The election procedures were directed by Waldo Schumacher, professor of political science, and faculty representative of the election, Janet Douglas, president of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, Martha Thorsland, treasurer of Phi Theta, junior women's honorary, Ann Burgess, president of the sophomore women's honorary, Kwama, and Bill Craig, brother of Jack Craig.

Organizations Report Gains In Dimes Drive

Women Vie With Men In Campaign For Funds

With the March of Dimes campaign ending Thursday, Eileen Riemer, head of the University drive, announces that reports are just beginning to come in from houses and groups on the campus as well as business organizations which are cooperating in the drive.

New means of collecting the money are now being put into use, such as the fine for a tardy appearance at mealtime enforced at the Alpha Delta Pi house.

Contest Set

Each women's living organization was officially notified of the contest with the men by a mock telegram written by Dagmar Shanks. Ann Budiselick and Vivian Gauld arranged the window display at the Co-op advertising the campus campaign. Five girls from Highland house, headed by Lee Lauderdale, have volunteered to contact members of the faculty.

To reach the campus goal of $1800, Eileen Riemer urges, "Remember, a dime a day, every day."

Give Receipts

The March of Dimes representatives in each of the campus organizations are asked by Miss Riemer to bring the contributions to the cabinet room of the YMCA on Fri-

Students to Give Views On Constitution Changes Dads' Tour Set For Saturday

Assembly Meets Thursday in McArthur Court; Discussion Due On ASUO Reform Proposals

Kwamas Slated to Show UO Points of Interest

University students and faculty members will be given an opportunity to openly discuss the proposed new ASUO constitution and the reform of student government as presented in Tuesday's Emerald at an all-campus ASUO assembly in McArthur court Thursday at 11 a. m.

Ed Allen, ASUO president and member of the committee which revised the present constitution, will act as chairman, introducing the speakers and leading the discussion in which the audience is invited to participate.

All members of the Congress committee must attend an important meeting at noon at the Side today.

Jack Craig, ASUO vice-president and chairman of the University Congress committee, will explain the system of representation proposed in the new plan of a University Congress as compared to the present system of class representation on the executive council.

The organization of the Congress will be outlined by Marguerite Wittwer, Emerald managing editor and committee member.

Miss Young Talks

Anita Young, senior representative on the executive council, will discuss the duties of the officers of the ASUO, and Robert Campbell, committee member, will explain the duties of the Congress as prescribed in the by-laws of the proposed constitution.

Following the explanatory speeches, all phases of the constitution discussed will be open for discussion.

The student body will accept or reject the new government at special elections to be announced later.

Oregon Dads visiting the University next weekend will become acquainted with familiar campus landmarks and buildings by taking a campus tour under the leadership of Kwama members Saturday afternoon.

Beginning in front of Johnson hall at 4 o'clock, students and their fathers will cover all the points of interest in a 45 minute trip covering old and new campus.

From Johnson hall, the group will go to Gerlinger where they will visit the lounge. From Gerlinger the tour will go to the library where dads will see the browsing room and the various exhibits. The art museum will be next on the list, from where the group will go to Condon hall to the museum of natural history. On the old campus, the tour will pass the Pioneer father and visit the art school. They will also see the Oregon seal and Dads' gates.

"The tour will give fathers an opportunity to see some of the University's interesting spots which they would not be apt to visit on a quick trip to the campus," said Helen Hicks, co-chairman of the tour.

Students in need of housing for their fathers have been asked to contact Edith Goldstein, emergency housing chairman.

Spanish Picture Slated In Chapman Tonight

"The Wave" (Redes), a picture of particular interest to students of Spanish, will be shown tonight in 207 Chapman hall from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. This is a Mexican filmed and produced picture with Spanish dialogue and English titles.

GENE EDWARDS

Veteran to Take Dancing Role In Current Guild Production

By SHIRLEY ANDERSON

From the famous bloodless battle of Kiska to a musical review in Norway went the army way of Gene Edwards, a former student at the University who recently returned to civilian life.

Edwards is taking part in the current University Theater Guild production "School for Husbands," in which he will portray Harlequin, a nimble-footed comic. He will be featured in two dances, one solo and the other with Pat King, freshman member of the Theater Guild. The play is scheduled for February 14, 15 and 16.

The ex-technical sergeant left the campus in 1941 to enter the army as a paratrooper with the 1st Special Service force. This small "dash-and-run" outfit hit Kiska as their first assignment and were the first troops to enter Rome, after participating in the Anzio beachhead landing. Spearheading the invasion into southern France was their next undertaking, succeeded by guard duty over the channels and following the 3rd army into Germany.

"Ours was the job of moving the hidden gold from the salt mines," said Edwards, "and never have I seen a more concentrated mass of artillery!" The removal of gold plus the rounding up of several Nazi big-wigs were some of the duties assigned to the combat unit after it ceased its airborne infantry workings.

Edwards' prize piece of army experience came after VE day, when he began the organization and direction of a 16-piece orchestra. This regimental band accompanied the unit from France to Norway, where the group handled the evacuation of Germans. At first his personal interest and a side issue, the orchestra soon developed into a full-time occupation for the musician. The band played for all the regimental dances, including the annual ball for the ambassador and commanding general.

Yell Ideas Urged As Contest Closes

At the end of the second day of the rally squad yell contest, nine new yells were submitted; but since then only a few have been submitted each day. The rally squad, as well as the students on the campus, agree that Oregon's rooting section is in need of new yells. The contest is the means by which this much-needed change can take place.

Today is the last day that yells may be submitted. The following suggestions for contestants were given by the squad:

(1) The words Oregon, Ducks, Webfoots, Team, etc., may be worked individually or collectively to make up a yell.

(2) The yells may be of the chanting variety or to the tune of a well known song (preferably short).

(3) The yell may be of the echo type which can be used in the seating arrangement such as is used at the basketball games.

"Today is the last day to submit your ideas and win one of the three prizes," Mickey Davies, yell king, said. The prize winning yells will be introduced at the half time of Friday night's game. The prizes
