

A D Pi Betty Swan Chosen Sweetheart of Navy Carrier

Betty Swan, freshman in Liberal Arts, was notified recently that she had been selected "Sweetheart of the Antietam," a 30,000 ton aircraft carrier. Miss Swan was selected from a total of nearly two hundred pictures which were submitted by men of the ship as the typical "lady back home."

She received the notification of this honor from the selection committee of the Antietam on behalf of their commanding officer.

When the Antietam returns to the west coast, she will be flown to her home port and receive the formal honor due to the sweetheart of an aircraft carrier. As one of the sweethearts of ships in the Pacific area, she will be one of the candidates for the title of "Sweetheart of the Fleet."

Miss Betty Swan, known as "Swanny," comes from South Pasadena, California, and entered the University of Oregon last fall. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Her future plans include a career in medicine and, of course, the celebration which will be given in her honor when the U.S.S. Antietam returns to the States.

Yale Professor To Talk Friday

Pollard's Appearance Sponsored By Sigma Xi

Dr. Ernest Charles Pollard, associate professor of physics at Yale university, will discuss "Elementary Particles of Nature" at a lecture to be held on the University campus Friday night, April 5. The local chapter of Sigma Xi, national science honorary, is sponsoring Dr. Pollard's appearance, which will be open to the public.

Pollard Explains

Dr. Pollard will explain the properties of the proton, the neutron, and the mesotron, along with the process of research involved in the discoveries of these various elementary particles and the present and future interest in their study. Dr. Pollard will also discuss high energy physics, cosmic ray research, and the origin of solar energy.

Dr. Pollard was born in Yunnan, China, in 1906, and educated in England, receiving his bachelor of arts degree from Cambridge in 1928 and his Ph.D. from the same university in 1932. He was a student at Shuttleworth from 1928 until 1930. Following this, he became an assistant lecturer at Leeds university in Leeds, England.

Came to U. S.

He came to the United States as a Sterling fellow at Yale in 1933 and in 1936 he became an instructor in physics at Yale. In 1938 he was promoted to assistant professor and in 1943 to associate professor. He has held fellowships with the physical society in the United States and with the physical society of London.

Dr. Pollard's special field is nuclear physics, concerning the transmutation of light nuclei by alpha particles and the scattering of alpha particles by light nuclei.

Vaccinations Urged Immediately - Miller

Additional information has been received by the student health service regarding the smallpox vaccinations, stressing the fact that anyone vaccinated more than a year ago should be vaccinated immediately. Dr. Fred Miller stated that he had been informed of a nurse in Seattle who had been vaccinated two years previously being assigned a smallpox case, and contracting the disease upon contact.

The kind of smallpox now prevalent is a very potent one and every precaution should be taken, he added. Since men in the armed forces have been stricken with the disease when in the Orient even after the vaccinations received at their time of induction, this matter cannot be taken too seriously, and students should make arrangements to receive their shots as soon as possible.

Student Marauder Caught in Break-in

An attempted robbery of the Co-op was discovered at 11 p.m. Wednesday night by the campus night watchman K. E. Cox. According to Mr. M. F. Clain, manager of the Co-op, a 21-year-old University student had sawed the lock off the south door with a hack saw and had entered.

Cox called D. L. Lewis, superintendent of the physical plant. Lewis then phoned McClain who came to the Co-op. The intruder stayed to help find the burglar; a short time later he was questioned as to why he was near the Co-op at the time of the unauthorized entrance. He was taken to the city hall where he admitted breaking into the building.

This is the first time that the Co-op has been broken into since it was moved to its present location.

Noted Ethnologist Discusses Malay

The second series of the 1945-46 Condon lectureship opened last night at Chapman hall with the first of two addresses by Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, noted ethnologist from the University of Chicago. The discussions concern the peoples and problems of Malaysia.

"The next great discovery in the world of antiquity will probably be in the Malayan peninsula," stated Dr. Cole in his initial talk on the culture of Malaysia. Using colored slides to provide background material for his final lecture Thursday evening, he explained that he was actually crowding eighteen lectures into two. In Tuesday night's session he traced the population movements into the Malayan archipelago and the infiltration of the various peoples into particular sections of the area.

Dr. Cole asserted that the result of British development of tin and rubber in Malaysia was "questionable." Expanding upon this, he remarked, "The Malayan doesn't want to be a coolie for anyone."

In his second address Thursday evening he will treat the problem of Malaysia in the post-war world.

Dr. Harry Newburn, University president, introduced the speaker, to whom he referred as "an outstanding American anthropologist." Mrs. Cole was also introduced to the audience. She is the author of a book on Malaysia entitled, "Savage Gentlemen," dedicated, according to Cole, to himself.

Infirmary Lists Eight

The day after registration eight victims were marooned in the pill palace. Earliest of the students to enter was Dick McClintic, registering at 7:45 Monday morning, and second was Alpha Gam, Norma Figone at 7:30 that evening.

Probably the main complaint of these "goldbrickers," is nervous exhaustion after registration. Those in now are Carol Farmer, Pat Darby, Norma Figone, Evelyn Baker, Dick McClintic, George Bartholick, Joseph Hall, and Don Reish.

Although an American youth must have reached his 16th birthday to solo a plane, there is no minimum age at which he may start flying instructions. Provided he has the consent of his parents and the instructor considers him ready.
