

Dr. Hanke Opens International Festival Today

Registration Starts At YWCA House

The YWCA and YMCA International Festival will start its schedule this morning at 10:30 when registration begins at the YWCA house. Opening at the YWCA house, 11 o'clock will be Dr. Lewis Hanke, director of the Hispanic foundation in the Library of Congress, who will speak on "Education As a Tool for Peace."

The International Festival is an observation of a world-wide interest since students in other countries hold similar meetings with the same idea in mind; that of better cooperation with one another in helping world friendship, not only among students but among countries, too.

The Osburn hotel will be the scene of the luncheon to be held at 12:15. Dr. Gaston Vandermeersche, Belgian student and former member of the French underground, and sponsored by the World Student Service Fund, will be the guest speaker, choosing as his subject, "What Is Happening To Colleges and Student Life In Europe Today."

Discussions

The general discussion topic of the three discussion groups to be held from 2:00 to 3:15 p.m. will be "What Can I Do As An Individual Student To Promote World (Please Turn to Page Seven)

Speaker Says U.S. Faces Changes in Latin Relations

By BEVERLY JAMES

"All honeymoons must end someday," remarked Dr. Lewis Hanke, director of the Hispanic foundation in the library of congress, in an address at Friendly hall last night.

"We are approaching a new phase of internationalism," he stated. "The going will be tougher and there will be more competition. Just when we are slacking off, England, France, Russia and Spain come back into the field."

"We now have world responsibility," continued Dr. Hanke, "When we are trying to make ourselves known to other nations, we cannot spend so much time with South America."

Dr. Hanke mentioned three important points that would affect our relationship with South America. He said the competition will be keener, congressional vigilance will be sharper, and, in view of the larger world, Latin America will be smaller.

"I am not in sympathy," stated Dr. Hanke, "with those people who believe we wasted a lot of money in Latin American relationships."

He said that we could have spent 30 billion dollars instead of three billion had it not been for the principle of non-intervention, but we would have spent a lot and not gone very far.

With the universities continuing their international relationships and the various federal agencies, the United States could carry on cooperative enterprises with Latin America, said Dr. Hanke. Stressing Inter-Americanism, he stated that we should use our influence

French Club Changes Meet to Gerlinger Hall

Students of the First Year French Club will not meet at Westminster House as scheduled. Instead the club will convene in the upstairs lobby of Gerlinger hall. Refreshments will be served and all French students are urged to attend and bring their friends.

George Found; Plans Glee Debut In McArthur Court Tonight at 9

Ted Hallock's Orchestra to Provide Music For All-Campus Dance In McArthur Court

"George," the much publicized missing person of the Frosh Glee, was found yesterday by Fred Goodspeed, president of the freshman class. George will make his debut in campus society tonight when he is introduced at the Frosh Glee, planned for 9 to 12 p.m. in McArthur court.

Goodspeed's Find

For the past week an unidentified person, attired in a white sheet and cowl, has made a daily search of the campus for "George." Finally a $25 reward was offered for any one finding George, dead or alive. Fred Goodspeed was the recipient of the reward and he will make the introduction of George tonight.

Ted Hallock and his twelve piece orchestra will provide the music for the all-campus dance. Short silks are in order.

"Piccaninny France" is the theme for the affair, and how the theme has been carried out in the decorations will remain a secret until tonight.

Tickets for the first social function of the class of '49 have been on sale since Wednesday at the Side, Co-op and several booths on the campus. They will also be sold at the door. Price of the tickets is $1.20.

Committee Named

Plans for the Frosh Glee have been under the general chairmanship of Trudi Chernis, dark-haired journalism major from Portland. Miss Chernis has been active as publicity chairman of Homecoming, Emerald reporter, and was also elected Wednesday to the position of reporter of AWS.

The rest of the committee assisting Miss Chernis includes Prudy McCrosky and Kinnaird Gregg, decorations; Janet Beigal and Kathy Dobson, publicity; Donald Dole and Mary Jane Reeves, tickets.

Ann Woodworth is chairman of the clean-up committee; Janis Lee

Hansen and Barbara Blinco are co-chairmen of entertainment; and Beth Basler is in charge of securing patrons and patronesses.

The committee for the Frosh Glee was chosen by the elected officers of the freshman class, and have worked in conjunction with them. The officers are Fred Goodspeed, president; Jim McClintock, vice-president; Collen Mariott, secretary; and Jean Williams, treasurer.

Board to Consider Education Center

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 22—(UP)—Gov. Earl Snelh has called the members of the state emergency board to meet in Klamath Falls Saturday to consider a request for funds with which to operate the marine barracks facility there as an education center for war veterans.

No estimate has been made as to the cost involved in the operation of the new educational institution, but $100,000 has been suggested as an absolute minimum.

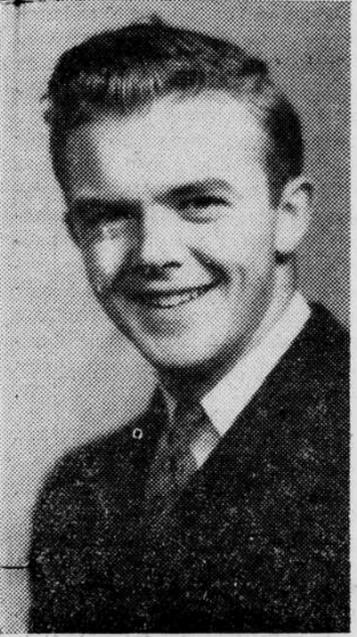

The barracks, which have been offered to the state free of any cost, can accommodate some 1200 students.

YEOMAN MEETING

There will be a meeting for all Yeomen 7 p.m. Monday at Gerlinger hall. Plans for the "Spring Fever" dance will be made.

CAMPUS WOMEN LEADERS

Red Cross Campaign Goal Set At $1500

The 1946 Red Cross drive, initiating Oregon's campaign to raise $1500, will begin on the campus Monday, Geneva Davis, chairman of the drive, announced yesterday. The drive, which will be represented in each house by one chairman, will strive to solicit one dollar from each individual in the living organization. The first organization to reach this 100 per cent goal will receive the Red Cross cup.

To chart the progress of the drive for Oregon students to see, a miniature house will be built in the Co-op, with construction progressing as funds are contributed. When the first $500 is recorded, the floor and foundation will be established, and at $1000, the walls will be erected. When the all-campus goal of $1500 is attained, the house will be completed. A booth will also be placed in the Co-op for students living off campus who wish to contribute to the drive.

Mary Landry, president of the Red Cross chapter of the Red Cross, has urged all students to make this drive a success, for, declared Miss Landry, "the end of the war does not mean that the Red Cross needs your dollars any less."

Miss Landry pointed out that the Red Cross helped to save many people from the disasters of the Eugene floods, and with financial support from students from the University, will continue to help those in need.
