Linguists Offered Northern Holiday

A vacation plus education is offered to students with a simple speaking knowledge of French at Strathcona lodge, British Columbia, from July 5 to August 19, L. E. Richter, instructor in the Spanish department reported Thursday.

French is the language of the camp, and guests may take courses in French diction and culture as well as courses in Spanish, Russian, and Italian from accredited university instructors. Richter, who has spent a season at the camp, said that students majoring in liberal arts, drama, international relations, and music would be especially interested in the resort. Reservations can be made for the whole season or for a two-week period.

Entertainment Unlimited

The lodge is located in the mountains on the shores of Shawnigan lake and offers excellent recreational facilities such as swimming from a private beach, canoeing, tennis, hiking, and horseback riding. Social gatherings are held in the evenings and all the guests participate in the song fests, folk dancing, plays, and picnics.

Miss Punderson to Speak

Miss Dorothy M. Punderson, who has managed the camp during its nine seasons of operation, will be in 214 Friendly hall at 3 p.m. today to speak to interested students. Films will be shown if the proper sized projector can be located. Miss Punderson has spent many years in personnel work, and she formerly taught French at the University of Minnesota and the College of Puget Sound.

Dr. Staples Talks To Mineral Society

The newly-organized Eugene Agate and Mineral society, composed of non-professional townspeople interested in mineral collecting, cutting, and polishing, met in Condon hall Wednesday evening.

L. W. Staples, assistant professor of geology, gave a short talk on agates. A business meeting was held, and an exhibit of gem stones was shown.

W. D. Smith, head of the geology department, and Dr. Staples, have been elected honorary members of the society and will serve in an advisory capacity.

Students' Wives in Dames Club Contest to Judge Student Libraries

"An excellent opportunity for students' wives to become acquainted in Eugene is afforded by the current membership drive of the Dame's club, an organization comprised of wives of students attending the University," according to Mrs. Alma Heikkola, president of the group and in charge of the drive.

"It is disheartening for a young wife to come to a strange town and pick up the threads of limited social life without knowing other women of her age," Mrs. Heikkola added. "Wives with similar problems and the same perspective, as have the wives of students, have found the club to be an excellent opportunity to make friends and share the same troubles."

Always informal, the club meetings have received the recognition of the national organization, and ratification of its constitution has been received from the organization headquarters in Missouri.

"We hope to have at least 100 members this term, now that the Dames club is a going organization," Mrs. Heikkola said. In addition to their regular meetings, at least one social a month is scheduled.

"During winter term the club rented the local ice arena, and 24 couples turned out for the event. Afterwards, we returned to the recreation hall at Skinner's Butte villa and served hot chili and coffee," Mrs. Heikkola recalled.

Picnics, potlucks, weiner roasts, and a dance are planned for spring term. Those interested in joining the organization may get details by calling Mrs. Heikkola at 2357-W.

Club Invites Coeds To Hike, Picnic

Tomorrow will mark the traditional opening of spring term for outing club members, when the organization will hold a picnic at the Old Homestead. Any students interested in walking and picnicking are invited to be in front of Gerlinger hall at 11:45 a.m. with a "hearty lunch."

The hike will last until 3 p.m. All houses and living organizations are invited to attend, and it is hoped that representatives from all groups will be present to inform members of the forthcoming activities of the outing club.

N.B. Zane Works Shown at Gallery

A representative collection of the works of Nowland Britten Zane, native Oregon artist and for 23 years associate professor emeritus of space arts at the University, is on exhibition in the gallery in the art building. The gallery is open Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Oils, Water Colors, Wood Cuts

The exhibition includes oil paintings, water color paintings, and wood cuts, which draw for their themes from the mountainous regions of Oregon and Alaska with which the artist was familiar.

Professor Zane had toured Japan and was influenced in his painting by the art which he observed in that country.

His paintings are unique for their simple harmony of colors. The artist expressed his love for quiet majesty in nature in scenes of jagged, towering peaks and peaceful mountain lakes done in soft, expressive hues.

After retiring in 1944, he lived in his home at the water's edge of Lake Siltcoos in Oregon, surrounded by the scenes which had inspired his works, until his death in 1945.

The annual student library contest will be sponsored again this year by the Association of the Patrons of the University of Oregon Library, who wish to develop an enthusiasm for books and reading among students. The deadline date has been set at May 10.

This contest is an annual one held to emphasize the importance of books in society. The contest is considered especially important this year in that students are now faced with the problems of peace and an unsettled future.

The total number and money value of the books is deemed unimportant since the books colleges students have in personal libraries are considered only the nucleus of future ones. The selection of the best library will be based on the titles of books as they reflect the broadening interests of the student.

The library should be more than a mere collection of standard books however, in that it should consist of books which have particular meaning for their owner. This meaning may be centered in the literary worth, in subject matter, or in the physical characteristics of a book. The personal library should also indicate a future collection of well-balanced subject material, broadly selected.

You've all heard the story of George, the little ant, who was racing across the top of the cracker box as fast as his little ant legs would carry him.

"What're you running for?" his ant friend asked.

"Dummy, can't you read the sign? It says 'tear across the top!'"
