Resolutions For UNO Get ASUO Limelight

Panel Discussion of PNCC Action To Arouse Student Interest in Atomic Age

A panel discussion of the resolutions reached at the recent Pacific Northwest College Congress, and a balloting of the student body to determine student opinion of the problems facing the UNO, will take place at the regular ASUO assembly in McArthur court at 11, Thursday.

Members of the student panel already chosen are Lloyd Frese, Ted Hallock, Dorothy Bruhn, and Lois McConkey. The remainder of the panel will be named later. Charles Howard, professor of law, will act as moderator, and Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, will be resource man.

Audience Participation

The discussion will take the form of an informal panel with each member explaining one of the resolutions of the Congress and the reason for the formulation of this resolution. Students are urged to interrupt the panel at any time to ask questions or contribute opinions.

The Pacific Northwest College Congress was held on the Reed college campus April 5 and 6.

Sixty-two delegates from 31 colleges and universities in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and British Columbia, participated in the discussion of world problems and the organization of the United Nations security council. Delegates from the University were Lois McConkey and Lloyd Frese.

May Go to UNO

Two delegates from the Northwest will be sent to the meeting of the UNO security council in New York by the Portland League of Women Voters and KGW. The delegates who inform their student body of the resolutions reached and receive the greatest volume of student support will be chosen. (Please Turn to Page Eight)

LOIS McCONKEY

UO candidate to the Northwest Pacific College Congress, urges student attendance to tomorrow's assembly at which PNCC resolutions will be discussed.

UNO Discussion On Agenda Tonight

The problems of the United Nations organization and the resolutions recently adopted by the Pacific Northwest College Congress at Portland will be discussed by the One World club at an open meeting to be held at the YMCA.

Keith Bacon, chairman of the group, said, "These recommendations, the result of student group discussions, show that the rejuvenated post-war student bodies can be an intelligent and progressive influence in world affairs."

"The rosy picture of a fine new world which was painted for us during the war will become reality only if the youth of today work for a firm foundation for their world of tomorrow."

Cougar Nine Arrives Here For Howe Field Opener

By Tommy Wright, Co-sports Editor

Defense of the Crown!

That is the by-word for the University of Oregon's Web-foot baseball team today when they meet the letterman studded nine from Washington State college on Howe field. The game, which starts at 3 p.m., offers the first Northern Division conference competition the University has seen since baseball was chased to the showers by the war in 1943.

Coach Howard "Hobby" Hobson will call on big Hal Saltzman, righthanded letterman from the 1943 championship team, to handle the hurling for the Webfoots in the opener today.

Cougars Offer Threat

The storm clouds which have been gathering in the Palouse country around Pullman, Washington for weeks began moving south yesterday and the Buck Bailey coached Cougars arrived in Eugene at a late hour last night. Boasting seven lettermen in their lineup, the Cougars offer stern warnings to the pennant defending Ducks that they will be strong contenders for the Northern Division title and have strategic plans for wresting the crown from Oregon.

The Ducks have finished up on top of the Northwest heap in the last three seasons of collegiate competition, winning the title in 1941-2-3. There has been no conference baseball played during the past two years.

Prizes for Firsts

Several of the campus side shops and stores are donating prizes for firsts by the Oregon ball team. (Please turn to page five)

Talent Scouts Bait Trap for New Faces

The all-campus talent audition, aimed at discovering heretofore unknown and talented students, will begin at 7:30 tomorrow evening in Guild theater in Johnson hall. According to committee chairmen, the "ASUO assemblies need 'new faces.' Now is your chance to sing, dance, or perform in your special talent. The student assembly committee urges you to be there."

Politz Puddle-Jumper Gets Bumper Bumped

A hit and run car sideswiped an automobile belonging to Charles Politz, senior in journalism, sometime in the early hours of April 10, as the car stood parked on the south side of Eleventh avenue E., between Alder and Kincaid streets, according to police reports.

Politz' car had the rear bumper partially torn and both fenders and running board were smashed. Theodore Fehly, 650 Eleventh avenue E., discovered the damage and notified the owner.

Queen for a day...

Junior Weekend Royalty Candidates Report Today

Tonight at 7 p.m. is the deadline for all women's living organizations to submit the names of their Junior Weekend queen candidate to Virginia Harris, chairman of the queen selection committee, at the Delta Gamma house. To be eligible, candidates must be juniors with a 2.00 cumulative grade point, and have a scholastic junior standing.

Candidates are requested to wear cotton dresses and heels to the first eliminations, which will be held Thursday at 4 p.m. in Alumni hall, Gerlinger, Miss Harris said. From the contestants, eight finalists will be selected for their beauty and personality by a faculty-student judging group.

Pictures of the eight finalists will be posted in the Co-op all day Friday where voting will take place from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. All members of the student body are eligible to vote, but they must present their ASUO cards for punching in order to insure a fair election.

The ballots will be counted by members of Phi Theta, junior women's honorary, but the names of the 1946 State Fair queen and her four princesses will not be announced until a later date.

"It is important that all women's houses submit the names of their candidates to me by 7 p.m. tonight as there is very little time before the eliminations start Thursday," Miss Harris said.

It Just Doesn't Pay

One University student was suspended yesterday by the student disciplinary council for cheating in examinations, Karl W. Onthank, secretary of the group, announced.

Chip-Artists Show Work in Library

A colorful art display composes this month's exhibit in the circulation room of the library. Sculpturing classes under the direction of Miss Jean L. Sutherland, and textile classes under Miss Brownell, associate professor of Interior Design, contributed the majority of the display.

The sculpturing is done in limestone, alder, terra cotta, and plaster. A variety of colors was used and Mrs. Lois Oglesby contributed to this decorative art with a large red specie bird. Miss Solberg, a graduate assistant, is the owner of two small pink horses displaying intricate work. The only limestone figure was done by Estelle Howard.

The textiles are shown in both loose and close weaves, and are all figured. Will Spear of the milliner design elements class shows a piece of his work in contrast to the lighter weaves.

In addition, there are several sketches and a linoleum block print of the Sacred Heart hospital drawn by Louise Rickabaugh.

ARTUR RUBINSTEIN

Possible Sinatra-Rival Lures Bobby-Soxers to Concerts

Artur Rubinstein to Do Same At Igloo; Jukebox No Threat to Polish Pianist

Appearing tonight in McArthur court before Eugene town-folk and University students, Artur Rubinstein, famed Polish pianist, will present a selection of numbers ranging from the classics to the modern. Rubinstein's appearance is sponsored by the Eugene Civic Music association, and his concert is scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m.

This is Rubinstein's ninth consecutive tour of the United States. On his current musical journey across the country the famous Pole will play sixteen concerts with symphony orchestras. He will appear in 50 different cities.

Inspiring Bobby-Soxers

Recently Rubinstein has been having a duel with the jukeboxes of America. He is faintly worried since several Sinatra-type squeals have crept into the applause and bravos which are his normal reception in the concert halls.

The story begins some time ago, when dance-band leader Freddy Martin rendered the opening bars of the Tchaikowsky Piano Concerto in dance rhythm for the jukebox trade. Suddenly the record shops were startled by a run on the Rubinstein recording of the same, with orchestra, in its original non-jukebox form. The sales of the album made Victor history. Recently, describing his concert at the Lewisohn stadium, the New Yorker reported: "He was greeted with applause and cheers as well as with ecstatic squeals of the type Frank Sinatra has been inspiring."

Now Rubinstein is wondering whether the jukebox audience, by (Please Turn to Page Eight)
