we cannot, through a smaller body such as the executive council, exert such pressure now that our representatives on the council represent our views, how can we expect to do so with a group of 20 or 30 representatives? How can we expect to establish a more efficient organization with 50 or 60 members, than we now have with 10 or 12?

Questionable Duties

Assuming that student interest is aroused, and a capable group of representatives selected, just what will be the duties of the congress? According to the proposed constitution, the congress will have regulatory powers over various and sundry campus organizations. Just what the term "regulatory" means, no one knows, probably not even the members of the congress committee. Unless there is enough business for the congress to transact, interest will lag, and the need for a congress, if indeed there is any, will no longer exist.

As fast as is indicated now by the terms of the constitution, the congress will be a mere ratifying body, most of the power being vested in the ASUO president. Is it insuring a more democratic system to vest almost all appointive power in the president, subject only to ratification by the congress?

The improvements in election policy submitted in the constitution, are admirable. Why is it not also provided that student body cards be punched after voting, and voting booths made obligatory?

If we adopt a new constitution we will be setting the pace for student body government in years to come. The matter deserves serious, thoughtful, intelligent consideration.

POWDER BURNS

there was fear—a longing—a vague yearning, and unrest.

And the ocean was the same that day. It was gray and sullen and uneasy . . . there were no waves but a swelling—a subsiding—a grumbling in the reefs.

It came up from the ocean to the tents.

It was prelude and prologue and no sanity between—a million hints of nothing—an ocean in a stream—an avalanche of calm unheard—foreseen.

ROOSEVELT'S BIRTHDAY

AN INSPIRING EXAMPLE OF ACHIEVEMENT DESPITE HANDICAP

Because Franklin Roosevelt himself had long suffered from infantile paralysis, he was zealously devoted to extending research toward completely conquering the disease . . . and to the Warm Springs Foundation whose facilities can aid those already stricken. The man who became president in the face of so great a handicap appreciated all the more the value of completely restored health, and the need for an institution which would make necessary therapy available to all. Until infantile paralysis smites someone dear to you, you cannot realize how tragic it is. May you never know! But to help those whom it has already claimed, give generously . . . Join the March of Dimes.
