, in a recent interview.

Mr. McGraw explained that often veterans are told to wait until they enter school before filing for educational and training benefits under the service men's readjustment act, public law No. 346.

However, he continued, if they wait until entering school there is a delay in securing a certificate on eligibility and entitlement and in receipt of subsistence payments, therefore this should be done as soon as possible.

Wants Red Cross Men

Any men who have had Red Cross training or experience are asked to contact Dean Onthank, dean of personnel administration, as soon as possible.

The help of these men is needed in advisory ways and would be appreciated very much.

C. G. Howard Declares Lack of Experience Is Greatest Bar to American Thinking

By DOROTHY THOMPSON
"When talking about Russia, France, or England be sure you know your facts," urged Charles G. Howard, professor of law, when he spoke yesterday morning at the ASUA assembly in McArthur court.

"Don't trust rumors, dispel suspicion, and, after reading newspaper headlines, reserve judgment," he continued.

Howard, recently returned from the European theater of operations where he served as a major with the army in military government. He feels that "the American public has very little accurate information concerning military government in Germany."

Experience Limited

Howard remarked on America's very limited experience in occupying other people's lands. To offset this, an extensive study of occupational troops in Germany after World War I was made. This report proved that ordinary combat officers were not suited for the performance of military government duties. Because of these findings, a special group of men were picked and schooled to carry out this vital task, he said.

He described the process of turning out "a rotund banker and a college professor, with an intellectual stoop" to resemble Apollos graduated from West Point. Following this basic training course, the officers were sent to different universities throughout the nation to study Germany and German language. Each of the men studied

Attendance to Decide Trophy Winners; Houses Must Submit Lists to Dean

For the first time since 1943, women's living organizations will again be eligible to compete for the three trophies given for the best attendance of Dads on Dad's weekend, February 2 and 3.

The Nordblad trophy, given to the living organization with the highest proportion of Dads registering; the Shaw trophy awarded to second place winners, and the Lauregaard trophy for the living organization having the most freshmen Dads will all be presented at half-time of the Oregon - Washington basketball game, February 2.

Women Only

The last winners in 1943 were: Norblad trophy, Pi Beta Phi; Shaw trophy, Phi Gamma Delta; and Lauregaard trophy, Alpha Xi Delta. This year the contest will be open only to women's living organizations due to a recent ruling brought about by the unsettled conditions of the mens organizations.

The president of each organization competing for Dad's Day prizes are requested to submit to the dean of mens office, by January 28, a list containing the names of all the Dads eligible under the contest rules stated below who have a daughter in the competing organizations. The list of Dads of freshmen students must be kept separate from the list of other Dads. The total number of Dads listed shall be the base for determining the percentage of Dads in attendance.

Regulations Given

The contest rules have been drawn up as follows: Only Dads of members of a living organization are counted.

1. The dads of fraternity women who live in the halls of residence are to be credited to such halls for the purpose of the competition.
2. The dads of fraternity women who live with parents or relatives in Eugene and not actually living in their respective houses or halls are not included in their membership for purposes of this competition.
3. Out-of-town dads of members not living in the organization would be counted.
4. Only such dads as are of

Bowen Praises Balzac's Ability

French Writer Rated Great Literary Novelist

By Bill Whitelock

Showing that Balzac had an extravagant and extraordinary imagination, Dr. Ray P. Bowen opened the winter term of the University lecture series last night.

Balzac, at the age of 30, was capable of a greatness in the understanding of human emotions and actions that he never had at any other period in his life, the head of the romance languages department said. And this understanding of human nature has caused him to be rated as one of the greatest literary novelists.

"He presented as many people as possible to form a complete cross-section of life, but even so he missed the extreme personalities of life," asserted Dr. Bowen. Balzac claimed to have created more good men than bad, but he admired a brilliant mind and craftiness in any of his characters.

Human Nature

The number and quality of the men and women put into the frame-

Millrace Revetment Out; Channel Dry

Scene of many Junior Weekend festivals, the University's millrace has become a belated victim of the flood, but, instead of the high water of a short time ago, the channel is almost completely dry because of a revetment that broke early Tuesday morning.

It will take the low waters of the springtime to make the famed water course usable for canoeing and brief swimming sessions, as well as providing power for the Eugene Woolen mills and the Eugene Excelsior company. Both of these companies are now operating on electricity and will continue to do so until repairs can be made to the revetment.

The revetment broke sometime early Tuesday morning just opposite the Judkin's point swale which carried lots of the Willamette back into the main river after a short-cut through Glenwood.

No estimate on the cost of repairs has been made, pending closer study of the break. Three years ago it took $8,000 to undo the damage of the flood. It is not expected the project now facing the industries will go that high, as bedrock lies in the area and repairs will not have to run as deep into the earth.
