

New Fashion Trends Show Coeds Are Good Neighbors

By NANCY BASE

If your idea of Latin-American beauty is Carmen Miranda in, among other things, a fruit basket and two-inch clogs, or the plump tall-combed ladies waving fans on cigar box covers, then you have yet to see our comely co-eds in the latest South-of-the-border fashions. This year the new styles in summery clothes will definitely have the Latin-American touch in style, color, and in fabrics. We'll try to give you some of the inside dope.

Feminine Playclothes

For the sunshine and nice weather that Spring term is bound to bring, you will want the latest styles in playclothes and cotton dresses. Make or buy your play suit of a style that is completely feminine. All-in-one suits with a camisole-top, big, blousy bloomer-style shorts, and short ruffled play-skirts will be just the thing for a game of tennis or just plain loafing in the sun.

Clever New Tricks

A camisole-topped cotton dress, ruffled below the waist and with a matching capelet will serve many sun-bathing purposes. Try a few of the latest tricks such as a longer bodice, a circular, ballet-length skirt, a romantic batiste top, all-over diagonal tucks, and any of the many new sleeve variations for your around-the-campus cottons. Ruffles and extreme fullness really are the fashion accents in style.

Colors Important

Light, airy colors have always been the high spots in spring fashions, and this year, more than ever, color is to be the thing. Bright color combinations of shades of fushia and blues, shades of green, and the dark, cool allure of unadorned black are tops in fashion. Crisp, fresh white touched with a single bright splash of color will be just right for day or evening wear.

New Color Appears

A new dazzling, pale gold color—is named Aztec Sun. High-keyed and blond, it's a subtle contrast with gold jewels and a tan-kissed skin. Mexican and Aztec prints for your dirndl skirt will set off a full, white, low-cut peasant blouse to the best advantage. Wear plaids and neutrals, zigzag stripes, darks and lights and striking contrasting shades to appear in the spotlight.

Take a tip from the South-Americans and this summer be cool, fresh and alluringly feminine in your new-woman wardrobe. Hasta la vista.

Social Notes

By Bev Pitman

The spring term social whirl is gradually gaining momentum. Talk about desserts! This week the campus has gone all out for them, with a scheduled list of fourteen—just take a look below for tonight's program.

Omega hall—Alpha Omicron Pi Theta Chi—Kappa Phi Psi—Kappa Sig—Alpha Phi Sigma Phi Epsilon—Alpha Delta Pi

Beta—Tri Delt Zeta hall—Highland house Campbell Club—University house

Delta Zeta—Yeomen SAE—Delta Gamma DU—Alpha Xi Delta Phi Delta Theta—Theta Chi Psi—Gamma Phi Beta Sigma Alpha Mu—Hendricks hall

Pi Phi—Delta Tau Delta Alpha Gamma Delta is also holding an open house tonight, and Chi Omega is having a preference night. This will really be a busy Wednesday.

Four Firesides Friday

Four firesides are slated for Friday night—Chi Psi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Campbell Club.

Only one house dance will be held Saturday night—Highland house. However, the coming activities promise to more than make up for the lack of this week.

Thinking ahead, there's the Junior Prom, Mortar Board formal, and many house dances. So bring out the sun and cultivate those alluring tans.

Schwering Day Slated April 11

Hazel Schwering day will be observed in all women's houses on the campus April 11, according to the dean of women's office. Exchange dinners will be held to raise funds for the Hazel Schwering memorial scholarship honoring the late dean of women.

Each women's house will entertain 20 women from other houses and brief programs have been scheduled.

A silver tea for Eugene townspeople will be given later in the month and contributions received there will be added to the fund. The $500 scholarship will be awarded a junior woman who would not otherwise be able to finish school.

The day is being sponsored by the heads of houses organizations on the campus. Mrs. Perrie L. Dolph of Portland has been named permanent chairman of the scholarship fund.

