

College Congress Meet To Discuss 'Student's Stake In Atomic Age'

The Northwest Student congress sponsored by Reed college and the Portland League of Women Voters, will meet at Reed college April 5 and 6 to discuss "The Student's Stake in the Atomic Age." Lois McConkey, senior in liberal arts, and Lloyd Freses, junior in business administration, have been appointed by ASUO President Ed Allen to represent the University at the congress. The appointments were made upon advice of the faculty.

Initial Conference

This congress, the first of its kind, will be organized around five basic objectives: control of atomic energy and preservation of peace, promotion of social and economic welfare, promotion of the welfare of backward peoples, promotion of world-wide human rights, and establishment of effective means for peaceful settlement of international disputes. The Oregon delegates have been asked to discuss the second and last topics.

Questions Asked

Three questions are to be asked about each of these topics in order to draw out and crystallize student thinking (1) What form of world organization do we need to achieve these objectives? (2) to what extent does the present UNO meet these needs? and (3) what changes are required in UNO to meet these needs?

The schedule of meeting of the congress will be divided into section meeting. At this time the delegates from colleges of the northwest will discuss various phases of the topics. Reports for each of these sections will be submitted to the general assembly of the congress for further consideration and approval. It is expected that these reports will then be condensed into a form which can be submitted to the vote of the entire student body of each of the colleges after the congress has finished its work.

Representatives Called

Although all the representatives will be called upon to vote on all of the resolutions of the congress and must be familiar with the problems of the various sections, each delegate is expected to be well-versed in the section to which he has been assigned. Each section will consist of from 10 to 15 delegates chosen to provide a more or less uniform representation of the various types of institutions which have been invited to participate. For each section, the League of Women Voters will provide a moderator, who will act as an informal chairman. The League does not intend that the moderators shall "direct" the opinion of the group. The moderators have been chosen because of their experience in college teaching or because of their special qualifications regarding the particular subject matter. Official U.S. army films of the three atomic bomb explosions will be shown during the congress.

Colleges Represented

Colleges represented include: Cascade college, College of Idaho, College of Puget Sound, Eastern Oregon College of Education, Eastern Washington College of Education, Gonzaga university, Oregon College of Education, Pacific university, Reed college, University of British Columbia, University of Oregon, University of Portland, Whitworth college, Maryhurst college, Montana State university, North Idaho College of Education, St. Helen's hall junior college, Southern College of Education, University of Washington, Whitman college, Willamette university and others.

In a letter to President Newburn from Reed college it is stated that the press and radio have been most cooperative concerning publicity about the congress. At 8:30 p.m. Saturday, a public mass meeting will be held and addresses will be made by national speakers. This meeting will be broadcast.

Business Meeting Set

An Emerald business meeting will be held Thursday at 4 o'clock in the business office of the Emerald. Solicitors, layout, and office staff workers who have had previous experience on the paper are urged to report.

Journalism Meet Scheduled by SDX

Plans for the first postwar national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, were received Tuesday by Leonard L. Jermain, instructor in journalism and adviser to the University chapter.

Professional chapters of the fraternity maintained their activity schedules during the war years. Undergraduate chapters are rapidly reorganizing and a full turn-out of delegates is expected at the convention, according to Barry Paris, INS editor-in-chief and president of the fraternity.

E. Palmer Hoyt Jr., now a UP correspondent in Asia, and Buck Buchwach, managing editor of the Mid-Pacifican, represented the University chapter at the last national convention in New Orleans in the fall of 1941.

The 1946 meeting will take place in Chicago in November.

"Tomorrow" Slated On Radio Series

"Tomorrow," by Bud Schulberg and Jerome Lawrence, is being produced by Don Moss on the University Workshop from 4 to 4:30 on station KOAC Thursday afternoon.

Other members of the cast include Fred Beckwith, John MacDonald, Roberta Quigley, and Virginia Woods.

The play is based on statements of Thomas Mann. According to Marvin Krenk, director of speech and radio, it concerns itself mostly with what the returning veterans expect—freedom and liberty.

This term a student staff is handling the radio programs. The staff consists of Ted Hallock, program director; Mary Margaret Lucas, continuity; Sue Welch Carlton, music director; and Bob Kirkpatrick, publicity.

This is extra curricular work with no credit. These students have finished a number of radio courses and are doing this work because of an added interest in the subject.

Convention Report
of interest to those attending will be the report on the national convention held recently in Atlantic City, New Jersey, to be given by Martha Thorsland, Oregon's delegate to the conference. While attending this convention, Martha learned many of the new plans of the national YWCA and became acquainted with its leading and prominent members.

Machine Revolution

The cries of many bitter hearts were heard with the entrance of the Machine Age. Many more of the best in the business will be joining the manna lines because of the entrance of new instrument. This simple shining horn takes over the work of a complete brass section; one can even sense the faint note of a flute in the distance. This is very impressive.
