Ducks Migrate Today For Husky Net Series

Basketeering Ducks leave on the first lap of their scheduled trip to Seattle today, and an encounter on the hardwoods of the University of Washington pavilion, where Huskies are assuming the role of hosts for two weekend settos.

Coach Hobby Hobson pronounced his team in much better condition for the fray than it has been so far this season. Recent injuries and attacks of illness have faded into a quiet net-swishing background.

Thursday's Intramural Schedule BASKETBALL

4:00 Phi Delta Theta "A" vs. Campbell Club "A"

4:45 Theta Chi "A" vs. Sherry Ross "A"

On Wings Today

Webfoots will board a plane today in Portland for the 200-mile trip to the jumping-off port for Asiatic areas. The short travel time is also expected to aid the Ducks in their battle away from home.

Husky Coach "Hee" Edmundson has whipped his free-scoring combination into good shape for the two tussles. Freshman LeDon Henson, current top scorer in the Northern division, will be counted on by the Husky coach to continue his scoring spree.

Bob Jorgenson, Husky sophomore forward who set a record of 180 points in one season is a freshman in the Northern division play, also rates high in the sizing-up eyes of Coach Edmundson. The starting lineup for the Huskies will average 6 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Duck Steps

Tomorrow night's game will mark a big attempt by the lemon and green wearers to advance up the ladder in the Northern division competition. Ducks have been up and under in games played this season, with two wins against three losses.

Ducks will be well-rested for the series. This week Coach "Hobby" broke the steady pace for forward Dick Wilkins and pivot man Ken Hays, giving both a day of rest from the game and training grind.

Captain Bob Hamilton is still not ready for full-scale action. The plucky guard, one of the leading scorers in the conference last season, is still troubled by an old leg injury, slowing down the super-speed leader of the casaba squad.

Traveling Squad

Coach Hobson announced the traveling Webfoot squad will be composed of eight lettermen and three first-year varsity men. Duckling of the crew is freshman Marv Rasmussen, 6-foot 3-inch basket-hitting ace who recently broke into the starting lineup.

The rest of the air-traveling Webfoots are: Bob Hamilton, Reedy Berg, Stan Williamson and Bruce Hoffine, guards; Ken Hays and George Bray, centers; Dick Wilkins, Roy Seeborg, Bob Kuhrli and Luke Balisari, forwards.

40 Months There, Now Happens Here

An irony of fate—maybe the fortunes of war and its aftermath.

Yesterday in the men's gymnasium the Beta Theta Pi intramural basketball quintet was tangling a five from the Sigma Phi Epsilon house. There was a flailing elbow under the bucket on a rebound shot. Two men went up for the falling leather, one came down in time to catch the elbow under his eye.

The man who caught the elbow, Paul Smithrud, carries a lot of significance in the accident. For 40 months during World War II the returned veteran jumped from Australia to Port Moresby, New Guinea, to the Schoten Islands, to Leyte, Mindoro, Luzon in the Philippines, finally through the campaign at Okinawa, without a scratch from hot lead and scrap iron of the Japanese.

"Now I have to get a five-stitch cut," Smithrud grumbles.

Track Colonel Repeats Call For Hidden Field Athletes

Division of the track squad into specialty groups; mainly, sprint men, distance men, high and low hurdles, and field men; was accomplished Wednesday afternoon by veteran mentor Colonel Bill Hayward. Even though twenty-three harriers were forced to work out indoors because of weather conditions, Hayward sent both distance and sprint men through their paces with a rugged workout. Starts were in order for more than a dozen sprinters while half milers and milers turned their attention to speed in addition to endurance.

Few Regulars

Although 39 trackmen have indicated their intention of turning out for the varsity squad only a score have been working out this week. Many of the vacant positions are being filled by the host of newcomers, however, at the present time no pole vaulters have signed up for the squad and both center and furlong positions are understaffed, especially in experience.

One of the weakest positions on the squad was strengthened considerably with the turnout of broad jumper Clifford Johnson, a 23'6" man from Centralia high. Another newcomer who is expected to develop during the season is John Scott, a 2:02 half miler from East Denver high, Denver, Colorado.

Warm-ups were issued to the following experienced cindermen: Jack Meekle, high hurdler; Dale Porter, mile; and Howard Frary, shotput.

Colonel Develops

Colonel Hayward emphasized that the squad is undergoing developing work at the present time in preparation for conference competition this spring. As pre-season training continues time trials and daily workouts will be necessary in order to pick out the top men for positions on the relay squad and single berths for starting honors in dual competition.

The veteran mentor continues to issue a call for trackmen to bolster the quad which is desperately in need of material to fill the depleted slots. Those interested, whether experienced or not, should contact the Colonel in his office at McArthur court Friday afternoon.

Coed Splashers Prep For Meets

The time has come when all good female splashers make their debut on the campus. The intramural swimming meets are soon to begin here in Gerlinger pool, February 6 and 13.

This annual event will feature everything from the dog paddle to the more complicated forms of swimming. A diving contest for flip and twist artists has also been arranged.

Swim Meet

Individuals and teams will compete for the swimming honors, the best swimmers from the two meets then being invited to swim in the intercollegiate telegraphic meet on February 20 and 27.

All swimmers who are interested in the oncoming intramurals should report to the Gerlinger pool at 6:30 p.m. February 6 and 13. The contests will begin promptly at 7:00.

In order to enter the meet each team must have at least four practices. It will be best to begin practice now, in order that everyone may have sufficient time to insure their practices. Heart checks will be another "must" for those who have not already had them.

These meets are not only for those interested in competitive swimming, but also for those who enjoy watching. We urge everyone to come and root for their team.

For any further information concerning the meets, call Bev. Benet 386, swimming manager.