Smokey Reviews UO Life

I tell you, spring term practically throws me. And with this lame foot I absolutely can't keep tab on everything that's happening. For instance last weekend—there I was nursing my rheumatism while everyone else party-picnicked-partied.

Monday morning I went down to Doc's and had a long chat with Al, though. He sort of caught me up on what I'd missed. Still can't get over the boys who sunk a hundred dollars in beer—and all at once, too. What I want to know is where did they find it, and how many sandwiches did they have to buy to get it? How come the current shortage around here? Did the northern branch fall off their hay wagon?

There's Always Friday

Friday night it seemed like I was sitting in a vacuum. People went off in all four directions towards the "outskirts of town." And so early, too. I hear the cover charge starts at eight. It's me for the simple life with a water chaser.

As Al and I were chewing the rag, Fritz came along with some discouraging news. More dogs on fraternity row, and conditions are so crowded now. Think it's about time we approached the planting commission about more trees.

Saturday, Too

Saturday was really good though. Oregon's long cloistered coeds took to the great outdoors. Back in the spring of '44 and '45 I thought they'd given up such fetching sports as baseball, tennis, etc. But noticed they were "fetching" again Saturday.

So Saturday afternoon wore on into evening and another siege of "get out of town before it's too late."

That Cover Charge, Again
You know I went to a picnic once. That cured me. I don't mind a cozy fire in an evenly heated room, but "ah wilderness" is not for me.

After Hours

Sometimes I almost feel sorry for the feminine half of college life. As Al was telling me, the fun really didn't get started until after closing hours Saturday. What broke loose then, I'm too much of a—you know what Greek letter fraternity gentleman—to say. But frankly speaking, the boys were whooping it up.

Sunday morning I felt fine due to my pious life.

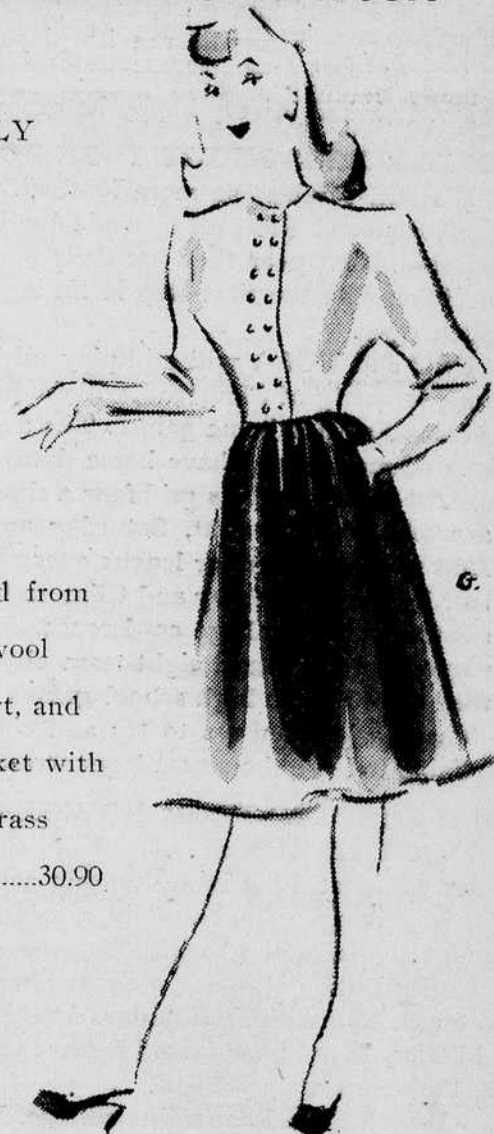

French Club to Meet In Gerlinger Tonight

French conversations, songs, and records will be the featured program of the French club meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in Gerlinger hall. The meeting will be entirely conducted in French.

Members of the faculty and the French national honorary society have been invited by members of the first year French class to participate in the conversation. All visitors interested in the program are invited.
